BOUGHT CLOTHING IN LOWELL

But the Seller Did Not Learn His Name

The man who was found dead from exhaustion in the woods at North Foxboro, Mass., the day before yesterday, and who it was thought was a resident of Lowell, did not belong here, but there is little or no doubt that he had been in this city or vicinity for a month past.

The body which is now at Foxboro is still unidentified and from the present outlook the body will be consigned to a grave in the potter's field without being identified.

Found in the clothing of the unfortunate man was a business card in Portuguese of Isaac Solitrenik, who conducts a men's furnishing store at 103 Gorham street, this city. The card was printed in Portuguese with the exception of the last line, which gave the location of the store.

It was thought that Mr. Solitrenik might know something of the man and could probably identify him, but when a representative of The Sun called at his store this morning he stated that while he knew the man in question he neither knew his name or anything about him excepting that the man was an Austrian, he having stated in the store that that was his nationality.

Mr. Solitrenik had the following to say to the representative of The Sun who called this morning:

"On Monday, Oct. 30, at about 10 o'clock in the morning, the man to whom you refer came here and asked to to see some pants. I showed him some for $1.98 but he stated that he was a poor man and wanted something cheaper. Eventually I sold him a pair of black pants with a pencil stripe, for which he gave me $1.75. He then looked at a vest and selected one of blue with a white stripe for which he paid 50 cents. He then picked out a collar for which I charged him ten cents, and a bow tie selling at ten cents.

"He asked if he could put on the new pair of pants and going to the rear of the store he made the change and said he would like to have me tie his old pants up in a bundle and he would call for them. The old pants are blue ones and I have them here under the counter waiting for him to call for them.

"Here they are," he said, producing the bundle.

The reporter asked him to open the bundle in order to learn if there was anything in the pockets which might result in the indentity of the man, but an examination of the pockets revealed but two old buttons and two safety pins.

"As regards my card being found on the man's person it is sufficient evidence that the man found dead is the man to whom I refer," continued Mr. Solitrenik, for he asked me for my address in order that if he wanted to send for the pants he might know where to find them and I gave him my business card.

"I held quite a long conversation with him and the gist of it was that he had been working on a farm in the suburbs of Lowell for three weeks or a month and that he had decided to go elsewhere to get work. He did not state exactly where he had been working, but that it cost him five cents on the electric cars to come to this city.

"After making the purchases he told me about his home in Austria and then crossed the street and had his shoes shined. That was the last I saw of him. I would have asked him his name, but did not want to appear inquisitive. He seemed to be in hard luck, but felt confident that he would be able to secure a good job around this city.

"The man appeared to be about 35 or 40 years of age, medium sized with a black moustache. He undoubtedly died of hunger and exposure, finding no work to do, as there is little demand for farm hands at the present time."

SEPARATE TRIAL

For Juvenile Offenders In Police Court

NEW MOVE INAUGURATED TODAY

Judge Hadley Aims to Protect Children

Judge Hadley today inaugurated another "reform" in police court and like all of the court's variations from the old-time custom it is a move in the right direction.

His Honor has completely separated the juvenile session of the police court from the main session, holding it in the second session after the regular session is over and furthermore he has requested the newspapers to refrain from reporting the juvenile sessions except in unusual or extraordinary cases.

Friday is the day for the juvenile session of the police court each week and boys under 17 years of age who are brought before court are tried on that day when there is present a representative of the state board of charity whose duties are to look after the interests of the juvenile offenders. Heretofore the children were taken into court on Friday morning and given a seat on the bench with the women prisoners and allowed to remain there listening to the other cases until their own were called. Then their troubles were rehearsed before a big gallery filled with morbidly curious men, and much publicity was given even to the simplest cases. In many cases a boy who has been before court for some childish prank amounting to little or nothing, has heard from it unpleasantly in later life as have well meaning parents who have often brought boys to court as stubborn children, not with any idea of having them publicly punished but with the intention of effecting their reformation before it is too late. Thus Judge Hadley today decided that henceforth he will hold the juvenile sessions entirely separate from the regular police court and he asked Deputy Welch to speak to the newspaper men in relation not to publish the cases.

The regular session was quite brief.

Mary E. Thayer was arrested for drunkenness by Constable Nichols of South Chemsfourd and she had been in before. Constable Nichols stated that Mary went to the house of Herman Olsen and raised a disturbance necessitating her arrest. The court ordered Mary to jail for three months.

"You are sentenced to jail for three months and you have the right to appeal," said Clerk Trull.

"Thank you, I appeal. I've got to go home to look after my furniture," said Mary. She was held in $200 for the superior court.

Three drunks were fined.

BOY'S $5.00 COMBINATION SUITS $3.75.

Two pairs of pants—a plain pant and knickerbocker with Norfolk jacket—two desirable styles in mixtures that will wear like iron, $3.75 instead of $5.00. The Merrimack Clothing Company.

SKETCH OF THE NEW DECARIE CREMATOR ON PLAIN STREET "A" SHOWING THE OPENING ON THE SECOND FLOOR THROUGH WHICH THE GARBAGE IS DUMPED INTO THE RECEPTACLE BELOW.

NEW CREMATOR

Has Stood the Most Severe Test

ELEVEN TONS OF GARBAGE

Were Turned to Ashes in 12 Hours

WONDERFUL PIECE OF MECHANISM

The Decarie Machine a Great Success

The board of health met yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock and accepted the contract for the cremator. The test of the new incinerator was made under the supervision of the board and it was satisfactory in every respect. It was stipulated in the contract that the incinerator must consume 20 tons in 24 hours, that it must be odorless and that the expense of burning garbage and refuse must not exceed 50 cents a ton.

The Decarie machine more than lived up to the contract. It burned about 11 tons in less than 12 hours; it was odorless and it consumed the refuse, garbage and swill at a cost of 42 cents a ton.

The report of the official test was made by Mr. Thomas Garvey. Mr. Garvey's report showed that 9135 pounds of swill and 12,640 pounds of refuse had been burned in less than 12 hours and this exhibition was under conditions that were not the most favorable. The weather was damp, a fact that had a tendency to impede the draft. The expense of the 12-hour run was as follows: Labor $3.38, coal $1, wood 25 cents, making a total of $4.63 for the burning of 11 tons which makes an average of about 42 cents a ton.

It is the general impression that the board of health did not make any mistake in selecting the Decarie incinerator. To use the words of John T. Hendricks, who operated the old Dixon cremator for years, "The Decarie cremator works like a charm."

The burning of ordinary market refuse and garbage in the old Dixon machine cost more than 75 cents a ton and the Decarie machine will take care of it at a cost of 12 cents a ton. The cremator is neatly installed and is solid, substantial and practical.

The test yesterday was carried out under the instruction and personal observation of A. S. Decarie of Minneapolis, son of G. L. Decarie, the inventor of the machine and president of the company. There wasn't a single hitch from the time that the fire was first started until the tests had been gone through with.

The apparatus is a wonderful piece of mechanism, and the claim of its builders that it is odorless is well founded. Such malodorous substances as fish-heads, decomposed meat from butcher shops, and swill are burned without the creation or rather without the escape from the machine or detection of gases of an offensive nature. Five tons of this stuff can be thrown into the receptacle at once, and be reduced to ashes in three hours.

The garbage and refuse is itself the fuel which keeps the fires in the machine aglow virtually, the stuff to be disposed of furnishes the fuel for its own destruction. Coal is necessary to the operation of the machine of course. Fires are built in two large grates under the great oven into which the rubbish is thrown. One of these fires has a lower draft, the other what is called the upper draft. A great mass of pipes or coils filled with water all the time are heated by these fires. When the refuse is dumped into the machine it falls on these coils. There is no fire near it here, but the intense heat serves to dry up all swill and other wet materials. The liquid deposits drop down through another set of pipes below into a tank six feet in diameter. As the stuff dries up, it drops down on to a second grate, and there is creates another fire and burns itself up.

The gases thrown off from the burning substance are forced by a down draft through a tank of water, thence they pass under the grate up through the flue to the top of the boiler and then are forced down again through another water tank. The flue continues to the smoke-stack, and a steam spray constantly in operation at the bottom of the funnel kills any gas which may have escaped from the water tanks. Thus it is that no odors get to the outside world.

When the contract for the cremator was awarded the Decarie company, William C. Doherty of the board of health insisted that as much of the material for the machine as possible be purchased in Lowell. Consequently the boilers and the huge smoke-stack 125 feet in height and three feet in diameter, were built by the Scannell Boiler Works and the contract for steam and pipe fittings went to a local plumber.

Reports from other cities where the Decarie incinerators have been installed are decidedly complimentary. The machine is giving satisfaction wherever installed and orders are piling in on the company thick and fast. Despite the fact that the machine installed in this city was not intended to burn swill it is capable of doing so, a fact that was proven yesterday. Swill was introduced in order to make the test a severe one and it was taken care of in good shape.

Now that the new cremator is in operation it is to be hoped that there will be no further need of complaint because of offensive odors emanating from dumps. Despite the best efforts of the health board to prevent it a great deal of refuse that was offensive found its way to the dumps and it was a menace to public health, especially during the summer months.

It has been suggested that it would be a good idea for the board of health to put on two or three teams and to move the refuse instead of having it removed by those upon whose premises it accumulates. This suggestion has been made to Agent Knapp and he says it would be a mighty good thing but the department is shy on the cash.

The small-pox bills have not been paid and the people are howling for their money. The city of Boston has sent in a bill for a diphtheria case and the city of Salem for a small-pox case and neither of these bills have been paid. There are two small-pox orders now hanging fire, one for $2300 and the other for $1200. Heretofore orders appropriating money to defray small-pox expenses went through the city council flying but this year for some reason or other they got tied up.

"Jack" Desmond Put Up a Good Fight

AGAINST BILLY MACK OF LAWRENCE

Billy Clinton of Lowell Lost Decision

"Jack" Desmond of this city and "Billy" Mack of Lawrence fought twelve rounds to a draw in Lawrence last night. The Lawrence Sun says of the bout:

A large number of members of the West End club witnessed several interesting bouts at their quarters on Jordan street last evening. The first bout consisted of a six round affair at 105 pounds, between Young Hamel of Lawrence and Young Candy, also of this city. Hamel gained the decision in the second round. In the second preliminary Young Kiely of Lawrence met Billy Clinton of Lowell. The boys weighed 115 pounds and fought for 10 rounds. Kiely had Clinton going in the third round, landing his left jab at will during the bout and being awarded the decision at the end of the fight.

In the main event Willie Mack of this city met Jack Desmond of Lowell, in a 12-round go at 130 pounds. Mack had as seconds J. J. Hall, James O'Brien, and James [illegible]. Desmond's interests were looked after by Young Evans and Peter [illegible] of Lawrence, John A. Sullivan of Malden and Tommy Tobey of Lowell.

In the opening rounds Mack used a left hook with good effect. Desmond had a vicious right which kept Mack busy trying to avoid. Desmond [illegible] Mack's nose in the [illegible] rounds [illegible]. The fourth was Mack's round he doing the most leading. In the fifth, sixth and seventh the pace was pretty even. In the ninth Mack [illegible] good work and had Desmond tired at [illegible]. The eleventh round was a fast one, both boys going hard. The twelfth and last round was very fast and at its conclusion Referee [illegible] declared the bout a draw.

ABE ATTELL

WAS GIVEN THE DECISION OVER MOWATT

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17. At the end of a [illegible] bout with Tommy Mowatt of Chicago, before the Eureka A. C. last night, Referee O'Hara gave Abe Atell of San Francisco a decision which he had earned by cleverly keeping away from Mowatt's repeated rushes, or by meeting them with smashing blows in the face. Mowatt did practically all the leading and took punishment enough to have finished three men but he was strong and still rushing at the finish though his face was a pitiful sight. He proved himself a remarkably strong fighter, but was unable to overcome the handicap of Attell's clever foot work.

ERNE AND HANLON MATCHED.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 17. — Manager McCarey of the Pacific Coast club of Los Angeles, announced last night that Young Erne, the eastern lightweight has been matched to fight a 20-round go with Eddie Hanlon in this city on December 15. The bout, however, is conditioned upon Young Erne, winning his fight from O'Leary in Milwaukee.

MUST TAKE OATH

If Accuracy of Enrollment is Denied

The fact that a number of voters changed their politics at the primaries in Boston yesterday, being allowed to do so by writing their names on the backs of ballots is the cause of considerable speculation in Lowell.

Can the voters of Lowell change their politics at the primaries next Tuesday? This question is being quite freely discussed today.

William McCarthy, assistant city clerk, in reply to The Sun reporter's question today said: "To say that they can change their politics is, perhaps rather a crude way of putting it. The voter can deny the accuracy of the [illegible] and get another ballot. He would have to take oath, of course, that he had not voted before at the caucus on that day. He would have to sign his name on the back of the ballot and in case of recount providing it was proven that the enrolment was correct, his ballot would not be counted."

May a kind Providence be charitable with the man who looks for consistency in the home of politicians.

A young lady from Lowell who was being shown through the police station in Woburn a few days ago found herself in a padded cell with the door locked. It was a joke, to be sure, but she declares she didn't enjoy the sensation the least little bit. There was something uncanny about it, she says.

The next time "Tommy" Craig goes rabbit hunting he says he will take a net with him to stretch at the mouth of the hole. It was a fine big rabbit that he let slip through his hands the other day and Ralph Stickney will never forgive him.

Wright Huntington, of the Huntington-De Deyn Stock company, has had so many invitations to eat his Thanksgiving dinner with different patrons of the Academy of Music that he is in quite a bewildered state. He, however, has decided that in order not to show any favoritism he will take the first invitation received which came from Mr Frank W. Hurd of 19 Harrison street.

November brides are rather scarce this year as compared with other Novembers. The bachelors should get a move on.

A coatless woman wearing a shirtwaist and a fur collar and muff is about the most ridiculous thing that the writer has seen for a long time.

Did you ever notice the girl with the dresses of many colors? She is quite a prominent figure on the street, and while the clothing she wears is of fine texture and strictly up to date, the colors are—well, they will speak for themselves.

Senator Alger of Minnesota tells a story about a "call down" one of his friends received at the hands of a Kansas farmer some years ago. The senator was speeding through Kansas on a return trip from California, where he has immense timber interests. Seated with him was a friend from Michigan and as they passed through Kansas a prosperous farmer came into the car and took a seat just opposite them.

The senator and his friend were discussing the relative value of Michigan and Kansas lands when the former said: "I think that is a mighty good farm," and he pointed out the window at a typical sunflower plantation.

"It may be good enough," said Senator Alger's friend, "but I wouldn't take it as a gift."

The Kansas farmer, who had been listening to the conversation, said, addressing Alger's companion:

"Did I understand you to say you are from Michigan?"

"Yes, from Michigan," replied the Wolverine traveler.

"Well, I want to remark," replied the farmer, who had been stung by the slight on Kansas, "that you are the first Michigan man I ever saw who wouldn't take everything in sight, gift or no gift."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New York World: Now that Murphy and McCarren are out of it, the great work of saving the national honor rests exclusively upon McCall, McCurdy and Hegeman.

Boston Traveller: In all the progressive countries of the world there has been a phenomenal increase, within the last generation, of individual and corporate wealth, and, in all these countries, individual and corporate wealth have taken an unfair advantage of their newly-acquired power. But it is in this country where they have been so firmly intrenched behind high [illegible] walls that they have come to believe that nothing can assail them, that individual and corporate wealth have been particularly insolent. Our billionaires and multi-millionaires, our trusts, railroads and insurance companies, intoxicated by success, have not only flouted the people whom they despise and despoil, but they have openly defied the laws, and it still remains to be seen whether the force of the outraged people [illegible] of the governments is sufficient to bring them to book. The public is filled with wrath by their cynicism and corruption, and this wrath of the public is [illegible].

Springfield Republican: The municipal ownership party in New York city is one of the most extraordinary upheavals in recent American politics. Nor is the significance of it hard to find. There is little of the personal in its demonstration; it represents rather a great popular rising over an issue, and that issue is the plundering of our American cities.

Columbus Press: Edna Wallace Hopper has been sued for breach of promise again. Why do folks marry Edna Wallace Hopper?

Worcester Post: Mr. John Sharp Williams of Mississippi whom many hope to see the successor of Senator Money says, it is as appropriate for the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge to pose as a tariff revisionist as it would be for a bald-headed barber to advocate a hair restorer. No doubt the tonsorial simile was suggested to Mr. Williams by the fact that the senator from Massachusetts has recently had an extremely close shave.

CASEY MEETING

Wards Three and Seven in Conference

Mayor Casey's Action is Commended

Voters from wards three and seven flocked to Mayor Casey's headquarters last night in such numbers as to make it almost impossible for late comers to squeeze in. The speakers were Lawrence Cummings, Hon. John E. Drury, Dennis Healey, Dr. Frank McAvinue and Joseph Cox.

It was the second time that Dr. Avinue had appeared before a political gathering and he made a very lively and a very pointed speech in which he criticized Mayor Casey's critics and characterized Mayor Casey as a "model mayor." He said that Casey was the only mayor of whom he had any knowledge that had the sand to buck the tiger in Market street. It was evident, he said, that the mayor did not fear the police or the police commissioners. He said that the mayor had made no mistakes of any great magnitude and that his administration was a clean one. The mistake about which so much is said was a technical one discovered by republican partisans and endorsed by a partisan judge.

Dennis Healey spoke at considerable length and congratulated the mayor for the cleanness and fitness of his administration. He spoke of the new industries that had come to Lowell because of the efforts of the mayor. He felt that Lowell should be proud of her chief executive and that he should be given another term.

Joseph Cox and Lawrence Cummings spoke in complimentary terms of Mayor Casey's administration, of his career in the city government, the great interest he had taken in all that pertained to the city's welfare and the good he had accomplished. They said there was no question but that James Casey would be nominated and they [illegible] his reelection.

Mr. Cummings said: "There is [illegible] in regard to the settlement of the lighting question but every [illegible] man must admit that [illegible] Mayor Casey done as his predecessor [illegible] got the contract without [illegible] the city would not be saved [illegible] the five-year contract. [illegible] are to be better and to [illegible] for [illegible] less.

"In fairness I [illegible] that the mayor should get credit for this excellent piece of work. In the whole transaction he served the best interests of the city for I believe that after all we are better off not to have poles and light wires on every street in Lowell."

Hon. John E. Drury said it would be hard to conceive of a mayor more devoted to the best interests of the city than Mayor Casey. He said that as a member of the city council James B. Casey was ever on the alert and watchful for the city's interests and that as mayor he had shown himself to be fearless, honorable, upright and capable. He said that the mayor had worked hard and had succeeded in bringing new industries to Lowell, that he had played the heavy part in abolishing the grade crossings and the little mistakes that his opponents were trying to point out, he said, were decidedly diminutive as compared with the good that he had done.

Mayor Casey will speak at the Lyon street school tonight.

LORD CURZON

Explains Why He Gave Up Position

BOMBAY, Nov. 17.—At a banquet given in his honor here yesterday Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the retiring viceroy of India, made a frank avowal of the reasons for his resignation. Beginning with the declaration that he considered the office of viceroy the noblest in the gift of the British nation, and that it ought to be looked upon as a prize to be awarded only to its greatest statesmen, he said it could not be supposed that he would, without the strongest reasons, resign a position which had been the dream of his childhood and the ambition of his manhood. He resigned, he said, on no personal grounds, but in defence of two great principles—first, that there should be an indestructible subordination of the military to the civil authority, and, second, the necessity of paying becoming regard to the Indian authority in determining the needs of India.

Lord Curzon contended that in sacrificing himself in defence of these principles, he had the great preponderance of Indian opinion behind him, and predicted that, should the day ever come when the viceroy would be treated as the mere puppet of the home government, the justification for the post would cease to exist. He said he did not believe that the administrative wisdom of his countrymen would ever tolerate such a blunder.

HELD IN $6000

Mrs. Brown Testified Against Mrs. Stone

[illegible] Nov. [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Stone [illegible] for the December sitting of the [illegible] in $6000 bonds by Judge [illegible] the municipal court yesterday [illegible] charge of performing a criminal [illegible] on Mrs. Elsie E. Allen of Winthrop [illegible] January, from the effects of [illegible] died. No defence was offered.

Mrs. Stone has been [illegible] on bonds of [illegible] amount furnished by Robert [illegible] of Nahant but they will have to be renewed, and meanwhile she is held [illegible].

Mrs. [illegible] Brown, sometimes known as Mrs. Jane Catherine Lewis, was the [illegible] witness for the government at the trial. Mrs. Brown is now serving [illegible] sentence in [illegible] for being an accessory before the fact in the Allen case.

She was an assistant at the Mrs. Dr. Bishop office at 68 Tremont street, and she said that the defendant in the case was the woman known as Dr. Stone, who performed the operation on Mrs. Allen.

Reginald Allen, the husband of the unfortunate Mrs. Allen, was cross-examined.

Medical Examiner Harris testified that the autopsy showed that Mrs. Allen died from peritonitis as the result of an abortion.

Dr. Metcalf of Winthrop said Mrs. Allen had admitted that an illegal operation had been performed upon her.

Annie Brown said that she worked as an assistant at the office of Mrs. Dr. Bishop on Tremont street for five weeks, beginning in December, that her duties were to see all of the patients, talk with them, make arrangements for the operation, take the money from them, and then assist at the operation.

She said the defendant, known as "Dr." Stone, performed the operation on Mrs. Allen.

Dr. Henderson's name was mentioned, and E. P. Barry, counsel for defence, asked her why she spoke of Dr. Henderson. She said that he was the man who hired her and that he was her superior in the place. She stated that she never saw Mrs. Dr. Bishop in her life.

She said that her husband was a student at the college of osteopathy and was not a doctor.

POLITICAL NOTES

There's going to be hot times in ward nine over the school fight. If you don't believe it read the following communication, which is not anonymous.

Editor of The Sun: Kindly allow me the space in your paper to call attention to the following which appeared in the Morning Citizen a day or two ago:

"At last the ward nine citizens, who want a clean, capable, conscientious, educated and efficient candidate to vote for school committee have found him. He is a republican and his name will be on the republican part of the ticket, but that isn't any reason for voting for him, except that the democratic candidate isn't in any respect his peer. Mr. Johnson will be voted for by democrats as well as republicans, in order to get into the board the right sort of a man."

I almost wept with joy upon learning that at last a clean and educated candidate has been found for us to vote for in ward nine, as if the candidate we had two years ago was not. Why, all the neighbors around here could tell you that not one word was ever said about him as the result of the cranberry stain and whitewash smudges noticed that Thanksgiving day when he paid every one of us a visit during dinner time. Any one is liable to be the worse for hurrying, regardless of the work he may be doing. Wasn't his name on the republican part of the ticket when he was running against Dr. Walker? I was sure the name of Robert T. Mardea was on the republican part of the ticket I had. It seems real unkind of the Citizen not to give him credit for cleanliness and learning and therefore I protest.

(Signed) WARD NINE.

The school board contest in ward four is waxing quite interesting, particularly since the third candidate, Mr. Mulholland, dropped out of the contest in favor of Mr. John W. Hamilton who is running against Mr. Hogan, the present incumbent. Mr. Hamilton is a native of the ward and has a host of friends back of his candidacy. He is a clean and progressive young man and holds a position of responsibility with the Lowell machine shop.

Joseph Mellen thinks that the lightning will strike his way this year in his ward five contest for the common council.

John J. Connors is putting up a lively canvass in ward two for the common council and as he came very close last year his friends are confident that he will get the required number of votes this year.

If the people bringing the complaint to the board of ballot law commissioners had to pay the expenses incurred they probably would have considered whether the game were worth the candle. It cost $60 to throw the names out and the chances are that all of those who want to go back will get there on stickers.

The caucuses are only a few days off. If you desire to get registered so as to vote at them, get a move on.

FOOTBALL

HEAD OF GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY CONDEMNS BRUTALITY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—At a reception given in his honor by the society of the alumni of Georgetown university last night Rev. Hillhouse Buel, the new president of the university, reiterated his statements condemning brutality in football and the prevalence of professionalism in many of the best known institutions of learning in the country.

"I thank the Lord!" cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Goodale's drug store, 217 Central st.; 25c.

PLEASANT PARTY

HELD BY EMPLOYES OF J. L. CHALIFOUX.

The employes of J. L. Chalifoux's held a very pleasant party at O. U. A. M. hall in Middle street last night. There were about 200 present and a general good time was enjoyed. Among the invited guests in attendance were Mayor James B. Casey, Mr. Joseph L. Chalifoux, Mr. Paul Chalifoux, Messrs. Emile Fiebelman, J. B. Pearson, John Myers, A. W. Moriarty, Frank Moriarty, A. H., Martin Kelly of Lynn, William McDade of Lawrence, and others.

Atwood and Griffith's orchestra furnished a dance program of 16 numbers and four extras, also a pretty concert program. The players were placed behind a pretty arrangement of banked palms and shrubs on the platform, and the hall showed other pretty decorations.

The pretty affair was managed by the following officers:

WE POINT

With pride to the splendid equipment with which our PHOTOGRAPHIC STUDIO is supplied. A recent addition has been the installation of an ARISTO LAMP, which makes it unnecessary to depend upon sunlight to either take the pictures or to print them. You can see a score of samples in our studio taken by this new process, and we think you will agree with us that in every particular they equal the ones taken in daylight. This enables us to rush our work through quicker, because we do not have to depend at all upon atmospheric conditions, which often delay the photographer days at a time.

Is it too early to remind you of Christmas? A dozen photographs, you know will make a dozen presents. Our work is guaranteed. Our prices very reasonable.

TEXTILE NOTES

Interesting Items From the Mill Centres

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 17.—[illegible] of the Portsmouth Knitting [illegible] which on Jan. 1 will have [illegible] operated the Portsmouth Cotton Manufacturing Co.'s plant on Chestnut street for the last ten years will expire, and the stockholders of the Portsmouth Cotton Manufacturing Co. at a meeting decided to form an auxiliary stock company, known as the Portsmouth cotton mills, incorporated, with stock to be taken by the holders of the parent, or lessor, company, share for share, only the shares of the new company will be $50 instead of $100.

The authorized capital stock of the new, or lessee, company will be $1[illegible],000, and several prominent stockholders announced at the meeting that if any of the stock remained unsubscribed on Nov. 20, next, they would take the balance. This assures the raising of the company, and also assures the continuous operation of the Portsmouth Cotton Manufacturing Co.'s plant right on.

WOOLEN MILL CHANGES.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 17.—Extensive changes are being made in the Adams Woolen Co.'s plant in Maple Grove. A new change in the officers has been made. George E. Sayles succeeds James C. Chalmers as treasurer. In the mill new spinning machinery is being installed. In the card room the machinery is being entirely overhauled. New attachments and up-to-date appliances are also being added.

KNITTING MILL BURNED.

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Nov. 17.—Fire of unknown origin has destroyed the Keystone Knitting Co.'s large mill in Hummelstown, causing a loss of $20,000 with $16,000 insurance. The mill was a large frame structure, L-shaped, with separate engine and boiler room. At the time of the fire there was in it a large quantity of finished and unfinished hosiery, some of which was government work. All the valuable machinery, including the engines and the steam plant, was destroyed.

BUSY SHIPPING HOSIERY.

READING, Pa., Nov. 17.—The Pennsylvania Knitting Mills Co. was never busier than at present. A three-story building is in full operation, and 200 hands, 150 of whom are women, are employed. There are 50 operating machines in the plant, and when the 50 additional ones are installed 50 more operatives will be put on. Half hose and women's stockings in from 20 to 50 grades, and plain and fancy are made. The output is about 6000 dozen hosiery a week, which are shipped through jobbers to all parts of the United States. Orders are booked ahead for nine months.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Two of the leading preparatory schools have wound up their football season last Saturday, schools that are the biggest feeders for eastern universities. The two are Andover and Exeter and there is a great difference in their scoring records. Exeter made a total of only [illegible] points in seven games, which was small scoring considering the strength of Exeter eleven. This year's Exeter eleven was a big, heavy aggregation, and the Hogan system seems to have been constructed more for short gains and many downs than for lengthy single dashes toward the enemy's goal. The Andover eleven was not composed of lightweights, but covered much more ground than the Exeter rivals, as the total of 172 points proves. Andover made just [illegible] points more than Exeter. The former averaged 25 1-7 points a game and the latter [illegible] 2-7. Andover averaged over four touchdowns a game and Exeter not quite two.

The Colgate team has finished its college season and made a good scoring record, 217 points. That is an average of a fraction over four touchdowns a game. Opponents made 53 points against Colgate, something less than two touchdowns a game. This is a good defensive record considering that Colgate played Cornell, West Point, Syracuse, Williams and Dartmouth. An unusual thing in connection with Colgate's season is that in the Cornell, Dartmouth and West Point games not a substitution was made and only one in the Williams game. Equally unusual is the fact that the West Point team has been beaten in four of its six games to date. But the hard schedule of the soldiers explains the number of defeats. Virginia Poly., a "sleeper," Harvard, Yale and the Indians took West Point's measure. Last year, also with a stiff schedule, West Point lost only two games. There is a wide gap between the Army and Navy point totals, 47 scored and 54 for opponents for the Army and 25 scored and 11 for opponents for the Navy. This is partly accounted for by the different calibre of the opponents and by the greater number of games played by the middies.

The records show that Yale has in every case made a bigger score against a mutual opponent than Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania. Yale beat Brown 11 to 0, Harvard beat Brown 10 to 0 and Pennsylvania beat Brown 8 to 6. Harvard made a bigger score against both Brown and the Indians than Pennsylvania did, so that this lesson teaches us that these scores have no bearing on coming contests. Yale not only made a bigger score against Brown than did Harvard though this mutual opponent furnished practically a tie for the winners, but also against West Point and the Springfield Training school. Columbia is the only team that both Yale and Princeton have met, the results showing a difference of 41 points in favor of the Blue. Amherst has the distinction of having played two tie games, one with Columbia and one with Dartmouth. That is a rarity in football. Michigan leads the country in combined offensive and defensive results, though Minnesota has made more points. Total scores follow:

Harvard, 141; opponents, 29 (nine games), Yale, 19[illegible]; opponents, 0 (eight games); Princeton, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] (nine games); Pennsylvania, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] [illegible] games); [illegible] opponents, [illegible] (eight games); [illegible] games); [illegible] opponents, [illegible] nine games; [illegible] opp. [illegible] eight games; Brown, [illegible] [illegible] games; Williams, [illegible] [illegible] games; Wesleyan, [illegible] [illegible] games; Lafayette, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] games; [illegible] opponents, [illegible] games; [illegible] opponents, [illegible] [illegible] Pennsylvania State, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] [illegible] games; Exeter, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] seven games; Andover, 172, opponents, [illegible] seven games; Chicago, 24[illegible] [illegible] nine games; Michigan, [illegible] [illegible] nine games; Wisconsin, [illegible] [illegible] games; Minnesota, [illegible] opponents, 16 (eight games).

BOXING GOSSIP

[illegible] Siler, the veteran critic and referee, says that Fitzsimmons and O'Brien have [illegible] to announce that their coming contest at San Francisco, which will take place in December, is for the heavyweight championship. Siler says that Marvin Hart is the rightful holder of the title left vacant by the retirement of Jeffries.

Siler is getting old, and his judgment is not what it once was. Where did Marvin Hart get the championship? By his shady decision over Jack Johnson and his win over Jack Root? Jeffries certainly announced when he refereed the Hart-Root fight at Reno, that the winner would succeed to his title, but since when has a champion the right to give his title away?

When Jim Corbett jumped into the ring when Peter Maher knocked out Steve O'Donnell in a round, in 1895 he presented the world's championship to Maher. The public laughed at the new champion. Bob Fitzsimmons wanted the title, and as Corbett had persistently refused to meet him, he arranged a battle with Maher and knocked him out in a round at Langtry, Tex. Fitz then claimed the world's title, but the sporting world still refused. Finally Corbett was forced to meet Fitz, and the Cornishman's victory at Carson City in 1897 gave him the undisputed world's championship.

Fitzsimmons lost the title to Jeffries and Jeffries is the only fighter in the world who has ever beaten the lanky wonder. Now Jeffries presents the title to Hart, but that no more makes Hart the champion than Corbett made Maher the champion. And if some rugged heavy should come along and beat Hart, it would no more make him the champion than Fitz's victory over Maher made him the champion.

If Jeffries has really retired in earnest, the only thing he can do is to throw his title into the ring to be fought for. Then one of two things may happen. Either we must wait until all the aspirants have fought it out among themselves and the best man proven himself, or a nominal champion be recognized until he is defeated.

Who will be recognized as that nominal champion? Not Hart, but Fitzsimmons, the former champion, who has been defeated by no man save Jeffries. If Fitz wins over O'Brien in December, he should be recognized as champion. If he loses, then let the younger heavies fight it out among themselves. That's the logic of the heavyweight situation, and Hart hasn't a look in unless he beats Fitzsimmons.

Steve Mahoney insists that Harry Edels of Chelsea is the most promising boy he has ever handled. Edels' rise has been rapid and consistent. A year ago he was a raw amateur boxing at the B. A. A. Since he turned professional he has come along so fast that now he is one of the best drawing cards in New England. His record has its ups and downs but progress has been consistent. His full professional record with dates, all in 1905, is as follows:

Jan. 6, L. Jack McKeever, six rounds, Chelsea; Jan. 20, K. by Dave Deshler, six rounds, Chelsea; April 19, K. Jerry McCarthy, one round, Chelsea; May 10, K. Connie Mack, two rounds, Chelsea; May 23, W. Goliath Jones (national amateur champion), six rounds, Chelsea; June 16, L. F. Kid Lester, three rounds, Chelsea; July 7, K. Young Casey, three rounds, Chelsea; Aug. 4, L. George Ashley, 15 rounds, Thornton, R. I.; Aug. 10, W. F. Blink McCloskey, 12 rounds, Bellows Falls, Vt.; Sept. 15, D. Barthy Connolly, 15 rounds, Portland, Me.; Oct. 22, L. F. Barthy Connolly, 12 rounds, Portland, Me.; Nov. 10, D. Joe Reed, 12 rounds, Lawrence.

Tonight Edels meets Lew Myers of New York at Portland. Myers is the hardest nut Edels has ever had to crack. He is one of the best lightweights in the East, and a star performer in Philadelphia, where he has boxed Terry Martin and other good boys. He is rugged, clever, a hard hitter and game to the core. His battle with Edels should be a hummer. This probe of Myers is given in spite of what happened at [illegible] Monday night.

Bill Crowley, Myers' manager, states his side of the affair in the following letter:

"The bout at [illegible] Monday night was a very badly handled affair as far as rules go, in fact, there were no rules.

"I have no excuses to make for Myers, for he did foul after speaking to the referee about Sidney's foul fighting.

"Sidney choked Myers until he fell and could not get up. Myers did not quit, and if the Sidney people think he did, they can have another match, and if Myers don't stop Sidney in 15 rounds, Sidney can have all of the purse and a side bet, too, if he wants it. All I ask is a referee who knows the rules and will enforce them."

It is announced that Jack (Twin) Sullivan got more than $300 out of his last fight with Tommy Burns at Los Angeles. Go West, young man, go West!

SIMMONDS SHOWED ROLL OF MONEY TO STRANGERS.

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 17.—Arthur Simmonds, a brick mason, 60 years old, came here from Enfield, Tuesday afternoon, expecting to work upon the new Carnegie library building.

He had with him $67 and some small change when he met a couple of young fellows and asked them to direct him to a boarding place.

They agreed to for a drink and as both claimed to be on the black list they asked Simmonds to get a pint. They watched him go into a saloon and saw his roll when he paid.

On leaving the saloon the three crossed the footbridge over the Winnipesaukee river to Bow street, where the men were to direct him to a good boarding place. Instead, after having had a few drinks the men pounced upon Simmonds and knocking him senseless robbed him of his money.

He was dragged to a lonely spot by the river bank where he was left. Simmonds says the robbery occurred about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon but he did not recover consciousness until Wednesday morning, and all day Wednesday he was so dazed that he did not think to report the affair to the police.

No Wrinkles on "Tailorville" Clothes

"TAILORVILLE PADDOCKS"

Ready for Instant Service, Designed by Artists, Tailored by "Jours"

Many men think because a paddock is a hard coat to make, they should go to a tailor when they want this style garment.

That's just the reason why they shouldn't—not one tailor in a hundred knows how to make a good paddock, it's beyond them.

The best paddocks (with the exception of those turned out by a few big city tailors) can be had ready-to-wear, that is, of a few makers of fine clothes.

These makers employ the best designing geniuses the country affords, men whose salaries are larger than the profits of most merchant tailors.

No one community could afford their services, their product is sent all over the country.

By reason of their ability to furnish steady employment, they secure the cream of the skilled "jours" who fashion the garments and give them the shape that stays.

"Tailorville" Paddocks are what the name implies, equal in all respects to fine custom work, designed by artists, tailored by "jours," pressed, ready for instant service.

Only the price tag has the ready-made ring.

The strong display of select styles has been a big factor in the liberal selling of these "Tailorville" Paddocks—a display that was prime evidence of our confidence in their goodness.

Besides the dressy black and Oxford vicunas and worsted cheviots, there's a good showing of fancy effects which appeal to the young fellows—homespun and wide wale cheviots and light gray cassimeres in medium weight—all confined styles and only a few of a kind.

Single or double breasted, the latter style is preferred by men of good figure.

Prices begin at $20 and go up to $35.

FITZGERALD WON

Is Democratic Nominee for Mayor of Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 17. John F. Fitzgerald won a great victory in the democratic primaries yesterday, defeating Edward J. Donovan, the candidate of a majority of the organization leaders, for the democratic mayoralty nomination.

In a total vote of [illegible] votes Mr. Fitzgerald had a majority of [illegible].

Louis A. Frothingham defeated Judge Henry S. Dewey by a plurality of 275 votes. The total republican vote was [illegible]. For several hours it was nip and tuck with Speaker Frothingham and Judge Dewey.

With a few precincts missing from ward 25 it looked up to 10.30 [illegible] as if Judge Dewey had won by a small margin.

Indeed, up to that hour Judge Dewey was believed to be nominated, but when the belated precincts arrived and a correct tabulation made, it was found that Mr. Frothingham was the victor by [illegible] votes.

KEPT HIS WORD.

Mr. Fitzgerald carried every ward except wards 2, 8, 9 and 11.

Mr. Fitzgerald's old ward, 6, gave him [illegible] votes against 630 for his opponent, and ward 24, where he now lives, gave him 1274 votes to 958 for Edward J. Donovan.

Passing on to ward 7, the home of the president of the democratic city committee, W. T. A. Fitzgerald, he carried the ward against the combined forces of Fitzgerald and John Quinn.

HUSBAND HELD

IS CHARGED WITH PASSING LIQUOR TO WIFE IN CELL.

BOSTON, Nov. 17. As a sequel to the arrest and conviction of Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, a domestic, for the larceny of clothing and jewelry from the house where she was employed, her husband, Angus Campbell is alleged to have gotten himself into serious difficulty with the Newton police.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Bowen, who conducts a fashionable boarding house at 126 Charles street, Riverside, complained to the police that several articles of clothing were missing from the house.

Officer Quilty arrested the woman, and her room was searched. Hidden in a trunk and about the room were a number of pieces of clothing, jewelry, lace, etc. At first she denied all knowledge of them, but later confessed to having taken them from various places where she had worked. She was sentenced to Sherborn by Judge Kennedy.

The husband, it is said, had been away for some months, and only arrived in Newton on Wednesday night, and went at once to 126 Charles street. Informed of what had happened, he hurried to police headquarters. The police say he was so badly intoxicated he was not allowed to see his wife.

After the court proceedings yesterday morning he was again on hand, and was allowed to talk with his wife. It is alleged that he had a bottle of liquor with him, and that when the guard's back was turned, he passed it through the bars to Mrs. Campbell, who helped herself liberally.

Campbell became so obnoxious that he was locked up on a charge of drunkenness. The officers went to the woman's cell a little later and found her also under the influence of liquor. She was questioned, but what information was obtained from the woman the police declined to state.

The money was placed in the safe and remained there until Monday last, the stranger calling every day to have a look at it. On Monday he came in and asked to be loaned $200 in American money to buy a house with, agreeing to leave the satchel and the $2000 as se[illegible]

TIRED OF STUDY

School Children Decided to Wed

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 17. Two [illegible] children, Grace G. Fredette, 22, and Louis A. Fredette, 19, cousins and residents of Pittsford, because their parents did not countenance their affection for each other and tired of close application to their studies arranged yesterday to meet each other secretly at Brandon and marry.

The boy and his juvenile sweetheart stoutly maintained that they were of the legal age, and town clerk Charles J. Fenton of Brandon finally granted them a license. Fearful lest their plans miscarry the boy hurried his cousin to the nearest justice of the peace, who tied the knot. They returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace [illegible] of Pittsford and announced that they were married.

Parents and other relatives of the boy and girl would not believe the information at first and regarded it as a jest, but later, when both persisted in their declarations, relatives threatened to separate them and have the ceremony declared illegal, as both misrepresented their ages in applying for a license.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. John M. Lynch, a prominent member of the Y. M. C. I., and Miss Bridget Halloran, a popular young resident of St. Peter's parish, took place Wednesday evening at St. Peter's parochial residence, Rev. Fr. Roche performing the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white mousseline de soie with picture hat and carried bride roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Halloran, wore white dotted Swiss over white silk with pale blue picture hat and carried white chrysanthemums. Mr. John Tracy was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at 565 East Merrimack street. During the evening a beautiful supper was served and a fine musical program was carried out with songs by Edward Shea, Kittie Donahue, Alfred Cooney and Elizabeth McAleer and piano solos by Katherine Lynch.

Friends of the bridegroom turned out in force to give their fellow shopmate a rousing send-off with red fire and fireworks. The young couple were the recipients of a wealth of wedding gifts which included a handsome sideboard and carving set from the Y. M. C. I., a beautiful couch and a china closet and etching from the Bigelow carpet weavers and winders respectively.

After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Lynch will be at home to their friends at 153 Stackpole street.

STRANGE DREAMS

Cases Where Crimes Were Revealed

Some of the strangest stories in the annals of crime are those which tell of the part dreams have played in the discovery of criminals. One spring day in 1830 a farm laborer, when passing a lonely mountain lake in Sutherlandshire, saw in the waters a dead body, which when rescued proved to be that of a well known peddler who had mysteriously vanished about a month earlier. The body bore marks of violence, the pockets were empty, and it was clear that the poor fellow had been brutally murdered and robbed, but by whom? That was a mystery which for many a week completely defied elucidation.

One night, however, Kenneth Fraser, a fellow's neighbor, saw in a dream the cottage of a man named Hugh Macleod, and heard a voice say in Gaelic, "The peddler's pack is lying in a cairn of stones in a hole near this house." He told the story of his singular dream to the authorities, who accompanied him to Macleod's house, and there, sure enough, beneath a heap of stones, the murdered man's property was found. Macleod was arrested, confessed, and was executed.

Another very remarkable story is told of a tragedy in Ireland. One evening two strangers presented themselves at a wayside inn near Portland, and after taking refreshment continued their tramp in the direction of Carrick-on-Suir. The incident was commonplace enough, but it led to startling developments, for in the wayfarers the landlady of the inn recognized two men of whom she had dreamed a very strange dream the night before. In her dream she had seen one of them kill the other with a coward's blow from behind, rifle the pockets of the dead man and stealthily bury him beneath a hedge. So impressed was her husband when this dream was told him that he made his way to the spot indicated and there discovered the body of the buried man. The assassin was pursued and arrested, and at the ensuing assizes was sentenced to death.

There has seldom been a more mysterious crime than the murder of Mr. Stockden, a London victualler, a great many years ago; and the mystery would have remained unsolved to this day had it not been for the intervention of Mrs. Greenwood, who came forward with the statement that the murdered man had appeared to her in a dream and conducted her to a house in Thames street, where one of his assassins was to be found; while in another dream Stockden appeared and showed her the likeness of the man. On the strength of this dream clue the men indicated was arrested, and not only confessed his guilt, but betrayed his accomplices, three criminals being brought to the scaffold as the result of these visions of the night.

Some years ago a Mrs. Rutherford dreamed that her aged relative, Lady Leslie, was about to be murdered by a man whom she clearly saw. She immediately set out on a visit to Lady Leslie and asked permission to sleep in the lady's room. In the middle of the night Mrs. Rutherford heard some one trying to open the bedroom door. She raised an alarm and flung open the door, when Lady Leslie's two sons rushed out and in a moment had seized the man of the dream.

The following story is, perhaps, the strangest of all. One night the Rev. Herbert Powys, a Church of England clergyman, dreamed that the daughter of one of his parishioners had gone out into the darkness to meet her lover, who, at the time, was waiting for her in a secluded spot and spending the time in digging a grave for her. Jumping out of bed Mr. Powys rushed to the place indicated in his dream and arrived there just as the man had hurled the girl to the ground by the side of the open grave and was about to kill her with his spade.—Tit-Bits.

CONCERT AND DANCE

The Grenadiers held an enjoyable concert and dance last night in Merrimack hall.

The hall was decorated with red and white, and hung with bunches of chrysanthemums. Kittredge's Singing orchestra furnished music for about 75 couples. Mr. Frank Wotton was floor director and general manager, and the aids were: Mr. Jennings, Mr. Herman Bein, Mr. Paul Gott and Mr. Leslie Newton. Miss Maud Plumstead had charge of the decorating, while Miss Carrie Fletcher presided at the refreshment table.

The hotel was owned by R. J. Young and was valued at $15,000.

POLICEMAN ACCUSES THE MAYOR OF FAVORITISM

WORCESTER, Nov. 17. Police patrolman Otis T. Aldrich, who has been a member of the reserve force for the past two years, tendered his resignation to take effect immediately, in a letter which he wrote to Mayor Walter H. Blodgett yesterday.

In the letter Mr. Aldrich claims that the mayor has shown favoritism in making appointments to the permanent force by promoting over his head men who were appointed to the reserve force after him. He claims his work as a policeman has never been criticised by his superior officers, and in closing he says: "I regret very much to leave such a position, but I would rather work with pick and shovel than stand the treatment I have received."

WAS ROBBED

MAN BLAMES PARTIES WHOM HE BEFRIENDED

LAWRENCE, Nov. 17. Eugene Riley of Littleton, N. H., claimed in the police court yesterday that after playing the part of the host and giving money to the men with which to procure beds for the night he was set upon by them and robbed of his money and watch. The defendants were Joseph McCarthy, William H. McCarthy and Jeremiah Sweeney. The men were arrested in a restaurant Wednesday night.

Joseph McCarthy declared that he could prove an alibi and his case was continued until today. The other two defendants were held for the grand jury in $300 each on the charge of assault and battery and were fined for drunkenness. Riley was also charged with drunkenness.

WEDS EARL'S SON

Orphan of a Day is a Bride

BOSTON, Nov. 17. With her mother lying dead at home and her father in his grave scarcely two days, Miss Mabel W. Kenniston, a pretty 22 year old girl of Medfield, Mass., was married on Saturday last to her sweetheart, Robert Albert Dobyns, who for a year had been her father's confidential clerk in his grocery business at Attleboro, and who claimed to be the disinherited son of an English earl. The couple left Medfield shortly after the ceremony and came to Boston, where Mrs. Dobyns is said to be critically ill.

Miss Kenniston is the daughter of Samuel J. Kenniston of Medfield, who for several years had conducted the Boston branch grocery store of Attleboro. A year ago the young lady, accompanied by her mother, visited Canada, where she met Dobyns. The latter, a man of impressive appearance, about 30 years of age, was attracted to the girl, who returned his interest, and before they had known one another two days they were in love. Before returning home Mrs. Kenniston invited Dobyns to visit at her house, and the result was that the young Englishman came to Medfield to stay, being retained as a clerk by Mr. Kenniston.

The love affair continued and both parents approved. Mr. Kenniston, however, declined to give his consent until Dobyns had proven himself capable of taking over the grocery business and operating it successfully. Latterly it is said Dobyns has been filling the position of confidential clerk to Mr. Kenniston, and the two of them arranged with Mr. J. H. [illegible] of Attleboro, Mr. Kenniston's attorney, to establish a new business in Medfield.

In the meantime the [illegible] of Mrs. Kenniston, which was already reported to the [illegible] of Mabel to Dobyns, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] couple felt regretful at the delay.

The business in Attleboro will be sold out, it is said, and Dobyns may take his young wife back to England.

Dobyns claims that he is a member of a very old English family and a graduate of Oxford University.

FITCHBURG, Nov. 17. The jury in the Cochran-Joslin alienation case returned a verdict for the defendant, Mrs. Joslin, late yesterday afternoon. Suit had been brought by Mrs. Cochran, asking an ad damnum of $500, for the alienation of her husband's affection. The testimony of the witnesses has been of the most sensational nature.

In his charge to the jury yesterday morning Judge Bell said that if the actions alleged by the plaintiff occurred more than six years before the date of the writ which was Dec. 21, 1904, the statute of limitations would intervene.

HOW TO SUCCEED

Practical Hints for the Ambitious

When we see a man who takes life [illegible] [illegible] comes, we find one who is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] jelly-fish upon the shore [illegible]. But when we see one who [illegible] it just as it comes, we see one who gives his name upon the [illegible] rocks. For him there is no [illegible] [illegible], time is for him but the [illegible] of an illimitable circle; today and eternity are one to him.

He [illegible] no years except to note [illegible] [illegible] as the turning of a point [illegible] [illegible] sole. He fears not to look through memory to the past, nor does he think of the future as coming better than he can make today. He [illegible] past errors a [illegible] energy but as lessons that bore a fruit of sweetness within a bitter skin. He makes to keep, where others borrow but to lose.

If [illegible] of us could make life [illegible] as it comes, make each day's dawn find us ready to greet it wide awake and clothed in strength to do our level best, how soon our efforts would be crowned with great success—success that would, in its greatness, inspire us to still higher effort!

If we will but dwell for a moment upon the inconceivable immensity of [illegible] nothingness called time, if we will but realize the comparative less than nothingness of a human life, we must acknowledge that either life is purposeless and effort useless, or that life is everlasting and effort that which makes eternity eternal.

To acknowledge the first is to put ourselves on the level with a Persian fatalist with nothing to live for but the gross sensations of a day, writes Joel Blanc in the Pharmaceutical Era. To realize the latter means a rebirth that any man who will may understand, and, understanding, make life as it comes worth the living now and living always.

We are so prone to take the human exception as a rule and then to look upon it as a superhuman law. Because some man of thirty years has won a great success the struggling one of thirty-five gives up and says, "Too late!" And then because the man of sixty loses a fortune representing years of labor, we fear the very thing we hope for and say, "No use!"

Realize that you were put upon this wheel of time to stick to stay. Reason from the human point outward and upward until you reach the stars, where reason blends in faith and both are one. Reason that as children are born in every hour of the solar day, so are they born 'neath every cloud that floats before the eternal day. Perhaps the man who won his fame at thirty years has reached the twilight of his life and gone from dusk to dark. Perhaps you were born in your life's evening and now at forty are in the midmorning of a gloriously brightening day. Opportunity, for you, slept because it was your night. Now, do not wait for her to knock, but go and seek, and you will find her finger pointing on an upward path, your own.

LEARNING INDEPENDENCE

When Andrew Carnegie landed from the steamer the other day he was approached by the reporters for an interview and, among other things, the subject of old age pensions came up. He said that a discussion of it was unnecessary. "The young man now who doesn't drink and smoke will make his own pension. In spite of combinations of capital and commercial interests, I think the young men of today," said Mr. Carnegie, "has as much chance to get ahead as in years gone by. Then the man who kept the corner grocery made three thousand dollars, and he was rich. Now conditions have changed, and that is not a fortune, but you must consider how many young men who might be conducting corner groceries have gone into other things advanced with the times, are now making more than the three thousand dollars in a single year."

Mr. Carnegie, like other successful men, is not given to pessimism. They believe the times are more propitious than ever before for the success of an ambitious and industrious young man. He, like the others who know from experience what they are talking about, draw it strongly when discussing economy. Drinking and smoking are two pleasant indulgences that absorb a lot of change, and it is the dime in numbers that makes the dollars, and eventually the rich man.

A man may earn a comfortable salary and spend it all. He enjoys life, but he never has the satisfaction of independence, and some day when reverses come—illness or a change of management in his firm and he is suddenly cast out of a position—he is helpless, for he hasn't the financial resources behind him that make a man independent of another man's will or whim.

It was never the desire of these successful men whom we study and endeavor to emulate to rigidly economize and stint themselves merely to accumulate money. They knew, however, that without it they would be comparatively helpless through life. They saved at the start and when they had a goodly sum in bank they found with their active brains ways of using it to make more. They became the managers, the employers, the bosses, and made money to spend in quantities. That is the true meaning of business life.

$5000 VERDICT

FINDING AGAINST RAILROAD IN LAWRENCE CASE

LAWRENCE, Nov. 17—In the superior court yesterday afternoon, Judge DeCourcy presiding, a verdict of $5000 was rendered in the case of Sarah A. Peabody of Bradford vs. Haverhill, Georgetown & Danvers street railway, and one of $250 for her husband, Daniel Peabody. Mrs. Peabody sued to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by the collision of her carriage and a car.

After the jury had retired in this case an attempt was made to begin the trial of the cases of Brodeaux and Bowen vs. Boston & Northern street railway and Frank H. Ballard. Only six jurors had been accepted when the list had been exhausted.

A recess was taken until afternoon. After a jury had been impaneled, however, a settlement was announced and the cases were withdrawn. These suits grew out of a collision of a hack and a street car in Haverhill.

ODELL AND DEPEW

Star Witnesses at the Life Insurance Investigation

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—B. B. Odell Jr., former governor of New York and at present chairman of the republican state committee was the first witness before the insurance investigating committee today. Before his testimony was begun Samuel Untermeyer, counsel for James H. Hyde, entered an objection protesting against the investigation of the affairs of the U. S. Ship Building company by the committee.

Mr. Hughes, counsel to the committee, began by asking Mr. Odell to tell the facts pertaining to the Mercantile Trust company charter and the witness said he would prefer to tell of the whole transaction leading up to the settlement, if permitted. Mr. Untermeyer protested that if the committee permitted this, it would take them far outside the legitimate line of inquiry. Senator Armstrong referred the protest to Mr. Hughes who said he would call to Mr. Odell's attention "the fact that the matter which concerns the committee is simply the question whether there was any political influence or pressure brought to bear upon the Mercantile Trust company, directly or indirectly to induce a settlement."

"There was not," said Mr. Odell.

"Will you state, Governor," asked Mr. Hughes, "whether you had any information with regard to the introduction of a bill into the senate for the purpose of repealing the charter of the Mercantile Trust company?"

"I knew of it at the time, yes."

"Who advised you of it?"

"I knew of it before its introduction."

"From whom did you get the information?"

"Oh, various persons, as to the propriety of the introduction of such a measure."

"Did you suggest its introduction?"

"No."

"Did you request its introduction?"

"I saw no objection to it."

"Did you state that you saw no objection to the introduction of the measure?"

"At the time it was introduced, yes."

"To whom?"

"Oh, to anyone who asked me; I have forgotten."

"What was the ground for that action, or approval?"

"Simply because the scandal incident to the ship building trust was uppermost in the people's mind and it was claimed that the Mercantile Trust company had been behind fifteen or sixteen corporations, every one of them had been insolvent and it was thought such matters in New York should be stopped."

While Mr. Odell was testifying, Senator Depew entered the room.

Continuing Mr. Odell said the bill was intended to provide for an investigation of the Mercantile Trust company. He could not recall an interview with Assemblyman Fish regarding the introduction of a bill similar to Senator Ambler's repeal bill in the assembly. His only interview with Senator Ambler about the bill was after it had been introduced. At that time he had no suit pending against the Mercantile Trust company. His suit was brought in August, 190[illegible]. When the bill was introduced in March, 1[illegible] the witness said he still had every dollar's worth of his ship building holdings.

These holdings were sold at auction and brought $[illegible] against $[illegible] paid for them. Since the sale witness had no interest in the ship building company. The sale was made because he felt that matters of legislation would come up affecting ship building affairs and he felt that the governor should not be interested in the bonds. He contemplated bringing an action against the Mercantile Trust company in August, 190[illegible]. He had no interview with J. P. Morgan regarding his ship building claim but did have with Charles M. Schwab when the company was in the hands of a receiver.

"Did you make any statement to anybody in the city of New York, that retaliatory measures of any kind would be taken?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"Never."

"That any measures threatening the Mercantile Trust company or any one else would be taken if your claim was not settled?"

"Never."

"Did you ever make any such statement to Mr. Harriman?"

"No sir."

"Did you ever have any interview with Mr. Harriman in which it was suggested that he should use his influence to procure a settlement of your claim against the Mercantile Trust company?"

"No sir."

"Then I understand your testimony is that you never directly or indirectly used any threat to procure a settlement of that suit?"

"No sir."

"Was the legislation which was proposed by Senator Ambler in any way a topic of conversation when the settlement of your suit came up?"

"Never, excepting—Yes, when I had a talk with Mr. Hyde he spoke of it and I told him no matter what the outcome of our settlement might be, whether I should go into the courts, or the case should be settled by the Mercantile Trust company, that there was no fear of retaliatory legislation."

"Had anything occurred to change your mind as to the propriety of the introduction of such matters?"

"Yes, sir, the fact that the base calumny which Mr. Hyde uttered here had been circulated in the papers and I called Senator Ambler in and I said, so desirable as I believed the legislation to be, I feared that my unfortunate connection with the matter was of such a character that it would be better for him to drop this legislation. That interview took place some time during the legislative session of 1904."

Mr. Odell said he told James H. Hyde at their first interview that the Ambler bill would be stopped by him, that there was no fear, no matter what was done about his settlement, of any retaliatory legislation. He did not bother Mr. Harriman about the matter. "Mr. Harriman and I are social friends," said the witness, "I have no business relations with him."

Mr. Odell said he wrote a letter at the request of Mr. McIntyre, former fourth vice-president of the Equitable, in behalf of Mr. Hyde's candidacy for the ambassadorship. This had nothing to do with the ship building settlement. The letter was written before the settlement.

Mr. Odell said that he had never solicited a political contribution from any insurance company and none had ever been made to him voluntarily.

"Did any—ever—come to you indirectly?"

"Possibly, through the national committee and through Senator Platt."

"What relation had Senator Platt to the matter?"

"He always gathered all the fund together ever since I have been connected with republican politics except last year."

The witness said he knew nothing of the efforts of insurance companies to prevent inimical legislation and knew of A. C. Field's activity in that direction only by hearsay. He did not know Andrew Hamilton. He said no moneys had ever been placed in his hands directly or indirectly for political purposes or otherwise to influence legislation. His was not the only ship building suit settled, said Mr. Odell. He felt that his claims were just, and added: "I could have gone before any court and recovered a great deal more than I did from the Mercantile Trust company."

"Of course," said Mr. Hughes, "you will understand the committee is not here to try the merits of the claim; we are simply interested because definite threats were made that ——"

"There is no truth in that statement, so help me God."

When his settlement was under discussion, Mr. Hyde said to him that the Equitable Life had always made political contributions. Here Mr. Odell was asked to tell the facts about the introduction of the Ambler bill. He replied, "Why, I had prepared the introduction of that bill and brought the whole ship building case before Dist.-Attorney Jerome and stated that he had better look into it and see whether there was anything connected with the scandal which had not been investigated by his office. He said to me after several weeks that he had gone into it very carefully and concluded that there were no grounds for criminal prosecution. In the meantime such concerns as the fire company and the Whiting Paper company and American Bicycle trust and some 14 or 15 others had been mentioned as having been either projected by Alexander and Green and presumably with the approval and support of the Mercantile Trust, all of which had been failures, and it was suggested that something ought to be done to stop that, and in talking over the matter, in conference with people who came in, it was decided that some remedial legislation could be formulated and would prevent the unloading upon the public of these securities, among others those which I have mentioned. In the meantime, the papers had taken entirely different and antagonistic view of the matter; whether they had been inspired, or not, I do not know but there was more or less talk about it being a measure to get even with somebody; and then when Senator Ambler talked with me about it, I said to him that under the circumstances he better let the whole thing drop."

Mr. Untermeyer asked permission to cross-examine Mr. Odell, but was refused.

Mr. Hughes here asked several questions suggested by Mr. Untermeyer and it was brought out that Mr. Odell told Chairman Schwarb that the ship building case was one for criminal prosecution. Senator Brackett was present at this interview. Governor Odell was then excused.

Justice Erastus F. Ransome of the supreme court and counsel for George H. Squire, was next called. He said Mr. Squire is a very sick man. He saw Mr. Squire last night and acquainted him with the testimony yesterday relative to the transactions in Lawyer's Title Insurance stock. Judge Ransome described for Mr. Squire, the George H. Squire Trustee account. Former President James W. Alexander of the Equitable Life asked Squire to have that account carried under that title, said Judge Ransome. Mr. Squire never knew its purpose. He drew checks on that account because he was asked to do it.

U. S. Senator Chauncey M. Depew was then called. The senator said he had been a director of the Equitable since 1877 and was a member of the executive committee. He never heard of the various trustee accounts until this investigation. He knew of the campaign contributions only in a general way by way of conversation. He did not know the amount contributed to the national campaign in 1904. He hopes both state and national houses would pass laws prohibiting these contributions.

Witness knew nothing of contributions to any campaign but the national campaign. Senator Depew said he was first asked to go into a syndicate by George H. Squire. He detailed the various syndicates he had been in during four years and said there had netted him the sum of $1,219. In these transactions he had $200,000 tied up most of the time and $100,000 still tied up.

As to his retention as counsel by the Equitable society, Senator Depew said his statement to Superintendent Hendricks covered the field but he made an extended statement of his associations with Henry B. Hyde and said he continued as counsel for the society after the death of Mr. Hyde because it was one of Mr. Hyde's dying injunctions to his son. Senator Depew's salary as counsel was $20,000 a year from 1888 until last spring.

Witness said he never knew of the retention of counsel for legislative purposes and had never advised it. He did not know A. C. Fields, but had heard of Andrew Hamilton. He said he never had any interview with Thos. D. Jordan, former comptroller of the Equitable Life, as to legislative matters, nor as to letters of instruction from Jordan to Fields. He knew nothing of the Ambler bill to revoke the charter of the Mercantile Trust company.

The loan to the Depew Improvement company was asked about and Senator Depew said his letter to Paul Morton on August 31, 1905, a copy of which he presented, would answer any questions on that subject. The letter was read for the record.

Senator Depew said he was spoken to by friends of President Alexander and President Hyde about the increase in their salaries. He justified the large salary to one of Mr. Hyde's limited experience on the ground of his ability which he said was recognized by the financial men with whom he came in contact. Recess was taken while Senator Depew was testifying.

FOUND DEAD

FATHER OF FORMER BALL PLAYER DIED SUDDENLY.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—John Hafford, a retired Somerville patrolman, was found dead in bed at his home, 327 Washington street, Somerville, yesterday morning by members of his family. Although Mr. Hafford had not been in very good health in recent months his death was quite unexpected and was due to heart failure. He attended the football game between the Somerville and Waltham High elevens Tuesday afternoon.

He was born in Ireland Nov. 10, 1845. He came to this country when a boy. He served in the Civil war in Co. E, 35th Massachusetts regiment, and was discharged after a short service for disability. He learned the trade of a glass cutter at the Union Glass company works in Somerville, leaving that employment in January, 1875, when he was appointed a patrolman. He was retired April 25, 1903, on half pay.

He leaves a wife, two daughters and four sons, among them: Leon, now a student at Bowdoin college and a well known baseball and football athlete, and Frank, also a baseball player of note. The other sons are William and John T., the latter of whom is employed in the office of the Somerville city engineer.

MANY IN DANGER

100 Lives Endangered by Big Fire

BOSTON, [illegible] A fire which [illegible] on the sixth floor of [illegible] story building at [illegible] Alden street, endangered [illegible] of at least 100 employes [illegible] upper floors and was the occasion for several heroic rescues and caused damage by fire and water of several thousands of dollars.

Two men and a boy who were at work on the top floor and whose escape was cut off by the fire and smoke were rescued by firemen, one of them being carried down a scaling ladder on which perilous position the fireman had to cling while swinging the ladder over to an extension ladder where the rescuer was grasped firmly by the outstretched arms of other firemen and carried to the street. When the fire was discovered 40 or 50 girls and nearly as many boys and young men were thrown into a panic. Somebody shouted through the smoke "Everybody grab hold of everybody else and run down stairs."

The girls on that floor all caught up towels which they held over their faces with one hand while with the other hand caught the skirts of the girls or the coattails of the men, who were in front of them and the panic stricken procession started down the stairways which were so filled with smoke that the fleeing people could not see one another and could scarcely breathe.

In the rush Ethel [illegible], 17 years old, was knocked down and trampled upon but all the others got to the street in safety. The workmen on the third floor who ran up stairs to see that all had escaped, stumbled over the unconscious body of the girl and carried her to the open air. She was only slightly bruised and soon recovered. Joseph Riley, 16 years old, was unable to leave his workshop on the top floor in another part of the building and he hastened to a window sill. Only the reassuring cries of the people below apparently prevented him from jumping. When finally the long extension ladder reached him, the boy fainted. Meantime on another side of the building two men were being rescued through the use of extension scaling ladders.

POLICE WARNED

"DON'T ARREST ON GUESS WORK," SAYS AUTOIST.

The handsomest automobile seen in Lowell for many moons passed through the city today from Boston en route to Manchester, N. H. It was an American Mercedes touring car, and while it is the property of a Mr. Harding of Boston it wore a New York tag as it came fresh from the factory in that state.

It was occupied by Mr. Harding, a professional chauffeur, from the factory, and a gentleman friend of Mr. Harding. They stopped at the Waverly for lunch and while the machine stood near the side entrance to the hotel it was examined and much admired by at least 50 persons. While the machine, which by the way is 65 horse power, came in for an unusual share of admiration it carried a tag on the hind axle that was decidedly out of the ordinary. It was a warning to the police and read as follows:

"This machine is equipped with a Jones speed motor and the driver knows his speed. Don't arrest on guess work."

Fairbanks, Postmaster General Geo. B. Cortelyou and Governor M. T. Herrick.

SCULLIN SCORED

Labor Organizer Denounced by Delegate

PITTSBURG, Nov. 16. The forenoon session of the American Federation of Labor convention was quite strenuous. P. B. Scullin a labor organizer, was severely criticized by Frank Duffy of Indianapolis, who denounced yesterday's action of the federation in adopting a resolution endorsing the industrial peace association. Duffy charged Scullin with irregularities in connection with labor affairs.

Pres. Gompers announced that the matter would be given attention later.

Among the cities reported today were Newburyport, which showed a gain for Whitney of five votes, and Melrose showed an increase for Whitney of 23. Draper gained three in Brookline, two in Wakefield and one in Harwich. The republican candidate also gained six in the city of Haverhill.

Mr. O'Connor, addressing the court in behalf of the prisoner, said that he had never been arrested before and asked for clemency. HAD THE PRICE

Young Man Wanted a Marriage License

Business is decidedly brisk in the city clerk's office these days and the fellow who calls for a marriage license is looked upon as a kind of a butinsky. The regular staff and extra clerks are employed in the preparation of sample ballots and other work incidental to election.

A young man called this forenoon and carried his impatience on the counter having been allowed to stand unattended for a few moments.

"What is it?" asked Mr. McCarthy who was busily engaged at his desk.

"I want to get married," said the young man impatiently, "and I haven't very long to wait either."

"These are busy days with us," remarked Mr. McCarthy as he approached the counter to wait upon the young man. "We are preparing for election."

"Election is as nothing compared with the stunt that I am doing," said the young man as he mopped his brow with a lavender handkerchief. "I want to get the license before the other fellow gets here. I am not sure which of us she likes best, but she said last night that the fellow who copped off the license first would win her. I know the other fellow didn't have the price, but he might borrow it, so please hurry up."

"Marry in haste and repent at leisure," thought the clerk as he made out the license for the impatient young man who upon receiving it threw the coat on the counter and scurried out the door lest his rival should beat him out.

The local undertakers, that is the proprietors of the local undertaking establishments, are at Berkeley hall in Odd Fellows building in Tremont street today, taking the examination before the state board of embalmers, the members of which board were recently appointed by Governor Douglas. There are three members on the board, one of whom is John A. Weinbeck of this city.

In order to embalm dead bodies the participants in today's examination will have to secure the necessary percentage. At some future date the undertakers' assistants of this city will go to Boston to take the examination.

HEN THIEVES

GETTING IN THEIR WORK AROUND LOWELL.

Hen thieves have committed wholesale depredations upon the hen coops of Lowell and the surrounding country and since the first arrests called public attention to the fact reports of plundered hen coops are of a matter of almost daily report at the police station. Yesterday Chief Lawrence of Tyngsboro called at the police station with the complaint that some one had been taking Tyngsboro birds in large numbers. A few evenings ago thieves visited the hen roost of Dr. Collins of Nashua whose place is located on the Lowell road. In this case the thieves took some fancy exhibition stock valued at from $25 to $50 per bird.

PANIC ON BOURSE

No Military Dictator in St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17, 1 [illegible] p. m.—A panic prevailed on the Bourse today as the result of a rumor that the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, commander of the Imperial Guard had been appointed military dictator. There was a stampede of holders of industrial stocks who hastened to unload.

M. Voulch, chief of Premier Witte's chancellery, authorized the Associated Press to deny positively the rumor that a dictator had been appointed. He also declared that it had not been decided to declare martial law in St. Petersburg.

M. Voulch added:

"Happily matters have not reached such a desperate stage. For the moment the government is waiting to see what will be the popular response to the appeal for a general strike, instigated by the social democrats. Since the former general strike, the emperor's reform manifesto has been issued and the government must understand clearly how far the people, and public opinion support such a movement before reaching a decision as to the course to pursue."

A FALSE EMPEROR

Sets Claim to the Throne of Russia

ST. PETERSBURG, NOV. 16—A FALSE EMPEROR HAS SUDDENLY MADE HIS APPEARANCE NEAR PENZA AND ALREADY HIS FOLLOWERS NUMBER 50,000. THIS IS THE STARTLING REPORT RECEIVED THIS AFTERNOON IN A DISPATCH FROM SIMBIRSK.

PENZA IS IN THE HEART OF THE VAST REGION EXTENDING WESTWARD FROM THE VOLGA WHERE AGRARIAN UPRISINGS ON A LARGE SCALE HAVE BEEN OCCURRING AND IF THE REPORT TURNS OUT TO BE TRUE THAT THE PRETENDER TO THE THRONE HAS PLACED HIMSELF AT THE HEAD OF THE PEASANTRY, THE GOVERNMENT WILL SOON FACE BESIDES ITS OTHER TROUBLES A FORMIDABLE AGRARIAN REBELLION. IT REQUIRED A YEAR TO SUPPRESS THE FAMOUS REBELLION LED BY PUGATCHEFF WHO IMPERSONATED THE DETHRONED AND MURDERED PETER III IN THE TIME OF CATHERINE II. THAT UPRISING WAS STARTED IN THE SAME REGION ON THE BANKS OF THE VOLGA.

HEARST LOSES

Mayor McClellan Made Big Gain

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The original tally sheets in New York's recent mayoralty election were opened today by the board of county canvassers. In one election district Mr. Hearst was found to have seven more votes than were counted for him.

The board of canvassers allowed no one but themselves to handle the tally sheets. Counsel for both Mr. Hearst and Mayor McClellan were allowed to read all the sheets without touching them.

In the county of Queens, the election board of canvassers found that Mayor McClellan received 200 votes less than he should have had in one election district.

LETTER WRITING

SHOULD BE BRIEF AS POSSIBLE FOR ECONOMY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt in his instructions to the commission of which Mr. Keep, assistant secretary of the treasury, is chairman and which was created by the president to ascertain what changes may be necessary to place the conduct of the executive business of the government on the most economical and effective basis, called attention, among other things, to useless letter writing, urging that it should be eliminated from the government business. With reference to this particular branch of the commission's inquiry, the president said:

"A resolute effort should be made to secure brevity in correspondence and the elimination of useless letter writing. There is a type of bureaucrat who believes that his entire work and that the entire work of the government should be the collection of papers in reference to a case, corresponding with eager minuteness on each and corresponding with other officials in reference thereto. These people really care nothing for the case but only for documents in the case. In all branches of the government there is a tendency greatly to increase unnecessary and largely perfunctory letter writing."

FIGHT ODELL

HIS OPPONENTS ARE SEEKING HIGH AID.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 16.—That there is to be a serious attempt to reorganize the republican party in New York county and take its control from Benjamin B. Odell was disclosed here yesterday when Senator Platt, Mr. Odell's opponent for the leadership of the party in the state, and William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, chairman of the republican state executive committee, had long separate conferences with President Roosevelt. The visit of Platt and Barnes followed closely the visit here of a confidential messenger from Gov. Higgins. Prominent republicans from all over the state have been bombarding President Roosevelt with requests that he do something to aid the reorganization of the party, and divert from it all graft associations. The president is thoroughly convinced that there must be a reorganization of the New York county committee, but is somewhat puzzled as to what use he shall make of the only material at hand available for a fight against Chairman Odell.

The revelations made by James H. Hyde before the insurance committee yesterday struck cold chills down the spine of every New York republican in Washington.

BOSTON MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 16—The sharp advance in U. S. Mining brought out considerable realizing and the price eased off from 33 to 37½, during the early trading today. The general copper list developed little activity and the general list was neglected. North Butte continued to be the spectacular feature of the market. The stock sold up to 69½, an advance of 12 points in the last 3 days.

A WOMAN

GOT FIRST HONORS AT THE HORSE SHOW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—A woman led all exhibitors in the contest for first honors at the annual horse show when today's session opened. Mrs. John Gerken of Brooklyn upset recent precedents of horse show honors when she passed E. D. Jordan of Boston last night in the race for first place. He was the winner last year and handled all this week up to late last evening. Today Mrs. Gerken's record was $1355 in prizes against $1055 for Mr. Jordan. She had six blue ribbons, three reds, three yellows and one "highly commended" ribbon. Although the Boston exhibitor has taken an equal number of the blue ribbons with Mrs. Gerken and more seconds, his prizes were less valuable than hers.

One of the best programs of the week was scheduled for today, with 25 events on the card. Many of these classes were for racing horses. Interest centered principally in two events. One of these was the contest for jumpers or hunters with six fences to clear in place of the usual number of two. These fences were of different heights, beginning at five feet and ending with two six foot jumps. The other leading attraction was for four-in-hand road teams. Eleven teams were entered for this event making 44 horses in the tan bark arena at the same time. Their contest included making changes of horses for each coach. The winner was to be the team which was hitched to the coach with the greatest speed. The style of appointments was also considered in the contest.

CAPTAIN DAVIS

GIVES CREDIT TO SOLICITOR'S CREW FOR HEROIC WORK.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 16.—Capt. Wm. F. Davis, of the schooner James Parker, which was towed into this harbor yesterday in a sinking condition after a trying experience with a southeast gale off Brenton's Reef lightship, filed his official protest today with the customs house authorities. Captain Davis' account of his vessel's misfortunes was practically the same as contained in the newspaper reports last night. In his statement he gives considerable credit to Capt. O'Neil and crew of the tug Solicitor, which towed him into port, saying that without assistance he thought it entirely improbable that he could have reached port.

Capt. Davis and the other two members of his crew have recovered from their exposure to the gale. Mrs. Davis, the captain's wife who is an invalid, is said to be resting comfortably, at the house of a friend and it is expected that she will not suffer any serious results from her exposure.

The Parker was resting on the flats today with her deck only a few inches above water. Captain Davis hopes to save a portion of his cargo of lumber and have it shipped to its destination at Port Chester, N. Y. O. W. Tefft, of Westerly, R. I., the owner of the vessel, was expected here today to make arrangements for having the Parker pumped out and repaired.

ECONOMY

IS BEING PRACTICED BY GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Acting Public Printer Ricketts in an interview published today says:

"Judging from the volume of work now being turned out at the government printing office, economy has struck the government departments hard. We are now printing about as much stuff as we did five or six years ago. The amount has fallen off greatly within the three months and during my connection with the office has never been at so low a point as now."

Mr. Ricketts attributed the falling off in requests to print to the influence of the president and the determination of the heads of departments to cut down the printing bills which had grown to enormous proportions. There are perhaps fewer men and women at work in the printing office this month than at any other time for several years.

INJURIES WERE FATAL.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 16.—Patrick Connelly, aged 35 years, who was injured in Uxbridge, Mass., last Thursday through being struck by an electric car, died at the home of his parents in this city today. Connelly was a woolen weaver in the Hecla mills in Uxbridge. He was unmarried.

HEIR TO THRONE ILL.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 16—The illness of Count Flanders, brother of King Leopold and heir to the throne has taken a critical turn.

NEW CREMATOR

Will be Accepted by the Health Board

The Decarie cremator recently installed in this city was tested yesterday and the tests were perfectly satisfactory.

The Sun, yesterday, told of the performance of the cremator for two hours. The main test, however, was from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 2 o'clock this morning and during that time 11 tons of ordinary market refuse with more or less swill were burned. Each load was weighed by Mr. Thomas Garvey so that there was no guess work. There was absolutely no odor and it is the opinion of the board of health that the expense of burning the refuse will be less than that stated by Mr. Decarie, which was somewhere in the vicinity of 60 cents a ton.

The board members admit that the cremator is all that Mr. Decarie claimed for it. The board will meet this evening and it is expected that the cremator will be accepted. The price is $10,900.

FINE PROGRAM

MUSICALE GIVEN BY EDWARD E. ADAMS

A reception musicale was given last evening by Mr. Edward E. Adams at his rooms in Odd Fellows' temple, Middlesex street. The numbers were of a high order and greatly appreciated by those in attendance. Those who took part in the entertainment were Miss Ella Chase and Mr. Alvah J. Baxter, pianists, Miss Anna C. MacKay, soprano, Mr. Henry G. Hardy, baritone; and Mr. Adams himself, who was the accompanist. One of the numbers which was much appreciated was a song, "The Bird Carol," a composition by Mr. Adams, which Miss MacKay sang with rare effect. The last number on the program was a Schubert composition which Miss Chase and Mr. Adams played as a duet.

The selections by Miss Chase were most favorably received by those present and were rendered in her usual excellent style. Especially pleasing was the number "Impromptu" by Reinhold which was given with fine effect. The phrasing was well nigh perfect and the different passages were brought out to greatest advantage. In the duet with Mr. Adams, Miss Chase again displayed her skill as a pianist and deserved all the applause accorded her.

CUT IN TWO

COAL BARGE SUNK BY A STEAMER.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 16.—The ocean-going coal barge Frank Pendleton was cut in two and sunk by the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation company's steamer Kershaw in the outer Norfolk harbor as the Kershaw was coming in today from Boston, loaded with freight and passengers.

The Pendleton was at anchor waiting to sail in tow for Providence, R. I., with 2123 tons of coal. Captain Mclandse, of the Pendleton, and his crew were rescued by the Kershaw which proceeded to her Norfolk pier. The Kershaw suffered no damage.

INTER CHURCH CONFERENCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The report of the executive committee before the Inter Church conference on federation in Carnegie hall was the first business taken up by that body today. The report declared that there was no intention at any time to invite all the churches to the conference but only the larger churches and those "already in fraternal relations and substantial agreement as to the fundamental christian doctrine."

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The Association of American Agricultural colleges and experiment stations at its final meeting today elected as its president M. H. THE LATE JOHN F. McCAFFREY, WHOSE FUNERAL TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY.

STICKER BALLOT

Will be Used in Ward Seven for First Time

The action of the board of ballot law commissioners in throwing out the names of candidates for the democratic city committee in ward seven last night after a hearing develops a state of affairs entirely new to the city if not to the state under the Luce law, namely an election by means of stickers. The law states that the members of the city committee shall be elected at the municipal caucuses but after the action of the ballot law commission there will be no names left on the ballot as candidates for the city committee. Hence the voters will either have to write in the names of these for whom they desire to vote or else vote by means of stickers which in all probability will be the method employed. It is understood that a new slate will be made with the names of the men dropped by ballot law commission on the stickers and the ward will be hurriedly canvassed in their behalf. It will be necessary for the voter to make a cross against each name on the sticker for a vote for one will not carry along the other eight. The whole state will watch the result with deep interest for it is the first use of the stickers on the ballot since the Luce law went into effect.

CAPTAIN KERR

COMPLAINS OF ACTION OF NEW YORK POLICEMEN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Captain E. F. Kerr, commanding H. M. S. Drake, flagship of Prince Louis of Battenberg, today sent a letter to Police Commissioner McAdoo complaining of the conduct of policemen on board the ship since she has been alongside the Canard wharf. Captain Kerr declares that after the ball given by Prince Louis Tuesday night the policemen who had come on board during the function, could not be induced to leave. He declares they had been drinking and by their noisy conduct kept officers and crew awake long after 4 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Commissioner McAdoo sent a police captain to the Drake late yesterday to take testimony against the offending policemen.

SOCIAL SESSION.

The Sam Walter Foss club held its first social of the season with Mrs. A. E. Kenyon, 525 Chelmsford street, on Wednesday afternoon. There was a short business session and the rest of the afternoon was devoted to games and music and a social time. There was singing by Mrs. Eugene Russell, piano solo by Miss Grace Hatch and Mrs. Ella Penn, playing of the guitar by Miss Ethel Hadden, and mandolin solo by Miss Viola Merrill. The club received its new calenders, and the club plans which they have adopted, which are in the form of an open book. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Hatch, Mrs. W. H. Upham and Mrs. Ella Blake. The club has met with a great loss in the death of Mrs. F. A. Bowen, who by her winning ways and gentle manners endeared herself to all the members. The next meeting will be with Mrs. F. A. Spaulding, 32 Grace street.

VETERAN GENERAL DEAD.

SPENCER, Nov. 17—Arva Grinnell, a veteran of the Mexican war died at his home in this town yesterday at the age of 79 years.

Mr. Grinnell was a member of the New England Grenadiers, Company K. In the Mexican war he is said to have been the first man who scaled the walls of Chapultepec and was a witness to the branding and execution of Riley's deserters. He came to Spencer from Rutland, Vt., thirty years ago where he was employed as a shoe maker. A wife and two daughters survive.

KRUP MISSING

Sensation in New York Election Cases

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Something of a sensation was created in Justice Davies' branch of the supreme court yesterday afternoon when John Krup, indicted for illegal voting in the recent municipal election, failed to appear for trial, and his attorneys expressed ignorance as to his whereabouts. Earlier in the day Krup's release had been secured under increased bail, a $5000 cash bond being filed. State Attorney General Mayer, who was in court, was indignant at the turn of affairs. Last night the attorney general made public this statement:

"Every effort will be made to ascertain who put up the $5000 bail, and who employed counsel to defend Krup. The failure of Krup to appear in court was as flagrant a defiance of law as I ever heard of. The disappearance of Krup is the best confirmation of the statement made by me in court urging that his bail be increased. I believe there were reasons, apart from reasons of his own, why Krup did not appear."

Justice Davies declared the $5000 bail forfeited. Krup's case was reached at 2 o'clock, but at the request of counsel was postponed for an hour. At 3 o'clock there was still no sign of the defendant. His lawyers, Abraham Levy and former Deputy Attorney General Charles P. Dillon, said they had left him but a short time before and he had assured them he would be in court.

Attorney General Mayer, moving for a forfeiture of bail, declared he was not surprised at the turn of affairs.

"If this defendant has left town," declared the attorney general, "I know with whom he was last seen and will know how to proceed. I thought somebody must have been greatly interested in Krup to put up $5000 bail for him just to secure his liberty for a few hours."

HARVARD

REACHES AGREEMENT WITH CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—An arrangement between Harvard university and the New England Conservatory of Music whereby the students of one institution may attend the other was made public today. The plan provides on the part of the conservatory for the admission of properly qualified students from the Harvard musical department, not only to the conservatory orchestra and chorus, but also into its courses in choir training and liturgical music. In return for these opportunities, Harvard offers to properly qualified students of the conservatory privileges of attending certain of its own courses including English, French and German literature, English composition, fine arts and public speaking.

WORKMEN GRUMBLE

Do Not Like to Obey the Order to Strike

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 16—2.15 p. m.—The outlook is much less threatening today, the general strike promising to collapse within a few days. The appeal made to the country to join in the movement met with no response and the dissension in the workmen's council is increasing.

country to join in the movement met with no response and the dissentions in the workmen's council is increasing.

It is now apparent that extremists took the decision to order a general political strike without due preparation in the belief that the whole country would rise at their bidding and continue the revolutionary movement. Having once demonstrated the power of a general strike as a weapon with which to terrorize the government the leaders believed they could invoke it at a moment's notice but popular sympathy failed to respond and the leaders reluctantly admit that they cannot force a ditch fight but must content themselves with calling the present strike a "Demonstration." While the organized workmen of St. Petersburg obeyed the order to strike many did so grumblingly. In the face of the winter and the necessity of providing for their families, many of them did not want to stop work. At the Russo-American rubber works this morning, anti-strikers beat off and drove away a strike deputation which came to order the workmen out.

None of the papers except the Official Messenger, appeared this morning, but the printers of each newspaper themselves published fly sheets announcing that the strike was for the purpose of abolishing the state of siege, the death penalty and martial law throughout Poland. It is now established that the cry set up by the Socialist leaders against the execution of the Cronstadt mutineers was premature as their trials have not yet actually begun.

The snow storm which began last night is still raging today. There are many patrols on the streets but the city is quiet.

Baron Ginsberg, a well-known Jewish philanthropist of St. Petersburg, has received imperial authorization for the distribution of the Jewish relief funds raised in America, England, and other foreign countries. He is now organizing committees. The advices received here indicate that much money will be required and the bulk of the funds on hand will immediately be distributed to provide those who are in urgent need with food and other necessaries of life. The most horrible accounts of the massacres and destruction of property are reaching St. Petersburg by mail. The inhabitants of the entire town of Chernigoff, practically the whole of the population being Jews, were utterly annihilated. Baron Gunsberg's son, who has just arrived here from Kieff, escaped from a mob by hasty flight. When he returned to his residence he found it looted. Count Witte advises that the relief funds be distributed through local committees under Baron Gunsberg's direction. Baron Gunsberg expresses confidence in Count Witte's sympathy with the demand for equal rights for the Jews and he appreciates the attitude of the premier in postponing a decision and leaving the responsibility for the settlement of this question to the national assembly. Count John Tolstoi, the new minister of education, is openly advocating the removal of all restrictions limiting the percentage of Jewish pupils and students in the schools and universities.

Yesterday's meeting of the ministers at Count Witte's residence in the annex of the Winter Palace was prolonged until 2 a. m. today. After it ended Count Witte decided to make a personal appeal to the workmen and drafted the following which today was posted throughout the industrial section:

"Brother workmen: Get to your work. Cease making disturbances and have pity on your wives and children. Do not listen to bad advice. The emperor has ordered us to devote special attention to the labor question. For this purpose his majesty has created a ministry of trade commerce which must especially seek to establish just relations between workmen and employers. Have patience. All that is possible will be done for you. Listen to the advice of a man who sympathizes with you and wishes you well.

(Signed) Witte."

When the above appeal was read to the workmen at the Westinghouse works, the leaders replied.

"Witte promises us a soft bed but in the meantime we must sleep on a hard one."

Like the workmen of other factories the Westinghouse employes informed the manager that the strike would proceed until Saturday when it would be decided whether to continue it or call it off.

LOSS IS HEAVY

Big Fire in a Wire Weaving Plant

GEORGETOWN, Conn., Nov. 17—The extensive wire weaving plant of the Gilbert and Bennett Manufacturing company in this place was threatened with total destruction by a fire which broke out soon after five o'clock yesterday afternoon, causing a loss variously estimated between $5000 and $75,000. The saving of the big plant, the largest wire weaving concern east of Chicago was due partly to a sudden shift of the wind to northwest, which carried the flames toward the dam and away from the many buildings of the Gilbert and Bennett group.

Supt. S. J. Miller said last night that the buildings of the Gilbert and Bennett company covered six or seven acres. He said he thought the fire started in the basement of mill No. 2, but he could not state the cause. A big brick fire wall to the south figured in the saving of the plant as well as the shift in the wind.

The burned building was a two story structure, 170 by 50 feet and was totally destroyed. About one hundred men were employed in it and it was used as a wire drawing establishment. The loss is covered by insurance.

CAUCUSES CALLED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The republicans and democrats of the house of representatives have each called caucuses for the nomination of officers of the house. The democrats will caucus on the afternoon of Saturday, December 2, and the republicans in the evening of that day, both in the hall of the house.

SACRED CONCERT.

By this time it seems unnecessary to say much about the Sunday concerts which are being held every Sunday afternoon and evening at the Academy of Music for at every performance people have to be turned away owing to the capacity of the house being taxed, but it might be well to mention at this time that two more of the concerts will be held Sunday afternoon and evening. Of course they will be good. Nothing but the best is scheduled for the Academy of Music, and nothing is too good for the patrons of the house.

Among the principal moving pictures to be shown will be "The Ill Rewarded Conjurer," "His First Night Away From Home," "The Horse Thief," "Creosotes Metallurgy," "Stolen by Gypsies," "A Pleasure Trip," and a host of other fine pictures including both comical and realistic ones.

Daniel J. Sullivan, "Our Sully," will be there with the goods and deliver them while the Ladies' Orchestra will also do its best.

The prices for the afternoon will be ten and twenty cents and in the evening, ten, twenty and thirty cents.

When all the other fellows fail, try E. G. Russell. Read his ads.

SOCIAL AND MUSICAL.

The members of the House of Prayer held a social and musical at the home of Mrs. Albert Deahll, 33 Dover street, last night. The program included the following numbers:

The affair was managed by Miss Annie Maddocks, assisted by Miss Florence Deahll, Miss Maude Eva Hadley and Miss Grace Mitchell. Refreshments were served.

OFFER HIM $1000

License Board Asks Bartlett for Proofs

BOSTON, Nov. 17. Messrs. Harry P. Hunnewell and Dennis A. O'Brien, license commissioners for Chelsea, yesterday afternoon issued a statement in which they offer to pay $500 to Justin P. Bartlett or any person to produce facsimiles of checks "paid to a member of the license commission by two liquor dealers of the city over and above the amount paid for their licenses," or for "proof that we directly or indirectly, ever received checks or money from any part of any liquor dealers as a personal consideration for the granting of their licenses."

This statement was made in answer to a statement made by Mr. Bartlett, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor of Chelsea, to the effect that he has in his possession facsimiles of checks paid to a license commissioner over and above the amount paid for licenses.

Mr. Bartlett's insinuation was that these alleged checks were paid to improperly influence the license commissioners. Mr. Bartlett, however, did not exhibit the facsimiles. He did not tell the names of the alleged givers, nor does he state the amount of the alleged checks.

The license commissioners personally made an effort to see Mr. Bartlett yesterday and demand that he show them the facsimiles. They were unable to find him at his place of business in Chelsea, and a newspaper man who tried to make an engagement with Mr. Bartlett with reference to the matter was unable to do so.

Last night Mr. Bartlett issued a statement in which he said he would show the facsimiles he claims to have, if any one will post a certified check for $1000, to be paid to him according to the statements of the license commissioners. Mr. Bartlett adds that the man to whom he alleges the checks were given is not Mr. O'Brien.

The license commissioners say that they don't know what Mr. Bartlett means unless he may refer to checks given to Mr. Dunbar, who is a merchant tailor, and among whose customers are included some men who are in the liquor business in Chelsea.

Mr. Bartlett's refusal to be made specific in his charges has made the affair only of mild interest to Chelsea people generally, and little comment is heard on the matter.

Mr. Bartlett yesterday applied for a bill in equity to enforce his right to the use of the Walnut street synagogue Sunday afternoon, against a claim made by Mayor Willard's friends to the use of the hall the same afternoon. It appears that both sides claim to have hired the hall. The matter will be heard in the equity court this morning.

FOOTBALL NOTES

The Bunting football association will have at it with the Textile school team tomorrow afternoon. The ball will be kicked off at two o'clock sharp. Both teams are in fine form and it is expected that it will be one of the best games of the season. The team for the Buntings is as follows: Goal, Thomas O'Loughlin; right full back, J. Halligan; left full back, Greenhalge; centre, R. Hoyle; right half back, J. Yare; left half back, J. Pearson; forwards, right outside, S. Haslam; left outside, H. Greenhalge; right inside, H. Keye; left inside, W. Yare. Reserves, Samuel Bell, Hugh Rudden, Arthur Simpson.

This will be the first game played by the Textile school boys, but they will do their best to score a victory. Several of the school players never saw an association game until they went into practice. The school team will be chosen from the following players: H. Schwartz, B. Holgate, A. Ferguson, J. Coleman, Raymond, MacDonald, Cheney, Walker, Robertson, Thompson, Woodruff, A. Willie, S. Smith, J. Wilmott, T. Nelson, W. Nelson, A. Stewart Woods, Church and A. N. Other. The team is trying to arrange two games with the Harvard association team, one on Soldier field and one on the school campus. Games may also be arranged with the Lynn High association team and other teams in the district.

CHANGE IN LAW

Relative to Assessment of Polls

The New Bedford board of assessors has drafted an amendment to chapter 11, section 19, R. L., relating to the assessment of poll taxes. The amendment will be introduced in the next legislature by Senator Bullock, and copies will be sent to the representatives and their support of the measure requested. Other copies will be sent to assessors throughout the state.

The statute at present reads as follows:

"Section 19. If a male person resident in a city or town on the first day of May was not assessed for a poll tax, he shall, in order to establish his right to assessment, present to the assessors before the close of registration, a statement under oath that he was on said day a resident of said city or town and liable to pay a poll tax therein, and a list under oath of his polls and estate and shall also produce before the assessors two witnesses, who shall testify underneath that they are voters of the ward or town in which such person desires to be registered and that the statement of the applicant is true."

It is proposed that the foregoing section be amended as follows:

"Section 19 of chapter 11 of the revised laws of Massachusetts is hereby amended by striking out all of the first paragraph of said section after the word 'therein,' in the fifth line, to and including the word 'true,' in the ninth line thereof, so that the said section shall read as follows:

"Section 19. If a male person resident in a city or town on the first day of May was not assessed for a poll tax he shall, in order to establish his right to assessment, present to the assessors a statement under oath that he was on said day a resident of such city or town, and liable to pay a poll tax therein."

It is the opinion of many assessors that the requirements of the above section of chapter 11 of the revised laws relating to the assessment of poll taxes imposes a hardship on those persons whose names have inadvertently been left off the list of assessed persons, inasmuch as such persons are often personally known to the assessors as liable to a poll tax, and it should be sufficient evidence of a person's right to be assessed if he is so known, or if he makes oath to a statement before one of the assessors and submits to be questioned as to his residence, and, making satisfactory answers, it should be within the power of the assessors to make an assessment without requiring further evidence.

The portion of the statute which is particularly odious is the part requiring a citizen to have two witnesses accompany him to the assessors' office and swear to the truth of his statement, as this requirement necessarily cumbers the process of making assessments and interferes with the proper dispatch of business in the assessors' department, and unnecessarily reflects on the honesty of purpose of the citizen who seeks an assessment.

SAIMAN SIRK

Has Bought More Land in Boston

Saiman Sirk has purchased a number of parcels in Boston. In one transaction John P. Webber is the grantor, while in another the grantor is the John A. Lowell estate.

The property owned by John P. Webber conveyed to Mr. Sirk, comprises the brick building and 587 square feet of land, numbered 99 Leverett street, taxed for $9500. Of this amount the land is taxed for $3700. The price was $11,500.

Another estate transferred from Mr. Webber to Mr. Sirk is that at 37 Norman street, near Green, west end, consisting of a brick house and 790 square feet of land, the total taxed value being $6500. Of this amount the land is taxed for $3000. The price was $8000.

The brick house and 1100 square feet of land numbered 26 Poplar street, west end, is another parcel included in the conveyance. This estate has a taxed value of $9600, and was purchased by Mr. Sirk for $10,500. The land is taxed for $3100.

The three-story brick house standing on 1225 square feet of land, numbered 17 Lyman street, west end, having a taxed value of $10,000, has been transferred to Mr. Sirk by Mr. Webber, the consideration being $9500. The assessors value the land at $4900. The location is near Causeway street.

In Roxbury the parcel transferred from John P. Webber to Saiman Sirk is numbered 15 to 17 Southwood street, near the corner of Edgewood street, there being two octagon front brick houses and 2807 square feet of land, the whole assessed for $7000. The land has a taxed value of $1000.

LOWELL LODGE, K. P.

A ladies' night was held by Lowell lodge, Knights of Pythias, in Pythian hall last night and there were several hundred members and their friends present. The business meeting was postponed until the next regular meeting and a fine musical and literary program was carried out during the evening. James E. Donnelly sang "Down the Vale." Following him came Miss Eva Lord, who sang "What You Goin' to Do When the Rent Comes 'Round?" and "Under the Old Oak Tree." Miss Inez George pleased with "My Irish Molly O" and responded to an encore, singing "A Japanese Love Song." John McLaren gave several vocal selections. The accompanists were Robert E. Fay and E. D. B. Smith. Readings were given by Mr. John Usher and Miss Jane Usher, the former giving "The Soldier's Pardon" and the latter "The Two Fires."

Light refreshments were served. The committee having the pleasant affair in charge consisted of the following named: S. A. McPhetres, chairman; E. M. Earle, secretary, and George Swallow, G. F. Swann, John Usher, Sidney Blowen, Thomas Blair and William Jelly.

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

WHAT IS MOST NEEDED

In order to make our city prosperous we want a greater diversity of industries: we want industries that pay higher wages than do the cotton mills; and to induce such industries to locate here, we should offer the most liberal terms in regard to sites, buildings and railroad facilities.

Too long has the prosperity of our city been linked with that of the cotton mills. Now that we are a city of about 100,000 inhabitants with unrivalled facilities and resources for manufacturing industries of every description, we should bend our efforts to the establishment of new lines of industry so that a depression or a temporary shutdown of the cotton mills may not be regarded in the nature of a calamity.

In regard to new industries let it be remembered that enterprise and public spirit are needed on the part of our own citizens. If we cannot induce a sufficient number of new industries to come here, let us establish new industries for ourselves. Do not mind if the beginnings be small; some of the best industries in Lowell today arose from small beginnings.

Perhaps Mr. O'Brien could bring up some other city committee fight with a long list of witnesses. There are a good many who would like to draw the witness fees.

The president has evidently been cautioned by the bosses, including Lodge, not to give the Massachusetts looters any encouragement. The reciprocity and tariff revision schism is puzzling the party here in the east. Something must be done.

The contest for the mayoralty nomination on both sides is carried on in this city in a more diversion compared to the exciting warfare waged in Boston. It will be interesting to see what effect the struggle will have on the democratic vote in Boston on election day.

The navy department is to court-martial a middy for alleged manslaughter, for having killed a comrade in a boxing bout. Since the department has allowed prize fighting on board its ships, we do not see how it can logically punish a man if in a friendly bout he struck a fatal blow.

We have heard of men being mistaken for deer in the woods of Maine but out at Westford the other day a sharp eyed gunner mistook a man for a rabbit and filled his body with shot. Don't be surprised if men are taken for monkeys by some of our expert gunners.

MAYOR LYNCH IN DEFEAT.

Here is part of a glowing tribute which the Lawrence Telegram pays to Mayor Lynch, who has just been defeated for the nomination for a third term:

"A clean man, a model husband and father; a man against whom no stain can be found—surely Lawrence needs such men as this needs them in society, in the church, needs them in business, and though they may not always find appreciation in political circles, the fact remains that the body politic needs them quite as much as the business interests.

"Citizen Lynch will be able to walk out of city hall after inauguration next year able to look every man in the face, conscious of duty well performed and every crisis bravely met."

The Telegram, be it remembered, is a republican paper and Mayor Lynch is a democrat.

RICH GIFTS TO SPRINGFIELD.

The city of Springfield has had a blast of good luck which has brought it gifts for public purposes aggregating $1,500,000. One of the gifts is from the iron master, Andrew Carnegie, who is haunted by a mortal fear of dying rich. He gave $150,000 for a public library which no doubt will be a great boon for the Garden city. The other gifts were from residents of Springfield and include a legacy of about $500,000 from the James P. Gray estate for the collection of paintings planned to be added to the public library. A legacy of nearly equal amount from the E. M. Walker estate for the Springfield hospital, library and Forest park; and David B. Wesson's gifts of two hospitals which taken together will cost over $500,000.

The million dollar gifts of two legacies are not to be immediately available, being subject to the life use of personal heirs, but payment is assured so that the city can look forward to the use of them at an early day.

The latest gift of Mr. Wesson is a maternity hospital, announced last week. Fortunate Springfield, fortunate in her citizens, fortunate in her lot. Such public spirit is rare. Lowell needs not a library for she has a good one, but she does need a city hospital. We have hospitals, good hospitals, one of which reflects the benevolence of Frederick Fanning Ayer, and another the charitable efforts of sisters of charity; while a third is maintained by the corporations for the benefit of their employes sick or injured, but none of these answers the purpose of a city hospital.

Again we proclaim it from the house-tops, as it were, that there is a great opportunity for some wealthy citizen to distinguish himself and immortalize his name by donating to the city of Lowell, sufficient money to build a city hospital. The philanthropic gifts by Mr. Ayer and Mr. Buttrick have been made in behalf of a religious denomination, not for the citizens at large. What we want now is a gift for the public at large, for all classes of sufferers, for humanity. That is the kind of gifts that have been made to Springfield. While we do not disparage the gifts to denominations, we do say that Lowell has been singularly unfortunate in the lack of public spirit that provides for the entire people without distinction of class, color or creed. We are not pessimistic as to her future fate, her luck or her destiny. We believe the time is at hand when she will boast a splendid city hospital as she now boasts a beautiful library. If any wealthy resident wishes to immortalize his or her name by such a philanthropic work, here is the opportunity.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK

For Count Witte in Pacifying Strikers

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17. [illegible] p. m. The outlook for an early collapse of the strike is more gloomy today. The situation is distinctly more menacing. The council of workmen's delegates or strike committee, are manifestly encouraged by the extension of the strike in St. Petersburg, various organizations, including the bank clerks, telephone girls and some of the professional leagues having voted to join in the movement. Moreover it is certain that the workmen's council have received mysterious supplies of funds and consequently they present a bolder front.

Practically all the pretexts based on economic demands have been abandoned although the eight-hour day figures in the speeches at meetings in order to hold the workmen, who have no thought except improvement in their material condition.

The workmen's council returned a scornful reply to Count Witte's personal appeal to his "brother workmen" ridiculing the government's profession of solicitude for the workmen and renewing their demands for the immediate abolition of martial law in Poland, etc.

Count Witte's attempt to negotiate directly with the strike leaders has come to naught although he offered concessions in the case of the Cronstadt mutineers in the event of their being condemned to death. But the [illegible]

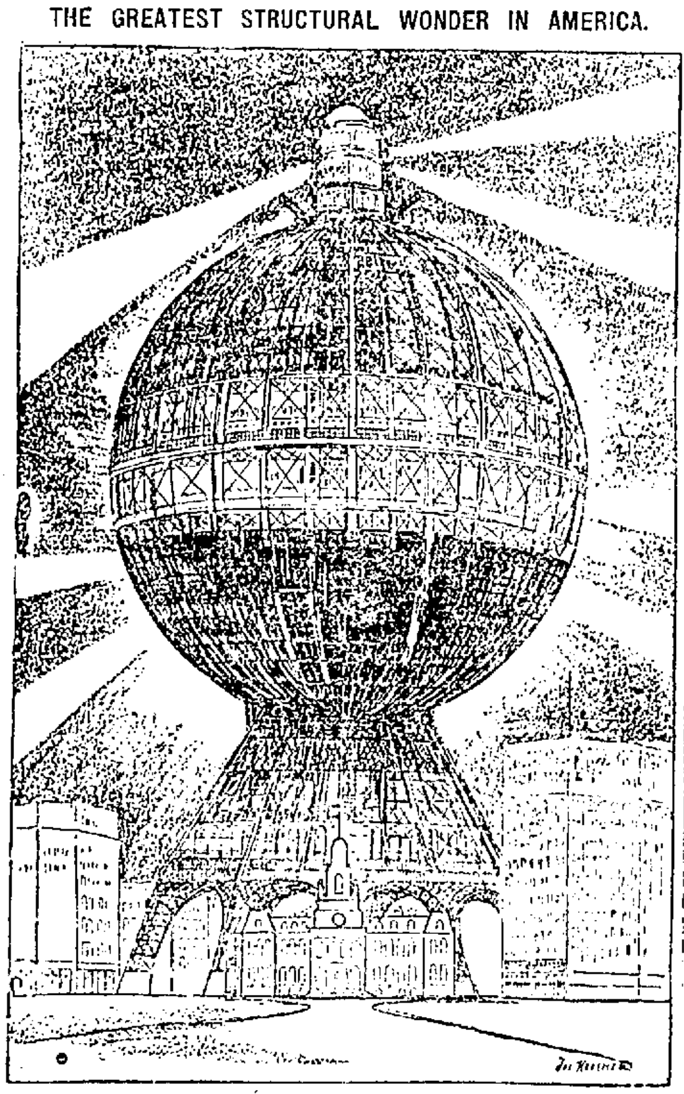
EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE

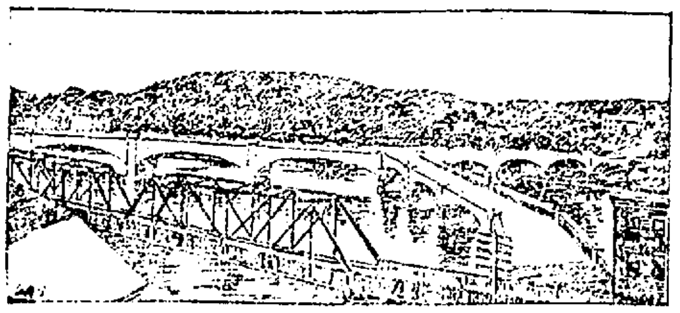
190-192 MIDDLESEX STREET

THE GREATEST STRUCTURAL WONDER IN AMERICA.



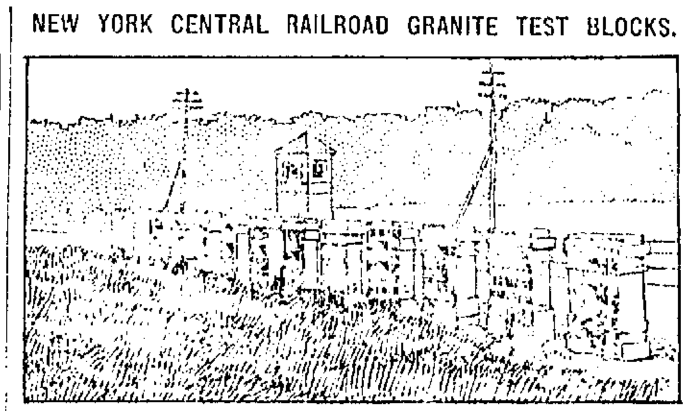
The curious structure shown in the picture will be built at Coney Island, New York's famous seaside resort, at a cost of about $1,000,000. It consists of an immense steel globe 700 feet in height and 350 feet in diameter, which will stand on legs as tall as an ordinary skyscraper. This great sphere will resemble a huge ball suspended in midair and within it 25,000 persons may be entertained at once. Eight electric elevators will convey passengers to the top, and the entire interior will be devoted to amusement purposes. The observation tower at the top of the globe will accommodate 2,000 persons at one time.

A UNIQUE BRIDGE OVER TWO RIVERS.



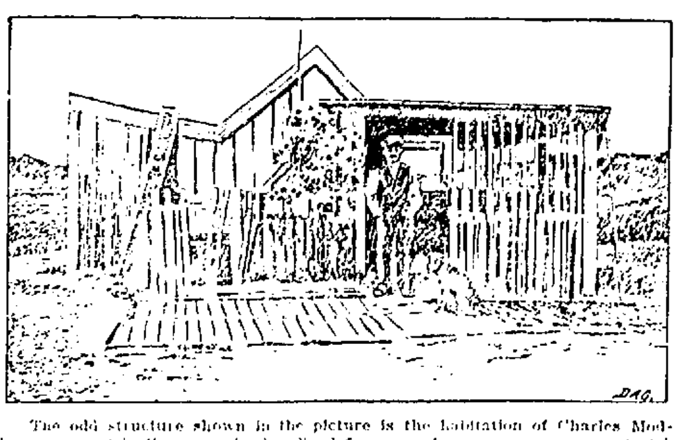
The curious Y shaped bridge shown in the cut is at Zanesville, O., and is [illegible] of three arms, joining in the center and affording a means of transit over the Muskingum and Licking rivers. The bridge is of steel and concrete and cost $200,000. The entire structure comprises eight spans, with a total length of 1,000 feet. The east arm is 420 feet, the north arm 300 and the west arm 180. The bridge is as ornamental as it is substantial.

NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD GRANITE TEST BLOCKS.



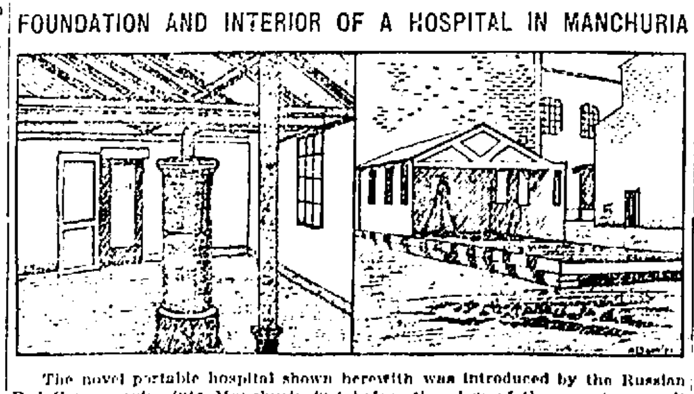
The row of granite blocks herewith illustrated has the appearance of a line of tombstones, and travelers passing rapidly on the cars of the adjacent railroad have often mistaken them for such. There are fifteen of them standing in a precise line, and all of them are of similar dimensions. Although they look funereal, they are in reality only samples of the various kinds of granite from which the officials of the railroad are to select the one most suitable for their buildings in future. They were put in their present form by the various dealers in granite and are in competition.

HOUSE OF A LONG ISLAND HERMIT.



The odd structure shown in the picture is the habitation of Charles Modler, an eccentric German who has lived for several years on a narrow stretch of land reaching out into Gardiner's bay, Long Island sound. No other human being lives in the vicinity, the spot being nine miles from a settlement by land and half that distance by water. The hermit appears occasionally in the nearest village and obtains a few supplies and then returns to his solitary home. It is a wild region in winter time, and Modler has rescued several persons who were driven ashore by the storm. His only company is an especially intelligent dog, and the pair form a sort of life saving crew.

FOUNDATION AND INTERIOR OF A HOSPITAL IN MANCHURIA



The novel portable hospital shown herewith was introduced by the Russian Red Cross service into Manchuria just before the close of the recent war. It was made of wood cut into thin strips and joined together with the grain the opposite way. These boards are put together with a waterproof composition and are protected against the weather by mineral paint. This kind of structure may be carried in sections and set up in a few minutes. A collapsible barrack for surgical operations has also been devised from the same material, and it has met with the approval of all who have examined it.

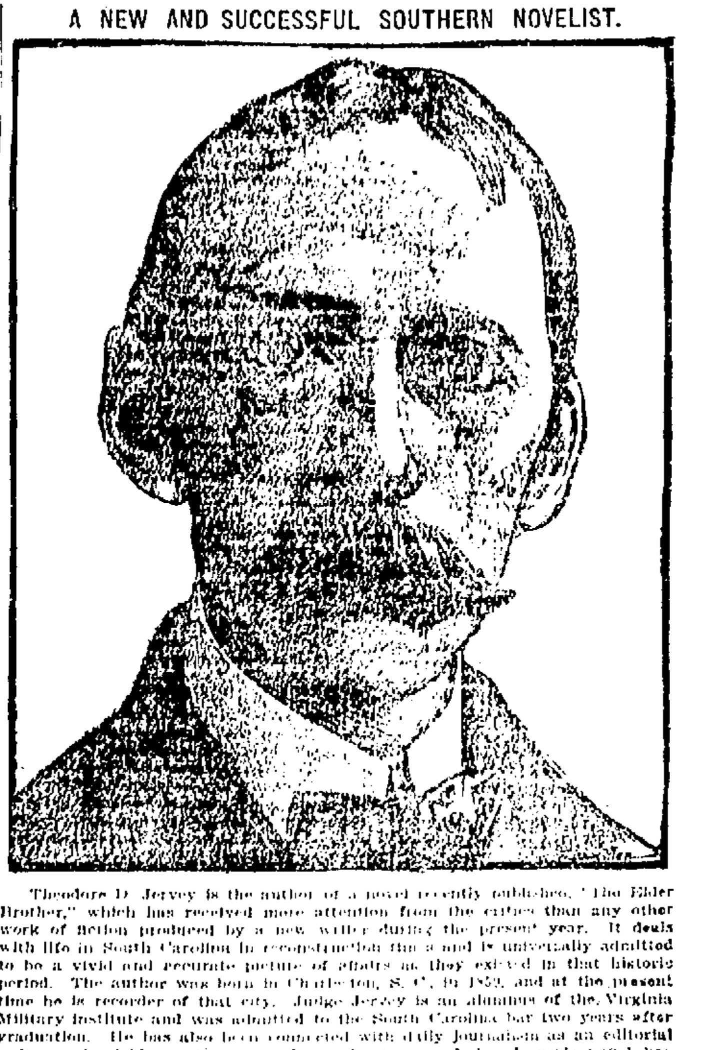
CHARLES DICKENS' OLD CURIOSITY SHOP.

The quaint old structure shown in the cut is the veritable shop near Lincoln's Inn Fields made famous by Charles Dickens in his immortal masterpiece. It is now owned and occupied by a dealer in waste paper, who is also sufficiently enterprising to turn an extra honest penny by retailing various Dickens souvenirs. The shop is visited by many Dickens lovers, and it is a fact that the majority of them are Americans.

CHANGES IN NILE VALLEY.

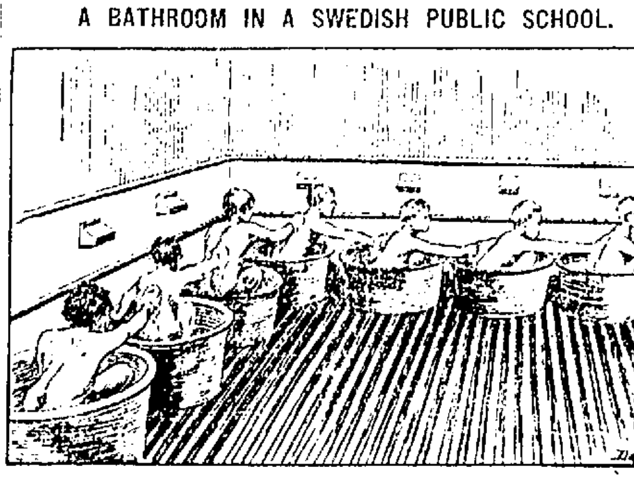
The Nile valley in Egypt has experienced remarkable climatic changes since the completion by the British of the great Assouan irrigation system, and there have been electrical storms of a character hitherto unknown to the country, during one of which the Khephren pyramid was struck by lightning, an occurrence that has never before been recorded.

A NEW AND SUCCESSFUL SOUTHERN NOVELIST.



Theodore D. Jervey is the author of a novel recently published, "The Elder Brother," which has received more attention from the critics than any other work of fiction produced by a new writer during the present year. It deals with life in South Carolina in reconstruction times and is universally admitted to be a vivid and accurate picture of affairs as they existed in that historic period. The author was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1859, and at the present time he is recorder of that city. Judge Jervey is an alumnus of the Virginia Military Institute and was admitted to the South Carolina bar two years after graduation. He has also been connected with daily journalism as an editorial writer and wields a vigorous and trenchant pen. Judge Jervey's novel has made a decided impression on the literary world.

A BATHROOM IN A SWEDISH PUBLIC SCHOOL.



The scene depicted in the cut may be witnessed on any school day in any one of the public schools of Stockholm. Three days of the week are assigned to the boys and the remainder of the time to the girls, and every pupil's turn comes once in two or three weeks. Ten to twenty bathe at the same time, and it is practically a continuous performance. It has been found to be markedly conducive to health. It will be seen that each pupil scrubs the pupil in front of him.

OLDEST RAILWAY STATION IN ENGLAND.

The thatched two roomed cottage shown in the cut was used as the first railway station in England. It was at the terminus of a line which was opened seventy-three years ago between Bodmin and Wadebridge. The rolling stock of that railway consisted of two engines and three passenger coaches. When travel was heavy, cars used for hauling sand and iron ore were provided with seats and pressed into service.

There are more tunnels, viaducts and railway bridges in Switzerland than in any other country in Europe.

Kate Clyde

THINKS THAT HUSBANDS AND WIVES SHOULD NOT CONFIDE THEIR SECRETS TO EACH OTHER—THE "GOOD MOTHERS" WHO OFTEN DO MUCH TO INJURE THEIR CHILDREN'S HEALTH AND PROSPECTS

IT'S no wonder that most men prefer not to tell their business affairs to their wives. You wouldn't care to do it if I were a man. Business and love are two things that ought to be kept apart, and woe to the unfortunate man who does not recognize this truth!

A man is better fitted to stand hopeless worry than a woman. For one thing, he knows what he is talking about. "It is the [illegible] when you talk business even to an intelligent woman she's putting on a 'I'll understand' [illegible] two-thirds of what you say," I heard one man say recently.

I think he was about right too. The one thing a woman understands is the possibility of a 10 per cent profit. When her husband has a loss [illegible] she simply does not see why it happened.

An old friend was telling me of a recent railway deal which he engineered. "Why, do you know that when X threw me down, for a week I was almost frantic. I stood to lose a fortune, and all the ready money I could scrape together at a pinch wouldn't [illegible]," he said. "Eventually I managed to get together my very good friends, and we boiled out. But, goodness me, while it lasted"—his face was expressive.

I remembered the week in question. It had been an unusually gay one socially for him and his wife.

What, Indeed?

"What would she have done had she known?" I gasped.

"Done? Either gone crazy and given out my secret to the world or else, dazzled with my being able to lose such a sum, she would have opened up a charge account at C[illegible] & Buyems that would have made my hair curl!"

"I used to lose flat along [illegible]"

And things work even worse when a wife tells her husband of her financial success—if she has any—and of how well her business is getting along. If she has one.

Just about that time "hubby" thinks of taking a rest or of sending some money home to relatives who "toil not, neither do they spin," and yet expect all of the good things going through the kindness of others.

"What a lovely lecture!" sighed the woman next to me as we filed out of our seats.

The subject of the lecture had been how wives and husbands may go through life hand in hand sharing even each other's very thoughts.

"Humph!" remarked the practical married woman who had accompanied me. "Very delicate lecture, reminds me of lady's fingers; very sweet and appropriate for brides and all that sort of thing, but don't talk to me about telling your husband everything. Why, last fall, the very day after I told John so gleefully that I had sold the rights of my new serial to the Scribbler company he celebrated by sending his seven nephews and nieces to the St. Louis exposition at his expense, and until way into December, whenever I asked him for clothes money, he always answered, 'I'm a little short now, my dear, but you have that Scribbler money.' Finally, in despair, I actually had to prove that I had spent it before I could get anything more out of him. The next time I make money I am going to tie my head up in crape and weep all over the place, swearing that I have lost a twenty dollar bill and that there isn't a cent left in the house to buy groceries with."

"I'm a little short now, my dear."

Character and Appetite.

What great man once said he had no use for men with small appetites?

I can't seem to remember, but the sentiment is all right even as applied to women.

Show me a woman with a fine healthy appreciation of her meals and she is apt to be a good housekeeper with a well stocked larder and a hospitable way with her.

Your mean spirited, narrow minded creature picks at her food and is "cranky" about what she eats.

"When you consider how little women are trained to be good home makers and mothers it is a wonder they ever succeed at either of these two important callings," remarked an old doctor recently.

But I am not struck with wonder at the miracle. When I look at most of the mothers I know I don't see any results different from those which come from plain ignorance.

Not one woman in a hundred knows how to be a good mother to her child, and yet most mothers are fond of reminding their children at some time or other what good mothers they have been.

Show me an irritable, nervous child and I will find its mother to be a woman who has shrieked and yelled her orders at it in order to be obeyed. There is just such a woman in the apartment next to ours, and all you can hear day in and day out are the shrill tones of the woman and the angry, peevish wailing of the child.

Show me a poor child or a grown man whose stomach is the ravening home of dyspepsia and I will point out its mother, a silly woman who allowed her child to bring itself up and to eat candy or food at all hours. Show me a boy who does not concentrate his mind on his future, who has no ambition, and I will show you a mother who is a bad manager and leaves her own affairs to Providence. Show me a man who has made a failure of life up to the point where most men are settled and I will show you a mother who prayed for a wandering boy in[illegible] of taking an intelligent interest in her son's future and guiding his steps to the path where his natural abilities would become his success.

Mothers and Mothers.

For the [illegible] against "good" mothers, the bad manager who weigh down their children's lives, the gentle, sweet faced women who play at saintliness and allow, through neglect and lack of common sense, their children's health to be undermined and their futures to be neglected! The world is full of them, and they do a great deal more harm even than bad mothers, because of their sublime belief in their own perfection and the fact that they receive false consideration from their own children and from other people who cannot see beneath the surface.

She shrieked and yelled her orders.

Give me the mother who is not too good to be practical or too unworldly for her sons and daughters to confide their trials to her and be sure of sympathy and understanding. Give me the woman who can be more than a mere mother to her children, who can train their minds and character as well as their bodies, who can insure their bodily and mental health and set their feet on the right path to success and happiness in life.

CHIFFON TAFFETA AFTERNOON COSTUME.

The dressy afternoon costume seen in the cut is of hunter's green chiffon taffeta. From a front panel of Irish lace start three flounces, edged with English embroidery. The bottom flounce at intervals is run up to the waist in box plaits. The waist carries out the same effect. The puffed undersleeves are of lace.

LEST WE BE VAIN.

Home truths are sometimes wholesome, and, therefore, it may not be amiss to consider the unflattering sayings about women current in various countries.

An old English saying is: "If a man lose a woman and a farthing, he will be sorry he lost the farthing."

A Scottish one: "The next best thing to no wife is a good wife."

The German: "There are only two good women in the world—one is dead, and the other can't be found."

The Spanish rhyme has it: "Were a woman as little as she is good, a pea pod would make her a gown and a hood."

A French adage: "A man of straw is worth a woman of gold."

The Arabian says: "Words are women; deeds are men."

TOO MUCH LUXURY HARMFUL FOR GIRLS.

COLLEGE girls' expenses have doubled in recent years. More and more it seems impossible for the gifted poor girl, the one who would profit more than almost any other from a college education, to obtain it.

If the items of increased expense are examined they are found to be in the line of increased luxury of living. It is said costly paraphernalia and varied is now necessary to the really refined all round education of a young lady.

Well, perhaps. But, apropos of luxury for college students, there has lately been published an account of the life led by college students among that marvelous people, the Japanese. Baron Sayematsu tells the story of his own college days. He and his schoolmates ate only two meals a day, the food served being of the simplest kind. Sometimes it was only rice and a little salt. What is more, the students took turns in doing their own cooking. They swept and scrubbed their own rooms and those of their teachers. In the depth of winter they frequently used cold water to wash in because this was thought to harden them. The baron writes:

"We sometimes sat up whole nights in winter with scarcely any fire to warm us, in order to accustom ourselves to rigid discipline. It is no doubt due to the training of those days that I, personally, for instance, cannot bear the trouble of appearing like a grandee or fashionable person. Thus, for example, I, who never used gloves in my boyhood, cannot endure the discomfort of wearing them, even on winter days."

Scarcely less rigorous is the physical training to which young girls are subjected among the people who were able to whip Russia. Simplicity of diet, hard beds, a moderate quantity of simple food, a system of physical education which keeps down fat and develops every beautiful muscle in the body constitute the regimen imposed upon the little dark eyed girls who are to be the mothers of Japan's heroes. It is not uncommon for Jap girls even to learn jiu jitsu. An incident occurred a short time ago in New York city which proves this. It is an incident that might open the eyes of the mothers and teachers of girls throughout this nation.

A pretty, modest Jap girl was passing along a New York street. One of those execrable toughs who think they can insult any girl with impunity, especially if she is of foreign birth, lumbered up and laid his hand on the little Jap girl's shoulder. At the police court trial, which resulted from this rash action, it came out that the tough was a prize fighter. He was six feet tall and weighed some 200 pounds. But before he could wink an eye that prize fighter found himself lying sprawled full length upon the sidewalk. The tiny Jap girl had knocked him down. He jumped up and made toward her like an enraged bull. Again before the big brute could wink an eye that tiny, soft faced girl had landed him on the sidewalk, and this time she kneeled upon his chest and pinned him there.

How the crowd that had gathered by that time did cheer the splendid little brown girl! She had learned jiu jitsu in her own land.

Do you think the American college girl could have done that? What we gain in luxury we lose in physique.

Luxurious living ate out the heart of ancient Rome, and it will do the same for any modern nation. It saps both morality and physical power and its dangers threaten America today. The girl who would achieve must put aside alike luxury and laziness and lead the simplest, most active and robust life. There is no other way.

BETTER A SMILE THAN A SIGH.

Better a smile than a sigh, dear;
Better a kiss than a frown;
Better a look toward the sky, dear,
Than always be looking down.

Better in time of trouble
A song of hope and cheer
Than a heart that broods o'er sorrow
And makes the sorrow dear.

The joys we find today, dear,
Perhaps seem poor and small,
But better a little sun, dear,
Than to have no sun at all.

So look in my face and smile, dear,
And sing a cheerful song;
It never is worth our while, dear,
To help life's worries along.

Women Preachers and Pastors

WOMEN preachers there have been for centuries. Two hundred and seventy years ago Anne Hutchinson, in Boston, began holding meetings among women of the Puritan church of which she was a member, proclaiming to these sisters that the Holy Spirit dwells in every true believer and can and will guide those who have real faith and conscience. Mother Ann Lee founded the Shaker sect. Among the Friends, or Quakers, women have always preached. Gentle, sweet faced Lucretia Mott, the Quaker preacher, was one of the first in America to wake up her sex on the woman question.

Something more than forty years ago women began to be regularly ordained as ministers in this country, to solemnize marriages and perform the other functions of clergymen. Among the earlier feminine ministers yet living are Revs. Phebe Hanaford and Olympia Brown. These two were both ordained by the Universalist church which, with the Unitarian and "Christian" denominations, early recognized woman's right officially to bear the spiritual message to mankind.

REV. GERTRUDE VON PETZOLD.

In 1874, also as a Universalist minister, was ordained Rev. Ada Chastina Bowles, a beautiful, magnetic woman who won all hearts by her sweetness and eloquence. She was born in Massachusetts and among her ancestors were the Choates. By the sea she lived in her youth and learned to swim like a mermaid, to use carpenter tools and to do housework perfectly as well. She also made such good use of the public schools of Gloucester, Mass., her home, that at fifteen years of age she began a career as teacher. Later she was married to Rev. B. F. Bowles, a Universalist pastor of Melrose, Mass. It was at his request that Mrs. Bowles studied for the ministry. She was pastor of a church in Philadelphia for a time, afterward of one in Easton, Pa.

She bade farewell to the Easton congregation to organize a church of her own in Trenton, N. J. While in charge of these various churches she was also engaged in the philanthropic and reform work which somehow naturally appeal to all earnest ministers of the Christian religion. She was among other things a lecturer for the W. C. T. U. and also for the National Woman Suffrage association.

Many more women in America have been ordained to preach than have made a life work of their profession. Not a few have started out under the most favorable auspices, had congregations of their own for perhaps half a dozen years, then abandoned active pastoral work. This giving up of the preacher's profession is much more common among women than among men pastors; why, it is hard to say. A few women preachers have found their work, likewise their ideas, broadening out beyond the limits of a single parish and have given up their individual pastorates to enter a larger field.

Then, too, numbers have married and naturally found their domestic cares incompatible with the care of a congregation. Some have been proud to advertise their skill in housekeeping and have vaunted themselves of their domestic life, wherefore they have fallen between two stools. No woman any more than man can serve two masters. The main effort of one life must be consecrated to one purpose.

Still there are many women preachers who preach; pastors, who through thick and thin have remained faithful to their calling and have deemed it holy. It is to be noted that among these women preachers who have the noble gift of "hang on" are the leaders of several of the spiritualist societies. One of these is Mrs. Helen Brigham, known familiarly to her friends as "Nellie." Mrs. Brigham is now pastor of a spiritualist society in New York city. She does not have to prepare her sermons beforehand, for they come to her of themselves when she rises to speak. For more than a quarter century Mrs. Brigham has been speaking to spiritualist congregations. Another pastor of a spiritualist society in New York city is Margaret Gaule, highly esteemed by her congregation.

In Chicago Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond has been pastor of a religious society for nearly thirty years. Some of her discourses expound a philosophy not unlike the teachings of Swedenborg. Once in a sermon on the spiritual significance of the natural attraction between the sexes she said that the soul began its evolutions in matter as a spiritual unit. This unit was divided into halves and each half sent out separately to gain experience on its own account. Thus the complete soul's evolution could be hastened. Sometimes in the earth life the two halves meet, then there is a comparatively happy marriage, provided one or the other half is not already wedded to some third party's half. At the end of all earthly existence the twain come together permanently as one and are happy ever after. Here is surely comfort for those who believe in soul mates.

Lately a friend who had not seen Mr. Richmond in many years said to her, "You don't grow a bit older." The answer was:

"Oh, no! I don't let myself grow old."

The religious denomination known distinctively as "Christian" was among the first to admit properly qualified women to its pulpits as ordained preachers. The youngest woman pastor in America, a girl only eighteen years old, belongs to this sect. She is Rev. Myrtle B. Parke of Ramsey, Ill. She prepared for the ministry at Eureka college. She is girlish looking, but very much in earnest. She preached in the Ramsey church some time ago, but left it to attend Eureka college. Immediately after coming out of school she received the call to the Ramsey pulpit.

It is odd that with scores of ordained women preachers in America, in all Europe and Great Britain there is only one, Rev. Gertrude von Petzold. Miss von Petzold is one of the most highly educated pastors in all Europe however. She spent some nine years studying for the ministry. She is an M. A. of Edinburgh and a graduate of the theological course of Manchester college, Oxford, studying also a considerable time in Germany. From her childhood Miss von Petzold was so devout and saintly in her life and so eloquent and persuasive in her Sunday school talks that even in conservative England she was urged to study for the ministry. She is pastor of a Unitarian church in Leicester, England. It raised something of a stir in the kingdom when recently Miss von Petzold performed her first marriage service. She has a rare, sweet face, with a mouth that turns up at the corners. In her first sermon at the Leicester church she said:

"Look at the world around you! Look at the men and women selling their souls for pleasure, for money, ever ready to take advantage of one another, to make the best of a worldly bargain, in their spare moments giving themselves up to their passions, degrading themselves body and soul."

In most of the Protestant denominations, notably the Methodist Episcopal, women serve as evangelists, promoting revivals, which they do with zeal. In this work they seem peculiarly gifted. One young Methodist woman who is singularly successful as an evangelist is Miss Ruth Warren. She turned her back upon a business career of brilliant promise, also upon the career of marriage, to enter on the lowly, hard working life of the Methodist deaconess in slum settlements. But she developed a speaking gift of rare power and persuasiveness, so consecrated herself to preaching to the multitude, who listen to her joyfully.

CHARLOTTE VAN BECK.

CONSUELO, DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

The girlish Consuelo Vanderbilt who, in 1895, when not yet out of her teens, was married to the young Duke of Marlborough has developed into a fine, stately woman. She is much handsomer than she was as a girl. Americans are fond of Consuelo and glad to know she still cherishes her native land, frequently visiting it. Her trip to America the present autumn was [illegible] for the purpose of attending the wedding of her cousin, Miss Webb, [illegible] Pulitzer. The duchess has two young sons, the elder and heir to the Marlborough title being the Marquis of Blandford.

THE EFFECT OF COLD BATHING.

The first contact of cold water with the body causes a sharp contraction of the blood vessels of the skin, as shown by the pallor of the surface, but as soon as one leaves the bath the arteries dilate, the skin becomes pink and a warm glow is felt that amply compensates one for the disagreeable shock of the first plunge. This flushing of the surface, which brings with it warmth and a sensation of vigor and well being, is the test which shows that the bath is doing good. If this reaction does not occur and one feels cold and depressed and the skin remains of a bluish hue it is a sign that the bath is harmful, and then one must be content with a cool sponging, followed by a brisk rub with a coarse towel. The devotee of cold bathing seldom suffers from cold in the head, provided, of course, he does not violate the ordinary laws of hygiene regarding eating, sleeping and ventilation, and, if he does take cold, he is in condition to throw it off before it invades the bronchial tubes or lungs. Sufferers from poor circulation, which shows itself by cold feet and icy fingers, are benefited by the morning cold bath, and this in the case of one who habitually has cold feet may be profitably supplemented by a cold footbath at bedtime, followed then, as always, by a brisk rubbing with a coarse towel.

GRAY COVERT TOPCOAT.

This long hip length topcoat is of English gray covert cloth. It has a semifitting back, with a seam down the middle. The front is made with a long seam from the shoulder to the bottom of the coat. Tailored pockets and a small inlaid velvet collar complete this natty garment.

THE BLACK BORDER.

Every one who has lost a dear relative wishes to show respect in various ways and the use of black edged envelopes and note paper is one of the most common forms of manifesting one's sentiments. In justice to others one ought to examine the question somewhat more deeply.

There is no disputing that the receipt of a letter with this unmistakable sign of death is a shock to most people. At once a sudden anxiety seizes us and our heart sinks at the thought that sister or brother, mother or father, has suddenly been taken from us. In many instances we find from a second glance that the handwriting is that of a business friend or a mere acquaintance, and we are relieved, however sorry we may feel for the friend. Nevertheless, we have had a shock that may produce unpleasant consequences.

The safest course to adopt, as we may judge from the above reasoning, is to use such envelopes only for writing to those affected by the occurrence. Many do follow this course, but there is still a respectable minority who do not. A further suggestion is that no one should use such signs of bereavement until one is sure that the correspondent has heard the sad news.

One objection that is raised to this last suggestion is that the very sight of the black edge warns the recipient to prepare for bad news and so assists the writer of the letter in the melancholy task to be performed. That seems questionable. The sight of the black border shocks the receiver, whereas in the letter the intelligence can be gently broken by a little circumlocution.—W. L.

SO CALLED BEAUTIFIERS.

Painting the eyes and eyelids is in some countries considered a great aid to the fascination of the female orbs. A Circassian to be really lovely must, in addition to being very corpulent, have golden hair and jet black lashes. Kohl is used by the Persian and Armenian women to lengthen their eyes. The bazaar women and nautch girls of most eastern countries dye their finger nails with henna, and where they wish to be thought great ladies they allow their finger nails to grow to an immense length and keep them in finely wrought gold sheaths.

FIGHT BEEF TRUST

Attorney General Will Urge a Speedy Trial

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—After a conference with the president yesterday afternoon Atty.-Gen. Moody gave out a statement about beef trust cases. It dealt with the so-called immunity of beef witnesses, about which there has been much speculation.

He takes the ground that immunity was not promised, and cannot legally be claimed, stands by Commissioner of Corporations Garfield in his conduct of the investigation, and announces that the government will not only "resist these pleas in bar," but will urge a speedy trial of them.

Mr. Moody decided to issue the statement for two reasons. He has recognized the right of the public to know about the legal proceedings, as far as such information can be given without prejudicing the government's interests. That was the reason of his beef trust speech in Massachusetts last summer. He also thought that many misrepresentations regarding the immunity claims should be corrected.

The statement continues:

"Ten separate pleas in bar have been filed, each one of them alleging facts, which, it is claimed, ought to bar the government from proceeding further in this case.

"Eight of these pleas are based upon the alleged conduct of Mr. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, in making an investigation of the affairs of the defendants in pursuance of the authority conferred upon him by law and in special obedience to the resolution of the house of representatives requiring him to make such investigation. The resolution under which Mr. Garfield acted is as follows:

"'Resolved, that the secretary of commerce and labor be and he is hereby requested to investigate the causes of the low prices of beef cattle in the United States since July 1, 1903, and the alleged unusually large margins between the prices of beef cattle and the selling prices of fresh beef, and whether the said conditions have resulted in whole or in part from any contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of commerce among the several states and territories, or with foreign countries; also, whether the said prices have been manipulated in whole or in part by any corporation, joint stock company or corporate combination engaged in commerce among the several states or with foreign nations, and if so, to investigate the organization, capitalization, profits, conduct and management of the business of such corporations, companies and corporate combinations and to make early report of his findings according to law.'

POWERS OF GARFIELD.

"Under the act creating the department of commerce and labor the commissioner of corporations has the right to subpoena and compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence, and to administer oaths, but with regard to all persons who are subpoenaed to testify or to produce documentary evidence, it is provided that immunity from prosecution shall be given to them if they obey the commissioner's subpoena, except that they shall be liable for perjury for giving false testimony.

"The pleas in bar allege in various forms: (1) That Mr. Garfield did compel the several defendants to attend under subpoena and testify and produce documents before him; (2), That he waived the oath which he was authorized to require of them; (3) That he promised them for what they did with respect to the giving of testimony and production of documents, that they should receive the immunity provided by law, and (4) that the testimony thus obtained from the defendants was delivered to the department of justice and to the district attorney, and by the latter used before the grand jury to obtain the indictment.

"It is stated by the government that Mr. Garfield did make the investigation required by the resolution of the house of representatives, and that he did receive from certain of the defendants oral information and access to the books of the defendant corporations. It is, however, contended by the government that the information and access to the books were given voluntarily by the defendants.

"The government denies in point of fact that Mr. Garfield did compel the several defendants to attend and testify and produce documents before him, or that he did subpoena any of the defendants to appear before him and testify or produce documentary evidence; or that he waived the oath which he was authorized to require of them; or that he promised them an immunity whatever in the premises; or that any evidence obtained from the defendants was delivered to or used by the department of justice or the district attorney before the grand jury which found the indictment.

"The attorney general asserts in the most positive terms that none of the information obtained by Mr. Garfield was used before the grand jury, and further says that he is informed by Mr. Garfield and believes that at certain stages of the investigation the defendants declined to give information unless they were put in a position to obtain the immunity provided by the act of congress, and required by the constitution of the United States, and that when such instances occurred, acting after conference with the attorney general, Mr. Garfield refrained from pursuing the inquiry further and made no other attempt to obtain information, documentary or otherwise, along those lines.

"After full conference with Mr. Garfield the answer of the government has been prepared by Mr. Pagin, under the supervision of the attorney general, and with the assistance of the district attorney, and will be taken to Chicago and filed in the court there early next week.

"The seventh plea in bar urges that the government unlawfully seized certain papers of the defendants and submitted them to the grand jury, contrary to the rights conferred upon them by the constitution. The government denies that it obtained any papers otherwise than by the orderly process of a subpoena direct and to the person who had the custody of them.

"The eighth plea sets up as a defence the fact that the government heretofore proceeded against the defendants by a petition under the Sherman act, under which petition an injunction against the continuance of the combination was issued about three years ago, and was affirmed last winter by the unanimous opinion of the supreme court, the attorney general himself having personally argued the case for the government in that court, and claims that by taking this action the government elected to pursue the civil remedies, and is disbarred from resorting to a prosecution under the criminal provision of the anti-trust law.

"The government admits the facts, but contends that they constitute no bar to a criminal prosecution.

"The answer prepared by the government will raise a mixed issue of law and fact, to be determined, not by the attorney general or the district attorney, but by the court in which the proceedings are pending.

"The government will resist these pleas in bar and urge a speedy trial of them; but the attorney general refrains from expressing any opinion upon them, as it would obviously be improper for him to do so while the questions are pending in the district court."

WOMAN SMOKED

THEN SHE TOOK A DRINK FROM A FLASK.

NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 17.—When the Rockport express on the eastern division of the Boston & Maine railroad, due in Boston at 5.30 p. m., arrived at Beverly Monday afternoon, a woman, stylishly dressed, with an escort, boarded the train and walked through a passenger coach to a seat at a card table.

One or two men, thinking the couple did not know it was a smoking car, let them into the secret, but received a stony glare.

As the train drew out of Salem, the woman reached down into a pocket, brought out a package, extracted a cigarette, rolled and lit it. A few minutes later the woman drew a flask from her escort's pocket, took a long drink and offered the men opposite a share. This upset the car, and the excitement continued until Boston was reached.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

That great naval play "The Ensign" is playing to packed houses this week at the Academy of Music, and well it might for the manner in which it is presented by the members of the Huntington-De Deyn stock company is little short of perfect. In fact letters of congratulation from the dramatizer is sufficient evidence that the play is being portrayed in a capable manner. In Mr. Frank Whitter, the popular actor of the stock company, is found a man who can with apparent ease portray one of the most difficult roles ever dealt out to an actor. Curtain call after curtain call has kept the man in the lies busily engaged for the climaxes are so thrilling and realistic that the audience is not satisfied with one curtain.

Next week the first comedy of the season, "Naughty Rebecca," will be presented by the company and Mr. Wright Huntington will be seen in the leading role. LACK OF NERVE

Mr. Hennessy Criticizes Mayor Casey

HIS DEMOCRACY ALSO ARRAIGNED

No Liquor Interests Behind Hennessy

A Hennessy rally was held in the ward nine ward room, last evening, the meanest place in Lowell to hold such an affair and those who did attend were nearly frozen as the hall was without heat, while most of the audience had to stand during the rally. The meeting was called to order shortly after eight o'clock by James E. O'Donnell who said in part: "After much consideration and thought each party annually selects a man to carry its banner and it selects a man whom it believes will be loyal to the interests of the party, a man who if placed in power will name, select, appoint and assist all democrats. He may be in danger of being called a partisan but what of that, a good democrat is always a good citizen, an honest man is honest regardless of his party affiliation. Yet [illegible] ask why there should be opposition to the present mayor in his own party? Is it a crime for the party to have a choice? Is it a crime to say that the present mayor has not been a loyal democrat? There are four official acts by which Mayor Casey has shown that he is not a good democrat. The first was the naming of a republican superintendent of cemeteries. The second, the naming of a republican member of the board of health. The third, adopting a republican measure, the abolition of the overseers of the poor and the fourth, the failure to veto properly the redistricting order. Mr. O'Donnell then made the claims that because of the redistricting order Dr. Walker can be elected to the school board for only one more term and that Messrs. Conley and Murphy can hold only one term in the legislature.

J. Joseph O'Connor was then introduced and he said in part: "I do not purpose to take the laurel from the brow of any son of the democracy, but I feel it is my privilege to ask our mayor for an account of his stewardship. The time has not come when we will refrain from examining the records of our servants in office. I don't expect to be rewarded. As I have said before I ask nothing of Mr. Hennessy and less of Mr. Casey. I speak from an honest conviction. The act of Mayor Casey when he failed to veto the redistricting order struck at every democrat in Lowell and destroyed our work of 10 years in behalf of the democracy. He understood how to veto other measures. Why was his arm stricken with paralysis on the veto of that most important measure?"

MR. HENNESSY SPEAKS

Mr. Hennessy delivered the principal speech of the evening and was frequently interrupted with applause. He said in part: "I have lived here all my life, [illegible] years and am a Lowell product, a product of the schools of Lowell and of American institutions. I offer no apology for claiming the right to be a democratic candidate for mayor. The law of the commonwealth has said [illegible] be a democrat or thou shalt [illegible]. Thou shalt not change [illegible] affiliation without giving three [illegible]. The law says that no [illegible] serve two masters. All summer [illegible] confidings and saw signs of [illegible] to the party. Last summer Mr. [illegible] been in office there has [illegible]. He sends a letter saying [illegible] a republican [illegible] to the attorney, [illegible] will not explain his acts to [illegible] understand why he made [illegible] of personal friends [illegible] one of the [illegible] made [illegible] his attitude in refusing [illegible] official acts is open [illegible]. The party demands that he [illegible] campaign. [illegible] the democratic ticket but [illegible] to be fooled. I want [illegible]. If Mr. Casey is [illegible] himself and a little candor [illegible] to know it. Enough have [illegible] slapped in the face.

For some motive Mayor Casey pulled Spalding's name back after appointing to the board of health. When I asked Alderman Allen about it he said: 'We are popular people. We republicans can fool the democrats every time. We jollied Mayor Casey and made him pull Spalding's name back.'

One great question I take to Mayor Casey is his lack of nerve. He lacked nerve there and he lacked it in the liquor analysis. Everyone in Lowell was behind him in that matter. Even the liquor dealers wanted it. How does he cover himself up in that matter. He goes to the city solicitor and the latter said that litigation might ensue. None ensued when the state board put the Red Fox ale out of business and brought the Harvard into court. It is not a sufficient excuse to say that the city would be sued. I take no exception to a man because he votes the republican ticket but I take exceptions to republican leaders controlling democratic officials. We never hear of a republican giving anything to a democrat but when a democrat jumps from his party the republican press and leaders cover him with glory and call his act nonpartisanship.

The question of redistricting is closed, despite the fact that Mr. Casey would have you believe that it has yet to come before the supreme court. Lawyers were employed from Boston for this blunder of Mayor Casey's and they took the case to court. The petition was dismissed and the incident is closed. No appeal was taken and the supreme court has no jurisdiction over the matter unless the republican city solicitor petitions Judge Loring to have it brought up which is most unlikely.

Mr. Casey's friends have been responsive in a way. At his meeting last night Mr. Pratt after a quietude of 20 years becomes aroused and is out on the rostrum again. My old friend Cummings, one of the mayor's many appointees to the board of health, Drury and the others. None of these men have given justification why Mayor Casey should receive a renomination. I believed it was the duty of someone to stand as a candidate to see if Mayor Casey was honest in these acts. Mayor Casey hasn't ever said that he made a mistake on the redistricting veto. He should have known what he was doing. That veto excites my suspicion. If we are to be sacrificed for Casey let us go to the front for Casey, but if we are to stand up for our party let us go to the polls and repudiate him.

There is the police commissionership, more important than the mayoralty. Where were Cummings, Pratt, Drury and the Pearses two years ago when Casey was running? The question is the police commissionership. That's what they're out for. They have it all cut and dried but the democratic party wants a responsive campaign. There is too much interest in the question of liquor interests controlling the police commissionership. I will say right here and I must have the question settled. I believe that that position should be of no more importance than any other head of department. Men's ambitions are crushed out on account of it. I am allied to no brewery or liquor interests. There are no professional politicians in my ranks. I am the candidate of such men as created Casey. The young men behind me have been fooled by Casey. I would like to see the day in Lowell when this question of police commissionership is thoroughly eliminated from our politics. Men seem to be afraid to get away from it. If I am nominated I will tell all the people who I will name as police commissioner if elected. With that as a slogan the democratic party can elect me. A mayor should maintain the integrity of his party and not truckle to republican leaders, and I draw a distinction between leaders and republican voters. If elected I will give democrats the preference as far as that preference is not a detriment to the city."

In conclusion Mr. Hennessy referred to Mayor Casey's statement in his inaugural favoring a board of public works and declared himself against commissions, and in favor of keeping all powers in the hands of the people. If we must have a commission, he said, let us have one of three men to run the whole city and have them elected by the people.

Marconi Communicates With the Argentine Republic from Mid-Ocean.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Mr. George H. Munroe, of the firm of Munroe & Munroe, engaged in the promotion of the Marconi system, is in Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, where he is engaged in the preliminary work of organizing a South American Marconi company. On Saturday Mr. Munroe had occasion to communicate with Mr. Marconi, who has been in this city for two weeks. Mr. Marconi, however, had sailed from New York Saturday morning and the message remained undelivered until Monday morning, when it was called to the attention of Mr. Alexander Munroe. The latter immediately caused the message to be transmitted to Mr. Marconi on board the steamship Etruria, and late in the afternoon he received information from his brother that Mr. Marconi's reply had been received at Buenos Ayres in due time. The reply was despatched in both English and Italian, the latter language being that most prevalent in Argentine. At the time the message was despatched to the Etruria that vessel was over a thousand miles distant from New York and more than 6000 miles from Buenos Ayres.

Mother of Noted Pianist Tells of Receiving Comforting Message While On Her Way To America.

From the Chicago Tribune of Nov. 1: The mother of Mrs. Fanny Richter-Fuchs is enthusiastic in her praise of the discovery of the Marconi wireless telegraph, which enabled her to receive messages in mid-ocean from the bedside of her daughter, a pianist, who was lying seriously ill in Chicago.

The mother was summoned to Chicago from Berlin on Oct. 20, when it was thought her daughter was hopelessly ill. In mid-ocean she received constant bulletins of her daughter's progress toward recovery, from Hans Richter-Fuchs, her daughter's husband.

PRINCE LOUIS SENDS THANKS BY WIRELESS

From the Albany, New York, Argus: OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—Prince Louis of Battenburg today sent the following Marconigram from the warship Drake to the governor-general of Canada:

"Before the shores of Canada disappear from view, I desire, on behalf of the captains, officers and men of the second cruiser squadron to thank our Canadian fellow subjects of all classes, through your excellency, for their hearty and hospitable welcome during the last three and a half months, which makes us leave these shores with genuine regret and the hope that it may be our good fortune to be sent once more across the Atlantic.

"LOUIS, Battenburg."

HEARD OF PEACE BY MARCONI WIRELESS

Kronprinz Wilhelm Spreads the Good News at Sea—Lucania Got the Message First, But She Knew It From Shore—On La Lorraine the Passengers Went Wild With Delight—New York Got Word From Nantucket.

(From New York Sun of Sept. 3, 1905.)

The North German Lloyd steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm, which sailed hence on Tuesday afternoon for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Bremen, started the pinwheel of her wireless buzzing just after she got outside the Hook to let the world afloat coming from the shores of Europe know that peace had been established between Russia and Japan. The electrical offshoots of the whirling wheel extended 200 miles or more on every side. The first big liner that caught the peace message was the Cunarder Lucania, which arrived on Friday night from Liverpool and Queenstown; but, with her powerful receiver taking in half the width of the Atlantic, the Lucania already knew the news from the American shore.

On Thursday, the French liner, La Lorraine, which arrived yesterday from Havre, got within reach of the peace message and absorbed it with great enthusiasm. La Lorraine's wireless could not get hold of far away Nantucket, which also was sending out the message. The impression aboard La Lorraine was that peace was far away. Passengers who had invested in Russian bonds were gloomy as the last news they had read before leaving Havre was that there was small chance of an agreement between the peace envoys.

The Kronprinz's news set the pessimistic investors wild with delight, everybody else, French, English, American, or what not was also mighty well pleased. Those who were first in front of the bulletin posted on the Lorraine announcing that peace had come, cheered.

The American liner, New York, from Southampton and Cherbourg, did not get in touch with the Kronprinz. Her passengers were not aware until Friday afternoon that peace had been declared. She received then a wireless from Nantucket, which wound up thus:

"Roosevelt, hailed peacemaker, has been showered with congratulatory telegrams from all heads of European nations. General satisfaction all the world over."

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, minister of marine and fisheries, has completed a tour of inspection of the harbors and seacoast of the Canadian Atlantic frontier. He made a thorough examination of all buildings and equipments under the control of his department, but gave his primary attention to the problems of, and aids to navigation. The minister and his party were present when the first wireless message was sent from the recently completed Marconi station at Partridge Island, off St. John's harbor, to Cape Sable. The minister's tour included a trip to Sable Island, where he thoroughly tested the Marconi wireless installation. These two stations and the other Marconi headquarters which the inspection board tested, were found to be working perfectly and the officials expressed their complete satisfaction in the work and results of the Marconi system.

The violent storm which swept the Atlantic during the week of October 7 to 14 afforded the Marconi installations on board the great trans-Atlantic liners an opportunity to again prove their practical value. Day and night the operators kept their apparatus at work relaying and receiving messages. With this aid the vessels at all points on the ocean were acquainted with weather conditions at all other points and the invaluable information aided the captains in the handling of their craft with the minimum danger and inconvenience. The Campania, which was in the path of the gale at its worst, was boarded by a heavy sea which slightly damaged the vessel and injured some of the passengers. Notice of the mishap was sent by the Campania's Marconi operator to other vessels on the same course and the agents on shore were notified. This allowed the agents ample time to prepare for repairing the boat as soon as she docked, and would have allowed for the special care of the injured passengers had their injuries been so severe as to need extra attention upon landing.

The last eastern voyage of the Etruria was accompanied by a noteworthy accomplishment on the part of the Marconi system. When in mid-ocean, the Etruria rescued the crew of the sinking bark, Orion, in a frightful storm. The Etruria was still over 500 miles from land when Marconi messages were dispatched from the Etruria, giving full details of the rescue to her agents and the Associated Press. These messages were also received by other vessels at sea at the time and they were thereby warned of the presence of the derelict on the trans-Atlantic route of the big express steamers. Had the sea not been in a sustained turmoil because of the protracted storm, some of these vessels—as they signified their intention of doing when receiving the detailed information—would have taken steps to burn or destroy the derelict and remove thereby one of the greatest terrors of navigation. At least ten of the great steamers were put in possession of the facts by the Marconi messages, and they, in turn, signalled others not equipped with wireless. In contrast to a few brief years ago when intercommunication at sea was somewhat rare, this accomplishment of the Marconi system entitles it to a place among the wonders of the world. Not only is it a wonder, but a direct and vast benefit to humanity.

The tremendous benefits accruing to travelers and the several steamship companies as a result of the opening of the Marconi station at Sable Island, off the coast of Nova Scotia, is best exampled by the following, which is clipped from a daily paper and which is but a sample of the items to be seen almost any day among the telegraphic brevities or shipping notes of the metropolitan press.

"The Cunard line steamer, Lucania, from Liverpool and Queenstown for New York, is reported as having been in communication by wireless telegraph with the station at Sable Island at 11 p. m. (G. M. T.) Wednesday, when the vessel was 503 miles from Nantucket lightship.

"The Lucania will probably dock about 8 a. m. Saturday."

It is shown that, with such a warning, persons may remain in Chicago or points further west until notified of a vessel's approach and still be in New York and at the dock in time to meet incoming friends.

The practical advantages of the Marconi installations on all the important liners continue to multiply almost daily. The following item appeared in the New York Times of September 27:

"James H. Moore will arrive this morning on the Oceanic. He got into communication with the stock market yesterday by means of wireless telegraphy. Wall street people outgoing and incoming are regularly supplied nowadays with stock market bulletins as far out at sea as they can be reached by wireless telegraphy, and it remains only for some enterprising stock exchange firm to establish branch offices on the big liners."

The latest practical adaptation of wireless is in connection with the regulations of clocks in the city of Vienna. All the city clocks and 700 or 800 private clocks are to be regulated by wireless from one central depot. Exhaustive experiments to date have produced completely satisfactory results and the lead of Vienna will surely be followed by other enterprising cities in all quarters of the Globe.

SEVEN INJURED

Dump Cart Crashed Into an Electric Car

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Seven passengers were injured, one fatally, as the result of a runaway horse attached to a heavy dump-cart crashing into the side of a moving electric car in South Boston this afternoon. The heavy vehicle struck the car with great force, splintering glass and breaking woodwork which was scattered among the passengers.

One of the shafts of the cart pierced the car and in its passage struck an unknown young woman, fracturing her skull and causing other injuries. She was removed to the City hospital, unconscious. Physicians expressed the opinion that she would not recover. She is about 20 years old. The other injured passengers were cut by flying glass and splinters, as well as bruised. The accident occurred at the corner of Broadway and Dorchester avenue.

The horse which was driven by Patrick McDevitt, became frightened as it was passing down Broadway at a passing automobile, and started away running at quick speed. The driver was unable to check the animal and at the corner of Dorchester avenue, was unable to stop the horse from swinging into a Boston bound electric car. The force of the collision stopped the car, the passengers of which were thrown into a panic.

SUPERIOR COURT

Suit of Kelly vs. B. N. Road Heard Today

The case of Michael Kelly against the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co., was called for trial this morning in the civil session of the superior court before Judge Hitchcock at the local court house in Gorham street. James F. Owens appears for the plaintiff while the defendant company is represented by Messrs. Trull and Wier.

Mr. Owens after reading the declaration in the case stated to the jury that on the 20th of May of this year, about 10 o'clock in the night, Kelly with two other men named Hancock and Grant, were driving along Bridge street in an oil wagon, that near the corner of Richardson street there was a pile of lumber in the roadway and in order to pass the pile they had to drive on to the car tracks of the defendant company and that while on the tracks an electric car struck the wagon, demolishing it, injuring the horse as well as Kelly and the two other men. The defendant's answer was a general denial of each and every allegation.

After the accident Kelley, Grant and Hancock were taken to St. John's hospital in the ambulance after which they were removed to the police station in the patrol wagon and a charge of drunkenness was preferred against them. They were released on their own recognizance and later fined $2 each in police court. They appealed and brought the case before the superior court and were discharged.

The first witness called today was James Hancock, one of the men who was in the wagon at the time of the accident. In answer to questions put by Lawyer Owens he testified as follows: "My name is James Hancock and at the present time am employed as a freight forwarder. On May 20, of this year, I was driving an oil wagon.

"May 20th was a Saturday and I had occasion to go to Dracut. Messrs. Grant and Kelly were with me. We left Pleasant street in Dracut and drove into Bridge street and came down Bridge street on the right hand side. When we came to Richardson avenue found we had to turn out in order to avoid a pile of lumber in the street. I looked out to see if there was a car in the way. I looked out again. The next thing I knew the wagon was thrown against the pile of lumber and the three of us were thrown out. We were traveling about four miles an hour at the time of the accident.

"The left hand wheel was in the middle of the car track and the right hand wheel on the outer side of the outside rail. Mr. Kelly was riding on my right and Mr. Grant on my left. After accident I saw Mr. Reabour trying to pull Mr. Kelly out from under the wagon. He was lying on his back and the wagon was resting on his two thighs. I tried to lift the wagon, but couldn't. After Mr. Kelly was released I stood him against the lumber pile and asked him if he was hurt. He did not answer. There were about 45 gallons of oil on the wagon at the time. The lumber pile occupied 20 feet or more on the street. There was a space of about 3½ feet betwen the lumber and the outer rail. The accident happened at two minutes of ten by my watch. There were five electric lights between 18th street and where the accident occurred.

"The ambulance came and Kelly and Grant were placed inside while I rode to St. John's hospital on the seat with the driver. We stayed in the hospital about a half or three quarters of an hour and after that we were taken to the police station, where we stayed until about 1.30 o'clock. We then went to Dr. Wilson's, afterwards to Mr. Kelley's house and then I went to Mr. Grant's sister-in-law's house. We were taken to the police station in the patrol wagon and placed under arrest.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wier: "I was not up to the lumber pile when the car struck the wagon. I was driving far enough away to escape striking the lumber. It was when the car struck the wagon that the wagon was thrown against the lumber. I was riding in the middle, Kelly on my right and Grant on my left. After the accident the horse ran down Bridge street and through Hampshire street. I did not see the horse again after that.

"On the day of the accident I started at 8.15 o'clock in the morning and drove the same horse through Centralville, the Massachusetts and Prescott corporations and Stackpole street. I had kerosene oil on the wagon.

"I ate my dinner at my home, 84 West Sixth street. I met Mr. Grant on Coburn street about seven that night. It was the first time I ever saw him.

"I met Mr. Kelley shortly before that day, having delivered oil at his house. He lived at 2 Burnside avenue. I left oil there at ten minutes of seven that evening."

Court at this point took recess for dinner.

This morning the arguments in the Cambridge case of Reardon vs. Bryne were heard and when court reconvened at 2.15 o'clock this afternoon Judge Hitchcock charged the jury in that case, after which the cross-examination of Mr. Hancock was resumed.

TROOPS KILLED

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17.—6.30 p. m.—A mutiny in the Manchurian army is the latest sensational rumor in this city. According to the report, the Emperor has received a dispatch from Gen. Linevitch, telling him of a revolt among the troops which was only suppressed after a regular fight in which many soldiers were killed, or wounded. Forty-two officers are reported to have been shot, for participation in the conspiracy. No confirmation of the rumor is obtainable from the officials of the war office.

LARGER MARGINS

WANTED BY BRANCH OF THE CREDIT LYONNAIS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17, 12.50 p. m. —The manager of the local branch of the Credit Lyonnais denies the report that the bank is refusing to accept Russian securities as collateral. On account of the unsettled condition and the heavy fall in prices on the Bourse, however, the bank insists upon larger margins. The following formal statement on the subject was made by the bank:

"The Credit Lyonnais is continuing making advances on stocks, but owing to the fall in state funds and industrials and the narrow market of the St. Petersburg Bourse, it requires larger margins than formerly."

DIED OF HUNGER

BOUGHT CLOTHING IN LOWELL

But the Seller Did Not Learn His Name

The man who was found dead from exhaustion in the woods at North Foxboro, Mass., the day before yesterday, and who it was thought was a resident of Lowell, did not belong here, but there is little or no doubt that he had been in this city or vicinity for a month past.

The body which is now at Foxboro is still unidentified and from the present outlook the body will be consigned to a grave in the potter's field without being identified.

Found in the clothing of the unfortunate man was a business card in Portuguese of Isaac Soltronik, who conducts a men's furnishing store at 103 Gorham street, this city. The card was printed in Portuguese with the exception of the last line, which gave the location of the store.

It was thought that Mr. Soltronik might know something of the man and could probably identify him, but when a representative of The Sun called at his store this morning he stated that while he knew the man in question he neither knew his name or anything about him excepting that the man was an Austrian, he having stated in the store that that was his nationality.

Mr. Soltronik had the following to say to the representative of The Sun who called this morning:

"On Monday, Oct. 30, at about 10 o'clock in the morning, the man to whom you refer came here and asked to to see some pants. I showed him some for $1.98 but he stated that he was a poor man and wanted something cheaper. Eventually I sold him a pair of black pants with a pencil stripe, for which he gave me $1.75. He then looked at a vest and selected one of blue with a white stripe for which he paid 70 cents. He then picked out a collar for which I charged him ten cents, and a bow tie selling at ten cents.

"He asked if he could put on the new pair of pants and going to the rear of the store he made the change and said he would like to have me fix his old pants up in a bundle and he would call for them. The old pants are blue ones and I have them here under the counter waiting for him to call for them.

"Here they are," he said, producing the bundle.

The reporter asked him to open the bundle in order to learn if there was anything in the pockets which might result in the identity of the man, but an examination of the pockets revealed but two old buttons and two safety pins.

"As regards my card being found on the man's person, it is sufficient evidence that the man found dead is the man to whom I refer," continued Mr. Soltronik, for he asked me for my address in order that if he wanted to send for the pants he might know where to find them, and I gave him my business card.

"I held quite a long conversation with him and the gist of it was that he had been working on a farm in the suburbs of Lowell for three weeks or a month and that he had decided to go elsewhere to get work. He did not state exactly where he had been working, but that it cost him five cents on the electric cars to come to this city.

"After making the purchase he told me about his home in Austria and then crossed the street and had his shoes shined. That was the last I saw of him. I would have asked him his name, but did not want to appear inquisitive. He seemed to be in hard luck, but felt confident that he would be able to secure a good job around this city.

"The man appeared to be about 35 or 40 years of age, medium sized with a black moustache. He undoubtedly died of hunger and exposure, finding no work to do, as there is little demand for farm hands at the present time."

RAILROADS

DECLARE AGAINST PERSONALLY CONDUCTED TOURS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—The Tribune today says:

The California lines have by an order issued yesterday, put a stop to the personally conducted tourist excursions, which have been flourishing in that field for years. Not only will a large number of railroad conductors, probably 125, whose salaries average $90 a month each, lose their positions, but at least one tourist excursion bureau, which makes a specialty of personally conducted tours to California, will be driven out of the business.

The reason given for taking this action is that travel to the Pacific coast has become so common that travelers generally are familiar with the way. They say that the railroad officials themselves can care for passengers just as well as the personal conductor. There is not to be any interference, with the high class excursion, which, though personally conducted, travels in a first class Pullman sleeper, the restriction being laid upon the tourist cars only.

Seaman Picked Up by Passing Steamer

BOOTH BAY HARBOR, Me., Nov. 17. Peter Olsen of Gloucester, one of the crew of the schooner Steamer, which was reported lost when the schooner touched at Hypocrite Tuesday, was picked up 20 miles east by north of Thatcher's Island last night and brought here today on the schooner Jay W. Luckel, Captain James Lane. Olsen became separated from his schooner while attending the trawler and had been drifting in a dory since Wednesday noon without food or water. He was nearly exhausted. He lost an oar Wednesday night and was in a helpless condition. The dory was nearly full of water before it was discovered.

JOHN P. CURLEY

Paid $16,500 For John Street Property

Final papers for the transaction of the McIntyre block at the corner of Lee and John streets to John P. Curley, were passed this afternoon in the office of Charles M. Potter. The price paid by Mr. Curley was $16,500. The ground floor of the building will be devoted to a large public market, in all probability the largest market in the city. It is understood that alterations will be commenced soon and that as soon as the ground floor of the building has been changed over Mr. Curley will open his market.

Three months ago this same property was sold to Lawyer McIntyre, who purchased the building for investment.

The following permits to build and make alterations were granted at the office of the superintendent of lands and buildings at city hall during the present week:

George Fairburn, addition of two tenements in Stackpole street, near Alder street; cost $700.

Thomas Miles, enlarging store at 142-144 Fayette street; cost $100.

Joseph Blondin to erect two dwellings 37x100 feet in Princeton street near Caskin street; cost $2000 each.

For Juvenile Offenders In Police Court

Judge Hadley Aims to Protect Children

Judge Hadley today inaugurated another reform in police court and like all of the court's variations from the old time custom it is a move in the right direction.

His Honor has completely separated the juvenile session of the police court from the main session holding it in the second session after the regular session is over and furthermore he has requested the newspapers to refrain from reporting the juvenile sessions except in unusual or extraordinary cases.

Friday is the day for the juvenile session of the police court each week and boys under 17 years of age who are brought before court are tried on that day when there is present a representative of the state board of charity whose duties are to look after the interests of the juvenile offenders. Heretofore the children were taken into court on Friday morning and given a seat on the bench with the women prisoners and allowed to remain there listening to the other cases until their own were called. Then their troubles were rehearsed before a big gallery filled with morbidly curious men, and much publicity was given even to the simplest cases. In many cases a boy who has been before court for some childish prank amounting to little or nothing, has heard from it unpleasantly in later life as have well meaning parents who have often brought boys to court as stubborn children, not with any idea of having them publicly punished but with the intention of effecting their reformation before it is too late. Thus Judge Hadley today decided that henceforth he will hold the juvenile session entirely separate from the regular police court and he asked Deputy Welch to speak to the newspaper men in relation not to publish the cases.

The regular session was quite brief.

Mary E. Thayer was arrested for drunkenness by Constable Nichols of South Chelmsford and she had been in before. Constable Nichols stated that Mary went to the house of Herman Olsen and raised a disturbance necessitating her arrest. The court ordered Mary to jail for three months.

"You are sentenced to jail for three months and you have the right to appeal," said Clerk Trull.

"Thank you, I appeal. I've got to go home to look after my furniture," said Mary. She was held in $100 for the superior court.

Three drunks were fined.

JESUIT PRIEST

Says Mrs. Fitzherbert Was King's Wife

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. That the British Regalia of Washington paid the tuition of James Ord, the reputed son of King George IV and his lawful wife, Mrs. Fitzherbert; that British officers visited Georgetown university, where he was taught, and that the original Ord bore a striking resemblance to the English Kings is the gist of a statement, made yesterday by Rev. John W. Fox, S. J., president of St. Peter's college, Jersey City.

Father Fox was at Georgetown university for many years and was intimately acquainted with the Jesuit astronomer, Fr. Curley, who knew James Ord, Fr. Fox said:

"Fr. Curley died at the age of ninety-four. I recall distinctly his speaking of the Ord mystery, of the lineage of a young student whom he knew as a boy at the university. He told me that in those days, the latter part of the 18th century, Young Ord was spoken of as one of royal birth. Fr. Curley told me particularly that the bills contracted by Young Ord were met by the British legation and that in his time British officers frequently visited the institution to inquire for Young Ord. The two chief rooms of this Ord attended Georgetown university when Fr. Curley was stationed there as a priest.

"I met James Ord in 1859. I did not broach the subject, but when he gave me his name, I recalled Fr. Curley's story. Although bent with age, there was a kingly bearing about him.

"James L. Ord, the Western Union Telegraph superintendent in Chicago is a direct descendant of the original Ord, and believes himself the legitimate grandson of King George IV, and the legitimate heir to the estate of Mrs. Fitzherbert, said to be $5,000,000."

JUDGE DEWEY

TAKES OUT PAPERS TO ASK FOR A RECOUNT.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—A representative of Judge Henry Dewey, who on the face of last night's returns, was defeated by a small margin in the contest for the republican nomination for mayor, today took out papers to fill, asking for a recount. The final returns last night gave a plurality of 275 for Louis A. Frothingham, the successful republican nominee.

EXTRA

WRIT OF MANDAMUS

May be Petitioned for, by Water Board Tomorrow

Robert Crowley, chairman of the water board, has been quoted as saying that the board will take the matter of the pump contract into the courts in a day or two. This would point to the board's intention to force the mayor to sign the contract and there are those who use them in the belief that the courts would advise the mayor to sign the contract.

Asked as to his opinion relative to the matter, City Solicitor James G. Hill said today that he had not been asked for an opinion and consequently had not prepared one. He had read part of the water board's letter to the mayor and while he was not prepared to give an opinion officially, he was inclined to think that the mayor could not be obliged to sign the contract.

The right of the water board to spend money without the authority of the city council has been questioned and on this point the city solicitor is not prepared to give an opinion. The city soliciting did remark, however, to say that most any kind of an old finding could be raised out of our city charter. He says our present charter is somewhat of a humbug.

It is said that either tomorrow or on Monday the water board will ask the court for a writ of mandamus to compel the mayor to sign the contract.

COST $65,843.25

Hearst Campaign Expense Breaks the Record

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 17. Wm. Randolph Hearst, candidate for mayor of New York, on the Municipal Ownership ticket, certified to the secretary of state today, that his total campaign expenses were $65,843.25. This breaks the record which was previously held by Governor Higgins, who spent during the last state campaign $22,000.

Mr. Hearst says that he contributed all but $17,443.64 of the $80,206.83 which was spent by the finance committee of the Municipal Ownership League for the benefit of all the candidates on the ticket and expended $8,125, personally for buttons and lithographs, to appear before the grand jury.

REPUBLICANS

BROUGHT AN ILLEGAL VOTER TO NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Albert Farrar, accused of illegal voting at New York's contested mayoralty election today, confessed in court, that he came here to vote from Utica, N. Y. He said through his lawyer that he was brought here to vote the republican ticket and that a republican district leader introduced him in political circles, as his son. He said he received $5 for his vote.

The grand jury today began to investigate the disappearance yesterday of John Krop, who was under $500 cash bail, to answer a charge of illegal voting. Charles F. Dillon, his attorney, was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury.

MAD DOG HUNT

Excitement at Dracut Centre Today

EIGHT DOGS AND A PIG KILLED

Were Bitten by a Mad Animal

Dracut Centre had a bad scare and a lively dog hunt last night and this morning, resulting in the tragic deaths of eight dogs and one pig after an exciting chase by a score of townsmen armed with revolvers, guns, clubs, fence pickets and other articles of rustic warfare.

It seems that a mad dog visited that section of the town last night and bit some seven other dogs and a pig. Neighbors upon learning that the dog was mad instituted a hunt for the animal which was afterward shot by a man named Stedman, and its head sent to Dr. Sherman, who will have it examined. This morning the neighborhood was out looking for the victims of the mad dog and all were killed without loss of time.

The personality of a candidate has always to be considered in making a choice for the mayoralty nomination, also his vote-getting ability in his own party, but there are other considerations equally if not more important. The Republicans are asking previous to the primaries, which man must we choose to lead the party on election day? He must not only be strong in his own party, but must be one of those men who can poll the votes of Republicans and Democrats alike, the independent voters who speak for good government at the polls and not for party politics. Alderman William Fairweather is the only Republican this year who can defeat Mayor Casey for a re-election. Mr. Hill played his strongest card last year and lost. Mr. Farnham never ran for political office, has had no experience in the city government and has no organized strength, but Mr. Fairweather has the organization, the prestige and strength in both parties and his election would be assured provided he won the nomination. These are the facts every man should consider. All three men are clean, honest and have good qualities, but Mr. Fairweather is the only one of the three who has the the necessary strength. He is fitted both by his previous experience in the city government, and by his private life of thrift and honesty, to give the people whom he would represent reform in departments where reform and honesty are needed.

CALLED A DRAW

"Jack" Desmond Put Up a Good Fight

AGAINST BILLY MACK OF LAWRENCE

Billy Clinton of Lowell Lost Decision

"Jack" Desmond of this city and "Billy" Mack of Lawrence fought twelve rounds to a draw in Lawrence last night. The Lawrence Sun says of the bout:

A large number of members of the West End club witnessed several interesting bouts at their quarters on Jordan street last evening. The first bout consisted of a six-round affair at 105 pounds, between Young Hamel of Lawrence and Young Canty also of this city. Hamel gained the decision in the second round. In the second preliminary Young Kloby of Lawrence met Billy Clinton of Lowell. The boys weighed 115 pounds and fought for 10 rounds. Kloby had Clinton going in the third round, landing his left jab at will during the bout and being awarded the decision at the end of the fight.

In the main event Willie Mack of this city met Jack Desmond of Lowell, in a 12-round go at 130 pounds. Mack had as seconds J. J. Hart, James O'Brien, and James O'Neil. Desmond's interests were looked after by Young Kenny and Peter Berry of Lawrence, John A. Sullivan of Marcella and Tommy Tuffey of Lowell.

In the opening rounds Mack used a left hook with good effect. Desmond had a vicious right which kept Mack busy trying to avoid it. Desmond landed hard right on Mack's nose in the third starting the blood. The fourth was Mack's round he doing the most leading in the fifth, sixth and seventh the go was pretty even. In the ninth Mack did good work and had Desmond tired at the finish. The eleventh round was a fast one, both boys fighting hard. The twelfth, and last round was very fast and at its conclusion Referee Doherty declared the bout a draw.

Martin Doherty of Lowell was referee and Lindey Roberts was timekeeper.

Desmond injured his right thumb in the first round and was handicapped during the remainder of the bout.

ABE ATTELL

WAS GIVEN THE DECISION OVER MOWATT.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17. At the end of a 15-round fight with Tommy Mowatt of Chicago, before the Eureka A. C. last night, Referee O'Hara gave Abe Attell of San Francisco a decision which he had earned by cleverly keeping away from Mowatt's repeated rushes, or by meeting them with smashing blows in the face. Mowatt did practically all the leading and took punishment enough to have finished three men but he was strong and still rushing at the finish though his face was a pitiful sight. He proved himself a remarkably strong fighter, but was unable to overcome the handicap of Attell's clever foot work.

ERNE AND HANLON MATCHED.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 17.—Manager McCarey of the Pacific Coast club of Los Angeles, announced last night that Young Erne, the eastern lightweight, has been matched to fight a 20-round go with Eddie Hanlon in this city on December 15. The bout, however, is conditioned upon Young Erne winning his fight from O'Leary in Milwaukee.

The Blood Medicine

Best Known and Most Taken.

The merit and superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood medicine have been fully established. For years this great medicine has been taken for blood diseases, with such satisfactory results that it enjoys the distinction of being recognized, by physicians as well as people generally, as positively a specific for these diseases, and is the most widely known and generally taken of all blood medicines. 40,366 people have testified to the great good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done them, in the last two years, and their testimonials added to the tens of thousands already on file make the largest volume of voluntary testimony in the world.

It is in view of such facts as these that you are urged to take Hood's Sarsaparilla if you are suffering from any blood disease or any indication of impure, devitalized or bad blood, Scrofula, Eruptions, Skin Diseases, Inflammations, Swellings, Bunches, Chronic Sores, Abscesses, Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, Catarrh, Rheumatism, General Debility, Etc.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cleanses the blood of all impurities, expels disease germs and the effects of such blood-poisoning diseases as diphtheria, scarlet fever, pneumonia and the grip, gives strength and tone. It has the indorsement of the largest number of radically and permanently cured people.

Accept no substitute; but insist on having Hood's, and get it today.

If Accuracy of Enrollment is Denied

The fact that a number of voters changed their politics at the primaries in Boston yesterday, being allowed to do so by writing their names on the backs of ballots is the cause of considerable speculation in Lowell.

Can the voters of Lowell change their politics at the primaries next Tuesday? This question is being quite freely discussed today.

William McCarthy, assistant city clerk, in reply to The Sun reporter's question today said: "To say that they can change their politics is, perhaps rather a crude way of putting it. The voter can deny the accuracy of enrollment and get another ballot. He would have to take oath, of course, that he had not voted before at the caucuses on that day. He would have to sign his name on the back of the ballot and in case of recount, providing it was proven that the enrollment was correct, his ballot would not be counted."

ALL DESTROYED

Buildings Were Regarded as Fireproof

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio, Nov. 17.—The loss from the fire at the Riverside Bridge company's plant, early today, will exceed $200,000.

All the buildings which were iron and steel and regarded as fire proof, were completely destroyed. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained.

SEEN AND HEARD

You "auto" have seen the auto fire in Moody street yesterday morning. Back up!

It is too bad that it takes so long to know one and that after you know one you wish you didn't know one.

Candidates are like girls—there's one in the world for us all.

May a kind Providence be charitable with the man who looks for consistency in the house of politicians.

A young lady from Lowell who was being shown through the police station in Woburn a few days ago found herself in a padded cell with the door locked. It was a joke, to be sure, but she declares she didn't enjoy the sensation the least little bit. There was something uncanny about it, she says.

The next time "Tommy" Craig goes rabbit hunting he says he will take a net with him to stretch at the mouth of the hole. It was a fine big rabbit that he let slip through his hands the other day and Ralph Stickney will never forgive him.

Wright Huntington, of the Huntington-De Deyn Stock company, has had so many invitations to eat his Thanksgiving dinner with different patrons of the Academy of Music that he is in quite a bewildered state. He, however, has decided that in order not to show any favoritism he will take the first invitation received which came from Mr. Frank W. Hurd of 19 Harrison street.

November brides are rather scarce this year as compared with other Novembers. The bachelors should get a move on.

A coatless woman wearing a shirtwaist and a fur collar and muff is about the most ridiculous thing that the writer has seen for a long time.

Did you ever notice the girl with the dresses of many colors? She is quite a prominent figure on the street, and while the clothing she wears is of fine texture and strictly up to date, the colors are—well, they will speak for themselves.

Go broke once if you want to feel that the bottom has dropped out of the world.

Senator Alger of Minnesota tells a story about a "call down" one of his friends received at the hands of a Kansas farmer some years ago. The senator was speeding through Kansas on a return trip from California, where he has immense timber interests. Seated with him was a friend from Michigan and as they passed through Kansas a prosperous farmer came into the car and took a seat just opposite them.

The senator and his friend were discussing the relative value of Michigan and Kansas lands when the former said: "I think that is a mighty good farm," and he pointed out the window at a typical sunflower plantation.

"It may be good enough," said Senator Alger's friend, "but I wouldn't take it as a gift."

The Kansas farmer, who had been listening to the conversation said, addressing Alger's companion:

"Did I understand you to say you are from Michigan?"

"Yes, from Michigan," replied the Wolverine traveler.

"Well, I want to remark," replied the farmer, who had been stung by the slight on Kansas, "that you are the first Michigan man I ever saw who wouldn't take everything in sight, gift or no gift."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New York World: Now that Murphy and McCarren are out of it, the great work of saving the national honor rests exclusively upon McCall, McCurdy and Hegeman.

Boston Traveller: In all the progressive countries of the world there has been a phenomenal increase, within the last generation, of individual and corporate wealth, and, in all these countries, individual and corporate wealth have taken an unfair advantage of their newly-acquired power. But it is in this country, where they have been so firmly intrenched behind high tariff walls that they have come to believe that nothing can assail them, that individual and corporate wealth have been particularly insolent. Our billionaires and multi-millionaires, our trusts, railroads and insurance companies, intoxicated by success, have not only flouted the people whom they despise and despoil, but they have openly defied the laws, and it still remains to be seen whether the force of the outraged municipal, state and national governments is sufficient to bring them to book. The public is filled with wrath by their cynicism and corruption, and this wrath of the public is righteous.

Springfield Republican: The municipal ownership party in New York city is one of the most extraordinary upheavals in recent American politics. Nor is the significance of it hard to find. There is little of the personal in its demonstration; it represents rather a great popular rising over an issue, and that issue is the plundering of our American cities.

Columbus Press: Edna Wallace Hopper has been sued for breach of promise again. Why do folks marry Edna Wallace Hopper?

Worcester Post: Mr. John Sharp Williams of Mississippi whom many hope to see the successor of Senator Money says, it is as appropriate for the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge to pose as a tariff revisionist as it would be for a bald-headed barber to advocate a hair restorer. No doubt the tonsorial simile was suggested to Mr. Williams by the fact that the senator from Massachusetts has recently had an extremely close shave.

BROTHER OF KING

The Count of Flanders is Dead

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17.—The Count of Flanders, brother of King Leopold and heir to the throne, died at 11.30 this morning. Death was due to inflammation of the lungs. The count was born in 1837.

They have two children. Prince Albert is one of the most popular members of the reigning house of Belgium. He is of a studious disposition and has traveled extensively.

CASEY MEETING

Wards Three and Seven in Conference

Mayor Casey's Action is Commended

Voters from wards three and seven flocked to Mayor Casey's headquarters last night in such numbers as to make it almost impossible for late comers to squeeze in. The speakers were Lawrence Cummings, Hon John E. Drury, Dennis Healey, Dr. Frank McAvinue and Joseph Cox.

It was the second time that Dr. Avinue had appeared before a political gathering and he made a very lively and a very pointed speech in which he criticized Mayor Casey's critics and characterized Mayor Casey as a "model mayor." He said that Casey was the only mayor of whom he had any knowledge that had the sand to buck the tiger in Market street. It was evident, he said, that the mayor did not fear the police or the police commissioners. He said that the mayor had made no mistakes of any great magnitude and that his administration was a clean one. The mistake about which so much is said was a technical one discovered by republican partisans and endorsed by a partisan judge.

Dennis Healey spoke at considerable length and congratulated the mayor for the cleanness and fitness of his administration. He spoke of the new industries that had come to Lowell because of the efforts of the mayor. He felt that Lowell should be proud of her chief executive and that he should be given another term.

Joseph Cox and Lawrence Cummings spoke in complimentary terms of Mayor Casey's administration, of his career in the city government, the great interest he had taken in all that pertained to the city's welfare and the good he had accomplished. They said there was no question but that James Casey would be nominated and they presaged his reelection.

Mr. Cummings said: "There [illegible] criticism in regard to the settlement of the lighting question but every fair [illegible] minded man must admit that had Mayor Casey done as his predecessor [illegible] on the contract without [illegible] the city would not be saved [illegible] on the five-year contract. [illegible] are to be better and to [illegible] [illegible] for $25 a less.

In all fairness I hold that the mayor should get credit for this excellent piece of work. In the whole transaction he served the best interests of the city for I believe that after all we are better off not to have poles and light wires on every street in Lowell.

Hon. John E. Drury said it would be hard to conceive of a mayor more devoted to the best interests of the city than Mayor Casey. He said that as a member of the city council, James B. Casey was ever on the alert and watchful for the city's interests and that as mayor he had shown himself to be fearless, honorable, upright and capable. He said that the mayor had worked hard and had succeeded in bringing new industries to Lowell, that he had played the heavy part in abolishing the grade crossings and the little mistakes that his opponents were trying to point out, he said, were decidedly diminutive as compared with the good that he had done.

Mayor Casey will speak at the Lyon street school tonight.

LORD CURZON

Explains Why He Gave Up Position

BOMBAY, Nov. 17.—At a banquet given in his honor here yesterday Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the retiring viceroy of India, made a frank avowal of the reasons for his resignation. Beginning with the declaration that he considered the office of viceroy the noblest in the gift of the British nation, and that it ought to be looked upon as a prize to be awarded only to its greatest statesmen, he said it could not be supposed that he would, without the strongest reasons, resign a position which had been the dream of his childhood and the ambition of his manhood. He resigned, he said, on no personal grounds, but in defence of two great principles—first, that there should be an indestructible subordination of the military to the civil authority, and, second, the necessity of paying becoming regard to the Indian authority in determining the needs of India.

Lord Curzon contended that in sacrificing himself in defence of these principles, he had the great preponderance of Indian opinion behind him, and predicted that, should the day ever come when the viceroy would be treated as the mere puppet of the home government, the justification for the post would cease to exist. He said he did not believe that the administrative wisdom of his countrymen would ever tolerate such a blunder.

Mrs. Brown Testified Against Mrs. Stone

[illegible]TON, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Sarah A. Stone [illegible] for the December sitting of [illegible] jury in $600 bonds by Judge [illegible] in the municipal court yesterday, [illegible] charge of performing a criminal [illegible] on Mrs. Elsie F. Allen of Winchester [illegible] last January, from the effects of [illegible] she died. No defence was of[illegible].

Mrs. Stone has been out on bonds of [illegible] amount, furnished by Robert [illegible] of Nahant, but they will have [illegible] removed, and meanwhile she is held in custody.

Mrs. Annie Brown, sometimes known as Mrs. Jane Catherine Lewis, was the principal witness for the government at the trial. Mrs. Brown is now serving a five year sentence in Sherborn for being an accessory before the act in the Allen case.

She was an assistant at the Mrs. Dr. Bishop office at 178 Tremont street, and she said that the defendant in the case was the woman known as Dr. Stone who performed the operation on Mrs. Allen.

Reginald Allen, the husband of the unfortunate Mrs. Allen was cross-examined.

Medical Examiner Harris testified that the autopsy showed that Mrs. Allen died from peritonitis as the result of an abortion.

Dr. Metcalf of Winthrop said Mrs. Allen had admitted that an illegal operation had been performed upon her.

Annie Brown said that she worked as an assistant at the office of Mrs. Dr. Bishop on Tremont street for five weeks, beginning in December; that her duties were to see all of the patients, talk with them, make arrangements for the operation, take the money from them, and then assist at the operation.

She said the defendant, known as "Dr" Stone, performed the operation on Mrs. Allen.

Dr. Henderson's name was mentioned, and E. P. Barry, counsel for defence, asked her why she spoke of Dr. Henderson. She said that he was the man who hired her and that he was her superior in the place. She stated that she never saw Mrs. Dr. Bishop in her life.

She said that her husband was a student at the college of osteopathy and was not a doctor.

POLITICAL NOTES

There's going to be hot times in ward nine over the school fight. If you don't believe it read the following communication, which is not anonymous:

Editor of The Sun:—Kindly allow me the space in your paper to call attention to the following which appeared in the Morning Citizen a day or two ago:

"At last the ward nine citizens, who want a clean, capable, conscientious, educated and efficient candidate to vote for school committee have found him. He is a republican and his name will be on the republican part of the ticket, but that isn't any reason for voting for him, except that the democratic candidate isn't in any respect his peer. Mr. Johnson will be voted for by democrats as well as republicans, in order to get into the board the right sort of a man."

I almost wept with joy upon learning that at last a clean and educated candidate has been found for us to vote for in ward nine, as if the candidate we had two years ago was not. Why, all the neighbors around here could tell you that not one word was ever said about him as the result of the cranberry stain and whitewash smudges noticed that Thanksgiving day when he paid every one of us a visit during dinner time. Any one is liable to be the worse for hurrying, regardless of the work he may be doing. Wasn't his name on the republican part of the ticket when he was running against Dr. Walker? I was sure the name of Robert T. Marden was on the republican part of the ticket I had. It seems real unkind of the Citizen not to give him credit for cleanliness and learning and therefore I protest.

(Signed) WARD NINE.

The school board contest in ward four is waxing quite interesting, particularly since the third candidate, Mr. Mulholland, dropped out of the contest in favor of Mr. John W. Hamilton who is running against Mr. Regan, the present incumbent. Mr. Hamilton is a native of the ward and has a host of friends back of his candidacy. He is a clean and progressive young man and holds a position of responsibility with the Lowell machine shop.

Joseph Mellen thinks that the lightning will strike his way this year in his ward five contest for the common council.

John J. Connors is putting up a lively canvass in ward two for the common council and as he came very close last year his friends are confident that he will get the required number of votes this year.

If the people bringing the complaint to the board of ballot law commissioners had to pay the expenses incurred they probably would have considered whether the game were worth the candle. It cost $50 to throw the names out and the chances are that all of those who want to go back will get there on stickers.

The caucuses are only a few days off. If you desire to get registered so as to vote at them, get a move on.

FOOTBALL

HEAD OF GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY CONDEMNS BRUTALITY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—At a reception given in his honor by the society of the alumni of Georgetown university last night Rev. Hillhouse Buel, the new president of the university, reiterated his statements condemning brutality in football and the prevalence of professionalism in many of the best known institutions of learning in the country.

"I thank the Lord!" cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at Goodale's drug store, 217 Central st.; 25c.

WE POINT

With pride to the splendid equipment with which our PHOTOGRAPHIC STUDIO is supplied. A recent addition has been the installation of an ARISTO LAMP, which makes it unnecessary to depend upon sunlight to either take the pictures or to print them. You can see a score of samples in our studio taken by this new process, and we think you will agree with us that in every particular they equal the ones taken in daylight. This enables us to rush our work through quicker, because we do not have to depend at all upon atmospheric conditions, which often delay the photographer days at a time.

Is it too early to remind you of Christmas? A dozen photographs, you know will make a dozen presents. Our work is guaranteed. Our prices very reasonable.

Mr. Robert G. Belyea (for nine years Marion's chief assistant) is in charge.

TEXTILE NOTES

Interesting Items From the Mill Centres

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 17.—The lease of the Portsmouth knitting mills which on Jan. 1 will have successfully operated the Portsmouth Cotton Manufacturing Co.'s plant on Chestnut street for the last ten years, will expire, and the stockholders of the Portsmouth Cotton Manufacturing Co. at a meeting decided to form an auxiliary stock company, known as the Portsmouth cotton mills, incorporated, with stock to be taken by the holders of the parent, or lessor, company, share for share, only the shares of the new company will be $50 instead of $100.

The authorized capital stock of the new, or lessee, company, will be $100,000, and several prominent stockholders announced at the meeting that if any of the stock remained unsubscribed on Nov. 29, next, they would take the balance. This assures the raising of the company, and also assures the continuous operation of the Portsmouth Cotton Manufacturing Co.'s plant right on.

WOOLEN MILL CHANGES.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 17.—Extensive changes are being made in the Adams Woolen Co.'s plant in Maple Grove. A new change in the officers has been made. George E. Sayles succeeds James C. Chalmers as treasurer. In the mill new spinning machinery is being installed. In the card room the machinery is being entirely overhauled. New attachments and up-to-date appliances are also being added.

KNITTING MILL BURNED.

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Nov. 17.—Fire of unknown origin has destroyed the Keystone Knitting Co.'s large mill in Hummelstown, causing a loss of $20,000 with $16,000 insurance. The mill was a large frame structure, L-shaped, with separate engine and boiler room. At the time of the fire there was in it a large quantity of finished and unfinished hosiery, some of which was government work. All the valuable machinery, including the engines and the steam plant, was destroyed.

BUSY SHIPPING HOSIERY.

READING, Pa., Nov. 17.—The Pennsylvania Knitting Mills Co. was never busier than at present. A three-story building is in full operation, and 200 hands, 150 of whom are women, are employed. There are 250 operating machines in the plant, and when the 50 additional ones are installed 50 more operatives will be put on. Half hose and women's stockings in from 20 to 30 grades, and plain and fancy are made. The output is about 6000 dozen hosiery a week, which are shipped through jobbers to all parts of the United States. Orders are booked ahead for nine months.

LEASES NEW PLANT.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 17.—The Baltimore Coat Pad Co., a new concern, has secured a lease on the property, Nos. 1322 to 1332 Greenmount avenue, and the buildings on the site are now being prepared for the installation of machinery. The new concern will begin operations in a few days, and will employ 300 hands to begin with, this force will be increased from time to time as the enlargement of the business warrants. Those interested in the new concern are William S. Whitfield, Myer Bernheim and Frank Brichat.

TO MAKE MOHAIR YARNS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 17.—A novelty yarn plant for spinning of mohair, worsted and novelty yarns is to be started here by the concern which controls the Queensbury mills of Worcester, and the Somersworth, N. H., spinning mills.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Two of the leading preparatory school teams wound up their football season last Saturday, schools that are the biggest feeders for eastern universities. The two are Andover and Exeter, and there is a great difference in their scoring records. Exeter made a total of only 79 points in seven games, which was slim scoring considering the strength of Exeter elevens. This year's Exeter eleven was a big, heavy aggregation, and the Hogan system seems to have been constructed more for short gains and many downs than for lengthy single dashes toward the enemy's goal. The Andover eleven was not composed of lightweights, but covered much more ground than the Exeter rivals, as the total of 179 points proves. Andover made just 100 points more than Exeter. The former averaged 25 4-7 points a game and the latter 11 2-7. Andover averaged over four touchdowns a game and Exeter not quite two.

The Colgate team has finished its college season and made a good scoring record—217 points. That is an average of a fraction over four touchdowns a game. Opponents made 23 points against Colgate, something less than two touchdowns a game. This is a good defensive record considering that Colgate played Cornell, West Point, Syracuse, Williams and Dartmouth. An unusual thing in connection with Colgate's season is that in the Cornell, Dartmouth and West Point games not a substitution was made and only one in the Williams game. Equally unusual is the fact that the West Point team has been beaten in four of its six games to date. But the hard schedule of the soldiers explains the number of defeats. Virginia Poly, a "sleeper"—Harvard, Yale and the Indians took West Point's measure. Last year, also with a stiff schedule, West Point lost only two games. There is a wide gap between the Army and Navy point totals, 47 scored and 54 for opponents for the Army and 135 scored and 11 for opponents for the Navy. This is partly accounted for by the different calibre of the opponents and by the greater number of games played by the middies.

The records show that Yale has in every case made a bigger score against a mutual opponent than Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania. Yale beat Brown 11 to 0, Harvard beat Brown 10 to 0 and Pennsylvania beat Brown 8 to 6. Harvard made a bigger score against both Brown and the Indians than Pennsylvania did, so that this lesson teaches us that these scores have no bearing on coming contests. Yale not only made a bigger score against Brown than did Harvard—though this mutual opponent furnished practically a tie for the winners—but also against West Point and the Springfield Training school. Columbia is the only team that both Yale and Princeton have met, the results showing a difference of 41 points in favor of the Blue. Amherst has the distinction of having played two tie games, one with Columbia and one with Dartmouth. That is a rarity in football. Michigan leads the country in combined offensive and defensive results, though Minnesota has made more points. Total scores follow:

Harvard, 141; opponents, 29 (nine games). Yale, 155; opponents, 0 (eight games). Princeton [illegible], opponents, 22 (nine games). Pennsylvania, 188, opponents 25 [illegible] games). Columbia, [illegible]; opponents, 41 [illegible] games). Cornell, 65; opponents, [illegible] games). Indians, 229, opponents [illegible] games). Dartmouth, 189, opponents 12 (eight games). Brown, 211, opponents, 31 (nine games). Williams, [illegible] points, 71 (ten games). Wesleyan, [illegible] points 50 (eleven games). Lafayette, [illegible] opponents, 25 [illegible] games). Lehigh, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] (ten games). Colgate, [illegible] opponents, 23 (nine games). Hamilton, [illegible] opponents, [illegible] games). Annapolis, [illegible] opponents, 11 (ten games). West Point, 47, opponents, 54 (six games). [illegible] 137 opponents [illegible] games). [illegible] 46, opponents, [illegible] games). [illegible], 178 opponents, 36 (eight games). Pennsylvania State, 17 opponents [illegible] (six games). Exeter, 79, opponents [illegible] (seven games). Andover, 179, opponents [illegible] (seven games). Chicago, 274, opponents 5 (nine games). Michigan, 3[illegible], opponents 0 (eleven games). Wisconsin, [illegible], opponents 56 (nine games). Minnesota, [illegible], opponents, 16 (eight games).

BOXING GOSSIP

George Siler, the veteran critic and referee, says that Fitzsimmons and O'Brien have no right to announce that their coming contest at San Francisco, which will take place in December, is for the heavyweight championship. Siler says that Marvin Hart is the rightful holder of the title left vacant by the retirement of Jeffries.

Siler is getting old, and his judgment is not what it once was. Where did Marvin Hart get the championship? By his shady decision over Jack Johnson and his win over Jack Root? Jeffries certainly announced when he refereed the Hart-Root fight at Reno, that the winner would succeed to his title, but since when has a champion the right to give his title away?

When Jim Corbett jumped into the ring when Peter Maher knocked out Steve O'Donnell in a round in 1896, he presented the world's championship to Maher. The public laughed at the new champion. Bob Fitzsimmons wanted the title, and as Corbett had persistently refused to meet him, he arranged a battle with Maher, and knocked him out in a round at Langtry, Tex. Fitz then claimed the world's title, but the sporting world still laughed. Finally Corbett was forced to meet Fitz, and the Cornishman's victory at Carson City in 1897 gave him the undisputed world's championship.

Fitzsimmons lost the title to Jeffries, and Jeffries is the only fighter in the world who has ever beaten the lanky wonder. Now Jeffries presents the title to Hart, but that no more makes Hart the champion than Corbett made Maher the champion. And if some rugged heavy should come along and beat Hart, it would no more make him the champion than Fitz's victory over Maher made him the champion.

If Jeffries has really retired in earnest, the only thing he can do is to throw his title into the ring to be fought for. Then one of two things may happen. Either we must wait until all the aspirants have fought it out among themselves and the best man proven himself, or a nominal champion be recognized until he is defeated.

Who will be recognized as that nominal champion? Not Hart, but Fitzsimmons, the former champion, who has been defeated by no man save Jeffries. If Fitz wins over O'Brien in December, he should be recognized as champion. If he loses, then let the younger heavies fight it out among themselves. That's the logic of the heavyweight situation, and Hart hasn't a look in unless he beats Fitzsimmons.

Steve Mahoney insists that Harry Edels of Chelsea is the most promising boy he has ever handled. Edels' rise has been rapid and consistent. A year ago he was a raw amateur boxing at the B. A. A. Since he turned professional he has come along so fast that now he is one of the best drawing cards in New England. His record has its ups and downs but progress has been consistent. His full professional record, with dates, all in 1905, is as follows:

Jan. 6, L. Jack McKeever, six rounds, Chelsea, Jan. 20, K. by Dave Deshler, six rounds, Chelsea; April 19, K. Jerry McCarthy, one round, Chelsea; May 10, K. Connie Mack, two rounds, Chelsea; May 23, W. Goliath Jones (national amateur champion), six rounds, Chelsea; June 16, L. F. Kid Lester, three rounds, Chelsea; July 7, K. Young Casey, three rounds, Chelsea; Aug. 4, L. George Ashley, 15 rounds, Thornton, R. I.; Aug. 16, W. F. Blink McCloskey, 12 rounds, Bellows Falls, Vt.; Sept. 25, D. Bartley Connolly, 15 rounds, Portland, Me.; Oct. 27, L. F. Bartley Connolly, 12 rounds, Portland, Me.; Nov. 10, D. Joe Reed, 12 rounds, Lawrence.

Tonight Edels meets Lew Myers of New York at Portland. Myers is the hardest nut Edels has ever had to crack. He is one of the best lightweight in the East, and a star performer in Philadelphia, where he has bested Terry Martin and other good boys. He is rugged, clever, a hard hitter and game to the core. His battle with Edels should be a hummer. This praise of Myers is given, in spite of what happened at Beachmont, Monday night.

Bill Crowley, Myers' manager, states his side of the affair in the following letter:

"The bout at Beachmont Monday night was a very badly handled affair as far as rules go, in fact, there were no rules.

"I have no excuses to make for Myers, for he did foul after speaking to the referee about Sidney's foul fighting.

"Sidney clicked Myers until he fell and could not get up. Myers did not quit, and if the Sidney people think he did, they can have another match, and if Myers don't stop Sidney in 15 rounds, Sidney can have all of the purse and a side bet, too, if he wants it. All I ask is a referee who knows the rules and will enforce them."

It is announced that Jack (Twin) Sullivan got more than $2000 out of his last fight with Tommy Burns at Los Angeles. Go West, young man, go West!

SIMMONDS SHOWED ROLL OF MONEY TO STRANGERS.

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 17.—Arthur Simmonds, a brick mason, 60 years old, came here from Enfield, Tuesday afternoon, expecting to work upon the new Carnegie library building.

He had with him $67 and some small change when he met a couple of young fellows and asked them to direct him to a boarding place.

They agreed to for a drink and as both claimed to be on the black list they asked Simmonds to get a pint. They watched him go into a saloon and saw his roll when he paid.

On leaving the saloon the three crossed the footbridge over the Winnipesaukee river to Bow street, where the men were to direct him to a good boarding place. Instead, after having had a few drinks the men pounced upon Simmonds and knocking him senseless robbed him of his money.

He was dragged to a lonely spot by the river bank where he was left. Simmonds says the robbery occurred about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon but he did not recover consciousness until Wednesday morning, and all day Wednesday he was so dazed that he did not think to report the affair to the police.

REP. BURTON

MAY BE A CANDIDATE FOR SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. Some interest was caused here yesterday by a report that Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio might become a candidate for speaker of the house in opposition to Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois. [illegible] found here who had heard [illegible] representative Burton [illegible] contemplated such a move [illegible] Mr. Burton is still in [illegible] or whether he is [illegible] is not known definitely [illegible] Mr. Burton is away from Washington.

Mr. Burton has adopted an independent course [illegible] he has been a member of the [illegible] frequently taking issue with the [illegible] of the party. He fought the late [illegible] Hanna in the attempt [illegible] ship subsidy legislation [illegible] in the opposition to the Hanna [illegible] measure. His action [illegible] while in organizing a band of [illegible] and [illegible] roughshod over Speaker Cannon and the other [illegible] in an effort to force an [illegible] appropriation bill [illegible] his chances of appointment [illegible] chairmanship of the committee [illegible] appropriations. In fact, Speaker Cannon is understood to have been [illegible] at Mr. Burton's course in [illegible] a little group of republicans with the democratic minority in opposition to the dominant party in the house that he threatened dire punishment. It was declared by friends of the speaker that in any event Mr. Burton would not get the appropriations chairmanship and that he might [illegible] lose his place at the head of the committee on rivers and harbors.

Mr. Burton is regarded by his colleagues as an unusually capable man, strong, [illegible] independent and a close student of public affairs. But it is on the cards that Mr. Cannon shall be re-elected speaker. No one here believes that any formidable opposition can be worked up against him.

"TAILORVILLE PADDOCKS"

Ready for Instant Service, Designed by Artists, Tailored by "Jours"

Many men think because a paddock is a hard coat to make, they should go to a tailor when they want this style garment.

That's just the reason why they shouldn't—not one tailor in a hundred knows how to make a good paddock, it's beyond them.

The best paddocks (with the exception of those turned out by a few big city tailors) can be had ready-to-wear, that is, of a few makers of fine clothes.

These makers employ the best designing geniuses the country affords, men whose salaries are larger than the profits of most merchant tailors.

No one community could afford their services, their product is sent all over the country.

By reason of their ability to furnish steady employment, they secure the cream of the skilled "jours" who fashion the garments and give them the shape that stays.

"Tailorville" Paddocks are what the name implies, equal in all respects to fine custom work, designed by artists, tailored by "jours," pressed, ready for instant service.

Only the price tag has the ready-made ring.

The strong display of select styles has been a big factor in the liberal selling of these "Tailorville" Paddocks—a display that was prime evidence of our confidence in their goodness.

Besides the dressy black and Oxford vicunas and worsted cheviots, there's a good showing of fancy effects which appeal to the young fellows—homespun and wide wale cheviots and light gray cassimeres in medium weight—all confined styles and only a few of a kind.

Single or double breasted, the latter style is preferred by men of good figure.

FITZGERALD WON

Is Democratic Nominee for Mayor of Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 17 John F. Fitzgerald won a great victory in the democratic primaries yesterday, defeating Edward J. Donovan, the candidate of a majority of the organization leaders, for the democratic mayoralty nomination.

In a total vote of [illegible] votes, Mr. Fitzgerald [illegible].

Louis A. Frothingham defeated Judge Henry S. Dewey by a plurality of 275 votes. The total republican vote was [illegible]. For several hours it was nip and tuck with Speaker Frothingham and Judge Dewey.

With a few precincts missing from ward 25, it looked up to 10.30 p. m. as if Judge Dewey had won by a small margin.

Indeed, up to that hour Judge Dewey was believed to be nominated, but when the belated precincts arrived and a corrected tabulation made, it was found that Mr. Frothingham was the victor by 275 votes.

KEPT HIS WORD.

Mr. Fitzgerald carried every ward except wards 2, 8, 9 and 11.

Mr. Fitzgerald's old ward, 6, gave him 1349 votes against 630 for his opponent, and ward 24, where he now lives, gave him 1274 votes to 555 for Edward J. Donovan.

From the receipt of the earliest returns it was plain that Fitzgerald would win. Ward 1 went for him by [illegible] votes. He lost ward 2 by 28 votes, except Charlestown and the North End, but was met in ward 8 by a majority of [illegible] votes for Edward J. Donovan.

Passing on to ward 7, the home of the president of the democratic city committee, W. T. A. Fitzgerald, he carried the ward against the combined forces of Fitzgerald and John Quinn.

James Donovan, Congressman Keliher and Senator Garland delivered ward 9 to Edward J. Donovan by about [illegible]. Ward 11 fell at with the Donovan column.

[illegible] but in ward 12 and [illegible] carried the three South End wards, 13, 14 and 15.

The [illegible] Roxbury, Dorchester, West Roxbury and Brighton wards followed the latter, by only a small margin, however.

Edward J. Donovan, his opponent recently took up his residence in this ward and, although the old-time leader, [illegible] threw his lot with the [illegible] of John F. Fitzgerald, [illegible] to swing the ward by [illegible] majority, and Mr. Donovan [illegible] a few votes of carry[illegible].

[illegible] where he has been su[illegible] the past dozen years. The [illegible] committee was beaten [illegible] headed by William H. [illegible] Fitzgerald lieutenant in [illegible].

Aside from the mayoralty contest, the [illegible] of the McNary ward committee [illegible] was perhaps the most [illegible] beginning at yesterday's [illegible].

In [illegible] William F. McClellan [illegible] control of the democratic ward committee. The followers of [illegible] Commissioner Kennedy in ward [illegible] are still on top. Senator McNary and Philip J. O'Brien won out in their ward contests.

In ward 19, on the democratic side, there was a shaking up. Hugh Montague of the public buildings department [illegible] place on the ward committee ticket, but the ticket elected is a mixed one, containing several anti-[illegible], it is claimed.

In ward 13 Hon. Jeremiah J. McNamara won his ward ticket over Alderman Linehan by a margin of about [illegible] votes.

MALACHI JENNINGS BEATEN.

In ward 16 the present organization leader, Malachi L. Jennings, lost his ward committee ticket by about 100 votes. The ticket headed by William J. Lynn won out.

The Curleys won in ward 17 by a big majority. In ward 18 Chairman Daly, who went over to the Fitzgerald side during the campaign, won out his ward ticket by about 2 to 1.

In ward 19 Chairman Egan, who did likewise during the campaign for the nomination, succeeded in electing his ward committee ticket by a substantial plurality.

Patrick F. Donovan lost his ward committee in ward 22, being defeated by Councilman McCarthy, the Fitzgerald leader.

HUSBAND HELD

IS CHARGED WITH PASSING LIQUOR TO WIFE IN CELL.

BOSTON, Nov. 17 As a sequel to the arrest and conviction of Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, a domestic, for the larceny of clothing and jewelry from the house where she was employed, her husband, Ansel Campbell is alleged to have gotten himself into serious difficulty with the Newton police.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Bowen, who conducts a fashionable boarding house at 126 Charles street, Riverside, complained to the police that several articles of clothing were missing from the house.

Officer Quilty arrested the woman, and her room was searched. Hidden in a trunk and about the room were a number of pieces of clothing, jewelry, lace, etc. At first she denied all knowledge of them, but later confessed to having taken them from various places where she had worked. She was sentenced to Sherborn by Judge Kennedy.

Her husband, it is said, had been away for some months, and only arrived in Newton on Wednesday night, and went at once to 126 Charles street. Informed of what had happened, he hurried to police headquarters. The police say he was so badly intoxicated he was not allowed to see his wife.

After the court proceedings yesterday morning he was again on hand, and was allowed to talk with his wife. It is alleged that he had a bottle of liquor with him, and that when the guard's back was turned, he passed it through the bars to Mrs. Campbell, who helped herself liberally.

Campbell became so obnoxious that he was locked up on a charge of drunkenness. The officers went to the woman's cell a little later and found her also under the influence of liquor. She was questioned, but what information was obtained from the woman the police declined to state.

KALMAN MOSES GAVE MONEY TO A STRANGER.

BOSTON, Nov. 17 Kalman Moses, a dealer in shoes at 50 Leverett street, reported to the police yesterday that he had been victimized out of $2000 by a Hebrew named Harris, whom, he says, he and his brother Joseph first met two weeks ago when he called at the store and asked permission to put $20,000 in foreign money in the safe.

The money was placed in the safe and remained there until Monday last, the stranger calling every day to have a look at it. On Monday he came in and asked to be loaned $2000 in American money to buy a house with, agreeing to leave the satchel and the $20,000 as security and to pay good interest for the accommodation.

[illegible] and [illegible] still in the store [illegible] the next day [illegible] that it was missing. Yesterday he decided that he had better report to the police.

According to Moses the stranger was [illegible] old, of dark complexion, 5 feet [illegible] inches tall, and wore a [illegible] hat and mustache.

TIRED OF STUDY

School Children Decided to Wed

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 17. Two school children, Grace G. Fredette, 16, and Louis A. Fredette, 19, cousins and residents of Pittsford, because their parents did not countenance their affection for each other and tired of close application to their studies, arranged yesterday to meet each other secretly at Brandon and marry.

The boy and his juvenile sweetheart stoutly maintained that they were of the legal age, and town clerk Charles J. Fenton of Brandon finally granted them a license. Fearful lest their plans miscarry the boy hurried his young bride to the nearest justice of the peace, who tied the knot. They returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bombard of Pittsford and announced that they were married.

Parents and other relatives of the boy and girl would not believe the information at first and regarded it as a jest, but later, when both persisted in their declarations, relatives threatened to separate them and have the ceremony declared illegal, as both misrepresented their ages in applying for a license.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. John M. Lynch, a prominent member of the Y. M. C. I., and Miss Bridget Halloran, a popular young resident of St. Peter's parish, took place Wednesday evening at St. Peter's parochial residence, Rev. Fr. Ronan performing the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white mousseline de soie with picture hat and carried bride roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Halloran, wore white dotted Swiss over white silk with pale blue picture hat and carried white chrysanthemums. Mr. John Tracy was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at 5 6 East Merrimack street. During the evening a bountiful supper was served, and a fine musical program was carried out with songs by Edward Shea, Kittie Donahue, Alfred Coutey and Elizabeth McAleer and piano solos by Katherine Lynch.

Friends of the bridegroom turned out in force to give their fellow shopmate a rousing send-off with red fire and fireworks. The young couple were the recipients of a wealth of wedding gifts which included a handsome sideboard and carving set from the Y. M. C. I., a beautiful couch and a china closet and etching from the Bigelow carpet weavers and winders respectively.

After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Lynch will be at home to their friends at 453 Stackpole street.

WARD SMALL.

Miss Hattie Emma Small was united in marriage at her home, 79 Westford street, Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock to Mr. Lee Ward. Rev. G. F. Kenngott was the officiating clergyman, using the Episcopal service. Relatives only were present. The bride was attired in white [illegible] and carried white chrysanthemums. She was attended by Miss A. Mat[illegible] [illegible], who wore a gown of blue with [illegible] trimmings. After the wedding [illegible] the guests repaired to the dining room where a wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward left on their wedding tour of two weeks, [illegible] will include Boston, [illegible] and New York. They will be at home to their friends after Jan. 1.

STRANGE DREAMS

Cases Where Crimes Were Revealed

Some of the strangest stories in the annals of crime are those which tell of the part dreams have played in the discovery of criminals. One spring day in 1830 a farm laborer, when passing a lonely mountain lake in Sutherlandshire, saw in the waters a dead body, which when rescued proved to be that of a well known peddler who had mysteriously vanished about a month earlier. The body bore marks of violence, the pockets were empty, and it was clear that the poor fellow had been brutally murdered and robbed but by whom? That was a mystery which for many a week completely defied elucidation.

One night, however, Kenneth Fraser, a tailor's assistant, saw in a dream the cottage of a man named Hugh Macleod, and heard a voice say in Gaelic, "The peddler's pack is lying in a cairn of stones in a hole near this house." He told the story of his singular dream to the authorities, who accompanied him to Macleod's house; and there, sure enough, beneath a heap of stones, the murdered man's property was found. Macleod was arrested, confessed, and was executed.

Another very remarkable story is told of a tragedy in Ireland. One evening two strangers presented themselves at a wayside inn near Portland, and after taking refreshment continued their tramp in the direction of Carrick-on-Suir. The incident was commonplace enough; but it led to startling developments, for in the wayfarers the landlady of the inn recognized two men of whom she had dreamed a very strange dream the night before. In her dream she had seen one of them kill the other with a coward's blow from behind, rifle the pockets of the dead man and stealthily bury him beneath a hedge. So impressed was her husband when this dream was told him that he made his way to the spot indicated and there discovered the body of the buried man. The assassin was pursued and arrested, and at the ensuing assizes was sentenced to death.

There has seldom been a more mysterious crime than the murder of Mr. Stockden, a London victualler, a great many years ago; and the mystery would have remained unsolved to this day had it not been for the intervention of Mrs Greenwood, who came forward with the statement that the murdered man had appeared to her in a dream and conducted her to a house in Thames street, where one of his assassins was to be found; while in another dream Stockden appeared and showed her the likeness of the man. On the strength of this dream clue the man indicated was arrested, and not only confessed his guilt, but betrayed his accomplices—three criminals being brought to the scaffold as the result of these visions of the night.

Some years ago a Mrs. Rutherford dreamed that her aged relative, Lady Leslie, was about to be murdered by a man whom she clearly saw. She immediately set out on a visit to Lady Leslie and asked permission to sleep in the lady's room. In the middle of the night Mrs. Rutherford heard some one trying to open the bedroom door. She raised an alarm and flung open the door, when Lady Leslie's two sons rushed out and in a moment had seized the man of the dream.

The following story is, perhaps, the strangest of all. One night the Rev. Herbert Powys, a Church of England clergyman, dreamed that the daughter of one of his parishioners had gone out into the darkness to meet her lover, who, at the time, was waiting for her in a secluded spot and spending the time in digging a grave for her. Jumping out of bed Mr. Powys rushed to the place indicated in his dream and arrived there just as the man had hurled the girl to the ground by the side of the open grave and was about to kill her with his spade.—Tit-Bits.

CONCERT AND DANCE.

The Grenadiers held an enjoyable concert and dance last night in Merrimack hall.

The hall was decorated with red and white, and hung with bunches of chrysanthemums. Kittredge's Singing orchestra furnished music for about 75 couples. Mr. Frank Wotton was floor director and general manager, and the aids were: Mr. Jennings, Mr. Herman Bean, Mr. Paul Gott and Mr. Leslie Newton. Miss Maud Plumstead had charge of the decorating, while Miss Carrie Fletcher presided at the refreshment table.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Nov. 17. Just before a majority of the guests at the Yoerge hotel retired last evening a fire broke out in the basement and swept through the building, gutting it completely. Mrs. O. V. [illegible], who was in her room on the third floor, was rescued with difficulty by the firemen and taken down over the ladders. Other guests were in their rooms but were able to make their escape while only a few were able to save their personal effects. There were about 25 guests in the hotel at the time. The hotel was owned by K. J. Yoerge and was valued at $16,000.

POLICEMAN ACCUSES THE MAYOR OF FAVORITISM.

WORCESTER, Nov. 17. Police patrolman Oliver T. Aldrich, who has been a member of the reserve force for the past two years, tendered his resignation to take effect immediately, in a letter which he wrote to Mayor Walter H. Blodgett yesterday.

In the letter Mr. Aldrich claims that the mayor has shown favoritism in making appointments to the permanent force by promoting over his head men who were appointed to the reserve force after him. He claims his work as a policeman has never been criticised by his superior officers, and in closing he says: "I regret very much to lose such a position, but I would rather work with pick and shovel than stand the treatment I have received."

MAN BLAMES PARTIES WHOM HE BEFRIENDED.

LAWRENCE, Nov. 17.—Eugene Riley of Littleton, N. H., claimed in the police court yesterday that after playing the part of the host and giving money to the men with which to procure beds for the night he was set upon by them and robbed of his money and watch. The defendants were Joseph McCarthy, William H. McCarthy and Jeremiah Sweeney. The men were arrested in a restaurant Wednesday night.

Joseph McCarthy declared that he could prove an alibi and his case was continued until today. The other two defendants were held for the grand jury in $500 each on the charge of assault and battery and were fined for drunkenness. Riley was also charged with drunkenness.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF [illegible] FOR MRS JOSLIN

In his charge to the jury yesterday morning Judge Fell said that if the actions alleged by the plaintiff occurred more than six years before the date of the writ (which was Dec. 21, 1904), the statute of limitations would intervene.

HOW TO SUCCEED

Practical Hints for the Ambitious

[illegible] a man who takes life [illegible] we first one who is [illegible] jelly-fish upon the shore [illegible]. But when we see one who [illegible] just as it comes we see [illegible] his name upon the [illegible] rocks. For him there is no [illegible], time is for him but the [illegible] of an illimitable circle, today and eternity are one to him [illegible] effort.

He [illegible] to years, except to note their [illegible] as the turning of a polar [illegible] that never sets. He fears not to look through memory to the past, nor [illegible] to think of the future as something better than he can make today. He sees not past errors as wasted energy, but as lessons that bore a fruit of sweetness within a bitter skin. He makes to keep, where others borrow but to lose.

If we all of us could make life just as it comes, make each day's dawn find us ready to greet it wide awake and clothed in strength to do to do our level best, how soon our efforts would be crowned with great success, success that would, in its greatness, inspire us to still higher effort!

If we will but dwell for a moment upon this inconceivable immensity of nothingness called time, if we will but realize the comparative less than nothingness of a human life, we must acknowledge that either life is purposeless and effort useless, or that life is everlasting and effort that which makes eternity eternal.

To acknowledge the first is to put ourselves on the level with a Persian fatalist with nothing to live for but the gross sensations of a day, writes Joel Blanc in the Phrenological Era. To realize the latter means a rebirth that any man who will may understand and, understanding, make life as it comes worth the living now and living always.

We are so prone to take the human exception as a rule and then to look upon it as a superhuman law. Because some man of thirty years has won a great success the struggling one of thirty-five gives up and says, "Too late!" And then because the man of sixty loses a fortune representing years of labor, we fear the very thing we hope for and say, "No more!"

Realize that you were put upon this wheel of time to stick to stay. Reason from the human point outward and upward until you reach the stars, where reason blends in faith and both are one. Reason that as children are born in every hour of the solar day, so are they born 'neath every cloud that floats before the eternal day. Perhaps the man who won his fame at thirty years has reached the twilight of his life and goes from dusk to dark. Perhaps you were born in your life's evening and now at forty are in the midmorning of a gloriously brightening day. Opportunity, for you, slept because it was your night. Now, do not wait for her to knock, but go and seek, and you will find her finger pointing on an upward path, your own.

LEARNING INDEPENDENCE.

When Andrew Carnegie landed from the steamer the other day he was approached by the reporters for an interview and, among other things, the subject of old age pensions came up. He stated that a discussion of it was unnecessary. "The young man now who doesn't drink and smoke will make his own pension. In spite of combinations of capital and commercial interests, I think the young man of today," said Mr. Carnegie, "has as much chance to get ahead as in years gone by. Then the man who kept the corner grocery made three thousand dollars, and he was rich. Now conditions have changed, and that is not a fortune, but you must consider how many young men who might be conducting corner groceries have gone into other things advanced with the times—are now making more than the three thousand dollars in a single year."

Mr. Carnegie, like other successful men, is not given to pessimism. They believe the times are more propitious than ever before for the success of an ambitious and industrious young man. He, like the others who know from experience what they are talking about, draw it strongly when discussing economy. Drinking and smoking are two pleasant indulgences that absorb a lot of change, and it is the dime in numbers that makes the dollars, and eventually the rich man.

A man may earn a comfortable salary and spend it all. He enjoys life, but he never has the satisfaction of independence, and some day when reverses come—illness or a change of management in his firm and he is suddenly cast out of a position—he is helpless, for he hasn't the financial resources behind him that make a man independent of another man's will or whim.

It was never the desire of these successful men whom we study and endeavor to emulate to rigidly economize and stint themselves merely to accumulate money. They knew, however, that without it they would be comparatively helpless through life. They saved at the start and when they had a goodly sum in bank they found with their active brains ways of using it to make more. They became the managers, the employers, the bosses, and made money to spend in quantities. That is the true meaning of business life.

FINDING AGAINST RAILROAD IN LAWRENCE CASE.

LAWRENCE, Nov. 17.—In the superior court yesterday afternoon, Judge DeCourcy presiding, a verdict of $5000 was rendered in the case of Sarah A. Peabody of Bradford vs. Haverhill, Georgetown & Danvers street railway, and one of $250 for her husband, Daniel Peabody. Mrs. Peabody sued to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by the collision of her carriage and a car.

After the jury had retired in this case an attempt was made to begin the trial of the cases of Brodeaux and Bowen vs. Boston & Northern street railway and Frank H. Ballard. Only six jurors had been accepted when the list had been exhausted.

A recess was taken until afternoon. After a jury had been impaneled, however, a settlement was announced and the cases were withdrawn. These suits grew out of a collision of a hack and a street car in Haverhill.

"Doctors" in the Geary Case Arraigned in Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 17. Wm. F. Hunt and Louis W. Crawford, who were arrested in New York, in connection with the death of Susan Geary, the chorus girl, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the superior criminal court today on an indictment charging them as accessories before and after the fact to an unlawful operation which caused the girl's death. Each was held for trial in bail of $5,000. Bail was not furnished and the men were committed to jail. Hunt and Crawford arrived here last night, in the custody of Boston officers. The government will attempt to prove in their case, that they disposed of the dismembered parts of the victim's body by placing them in suit cases and throwing them into Boston harbor.

REPLY TO WITTE

Resolution Adopted by Workmen's Delegates

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17. The text of the resolution adopted at the meeting of the council of workmen's delegates in reply to Count Witte's appeal to the working men is as follows:

"The council of workmen's delegates expresses astonishment at the emperor's favorite, who permits himself to call the workmen of St. Petersburg his brethren. The proletariat is not related to him in any way.

"Count Witte appeals to us to be compassionate of our wives and children. The council in reply invites the workmen to count the widows and orphans who have been added to the ranks of the workmen since the day Count Witte assumed power.

"Count Witte reveals the benevolent intentions of the emperor towards the working classes. The council reminds the proletariat of bloody Sunday.

"Count Witte begs us to give the government time and promises to do all possible for the workmen. The council knows Count Witte has already found time to give Poland into the hands of the military executioners. The council does not doubt Count Witte will do all possible to strangle the revolutionary proletariat.

"Count Witte calls himself a man who is benevolent towards us and wishes our good. The council declares the working classes have no need of the benevolence of a court favorite but demands a popular government on the basis of universal, direct and secret suffrage."

MISS ROOSEVELT'S GIFTS NOT SO COSTLY AS REPORTED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The examination and appraisement of the presents received by Miss Alice Roosevelt during her visit to the Orient has been begun. Miss Roosevelt, who is on a visit to relatives in Massachusetts, will probably be home in time to receive them at the White House. Some of the presents she has not yet seen.

JUDGE MUNGER

Says Unlawful Fences Must be Abandoned

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 17.—Speaking of the report that Secretary Hitchcock of the interior department was "surprised and indignant" on account of the $300 fine and six hour sentence passed on Bartlett Richards and William G. Comstock for inclosing 212,000 acres of government land, Judge Munger, who imposed the sentence in federal court last night said:

"The secretary of the interior has a perfect right to be surprised and indignant if he wants to be. One would naturally think he had enough to look after with the affairs pertaining to his office without seeking to saddle himself with additional responsibilities.

"You may quote me as saying that I think the result which the government hoped to attain has been effected. The indictments and the prosecution was primarily for the purpose of obliging ranchmen to abandon their unlawful fences.

"Now the inclosing of the public domain is not a crime in itself. It is nothing more than a statutory offense.

"When the district attorney was asked if he had anything to say in regard to the case, he replied that he believed Messrs. Richards and Comstock had been acting in good faith as regards the removal of their unlawful fences, and that they would continue to act in good faith in the matter of removing the remainder of their fences.

"As for the four years of determined efforts and the expenditure of thousands of dollars by the government before the defendants were indicted, that of course, was not a matter submitted for my consideration."

District-Attorney Baxter says he made no suggestion to the court, merely saying that he was satisfied that Richards and Comstock meant to comply with the law in regard to removing their fences.

PLAN HAZING

GIRLS' PLOT TO GIVE MISS SMITH A WARM RECEPTION.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 17—Inmates of the Colorado Girls' Industrial school, a reformatory for incorrigible girls, have plotted to haze Miss Gertrude Smith, who is coming from the Massachusetts Industrial School for Girls at Lancaster, that state, to be superintendent of the Colorado school. The plot has been revealed to the present management, but the girls do not know it is known. Believing that soldiers at Fort Logan, which is near the school, are a party to the outbreak, and that they have given the girls weapons to use in gaining their freedom, Col. Mansfield, commanding the post, caused orders directing Uncle Sam's fighters to keep away from the school to be read yesterday afternoon after dress parade. It is believed four soldiers have smuggled knives and revolvers to ringleaders in the school, and a search is in progress.

The girls plan to precipitate the riot and attack on Miss Smith at supper time within a few days after reaching the school. They have arranged to extinguish the lights and precipitate pandemonium at a given signal from a ringleader. Unusual precautions are being taken to thwart the plot. Miss Smith is expected daily.

NEW CREMATOR

Has Stood the Most Severe Test

ELEVEN TONS OF GARBAGE

Were Turned to Ashes in 12 Hours

WONDERFUL PIECE OF MECHANISM

The Decarie Machine a Great Success

The board of health met yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock and accepted the contract for the cremator. The test of the new incinerator was made under the supervision of the board and it was satisfactory in every respect, it was stipulated in the contract that the incinerator must consume 20 tons in 24 hours, that it must be odorless and that the expense of burning garbage and refuse must not exceed 50 cents a ton.

The Decarie machine more than lived up to the contract. It burned about 11 tons in less than 12 hours; it was odorless and it consumed the refuse, garbage and swill at a cost of 42 cents a ton.

The report of the official test was made by Mr. Thomas Garvey. Mr. Garvey's report showed that 9125 pounds of swill and 12,640 pounds of refuse had been burned in less than 12 hours and this exhibition was under conditions that were not the most favorable. The weather was damp, a fact that had a tendency to impede the draft. The expense of the 12-hour run was as follows: Labor $2.58, coal $1, wood 55 cents, making a total of $4.61 for the burning of 11 tons which makes an average of about 42 cents a ton.

It is the general impression that the board of health did not make any mistake in selecting the Decarie incinerator. To use the words of John T. Hendricks, who operated the old Dixon cremator for years, "The Decarie cremator works like a charm."

The burning of ordinary market refuse and garbage in the old Dixon machine cost more than 75 cents a ton and the Decarie machine will take care of it at a cost of 42 cents a ton. The cremator is neatly installed and is solid, substantial and practical.

The test yesterday was carried out under the instruction and personal observation of A. S. Decarie of Minneapolis, son of G. L. Decarie, the inventor of the machine and president of the company. There wasn't a single hitch from the time that the fire was first started until the tests had been gone through with.

The apparatus is a wonderful piece of mechanism, and the claim of its builders that it is odorless is well founded. Such malodorous substances as hide-heads, decomposed meat from butcher shops, and swill are burned without the creation or rather without the escape from the machine or destruction of gases of an offensive nature. Five tons of this stuff can be thrown into the receptacle at once, and be reduced to ashes in three hours.

The garbage and refuse is itself the fuel which keeps the fires in the main flue going virtually, the stuff to be disposed of furnishes the fuel for its own destruction. That is necessary to the operation of the machine, of course. Fires are built in two large grates under the great oven into which the rubbish is thrown. One of these fires has a lower draft, the other what is called the upper draft. A great maze of pipes or coils filled with water all the time are heated by these fires. When the refuse is dumped into the machine it falls on these coils. There is no fire near it here, but the intense heat serves to dry up all swill and other wet materials. The liquid deposits drop down through another set of pipes below into a tank six feet in diameter. As the stuff dries up, it drops down on to a second grate, and there is created another fire and burns itself up.

The gases thrown off from the burning substances are forced by a down draft through a tank of water, thence they pass under the grate up through the flue to the top of the boiler and then are forced down again through another water tank. The flue continues to the smoke stack, and a steam spray constantly in operation at the bottom of the funnel kills any gas which may have escaped from the water tanks. Thus it is that no odors get to the outside world.

When the contract for the cremator was awarded the Decarie company, William C. Doherty of the board of health insisted that as much of the material for the machine as possible be purchased in Lowell. Consequently the boilers and the large smokestack 125 feet in height and three feet in diameter, were built by the Sennott Boiler Works, and the contract for steam and pipe fittings went to a local plumber.

Reports from other cities where the Decarie incinerators have been installed are decidedly complimentary. The machine is giving satisfaction wherever installed and orders are piling in on the company thick and fast. Despite the fact that the machine installed in this city was not intended to burn swill it is capable of doing so, a fact that was proven yesterday. Swill was introduced in order to make the test a severe one and it was taken care of in good shape.

Now that the new cremator is in operation it is to be hoped that there will be no further need of complaint because of offensive odors emanating from dumps. Despite the best efforts of the health board to prevent it a great deal of refuse that was offensive found its way to the dumps and it was a menace to public health, especially during the summer months.

It has been suggested that it would be a good idea for the board of health to put on two or three teams and remove the refuse instead of having it removed by those upon whose premises it accumulates. This suggestion has been made to Agent Knapp and he says it would be a mighty good thing but the department is shy on the cash.

The small-pox bills have not been paid and the people are howling for their money. The city of Boston has sent in a bill for a diphtheria case and the city of Salem for a small pox case and neither of these bills have been paid. There are two small pox orders here hanging fire, one for $700 and the other for $1500. Heretofore orders appropriating money to defray small-pox expenses went through the city council flying but this year for some reason or other they got tied up.

JOHN W. DALY,
Democratic Candidate for Alderman.

John W. Daly is generally regarded as one of the democratic winners for the board of aldermen.

As a member of the common council during the present year, Mr. Daly has made a splendid record, and it is not at all surprising that he stands today as one of the most popular men at city hall. Absolute fairness in all matters presented to him by the people has marked his conduct in the council. His nomination and election seem assured.

DIAMONDS GONE

WERE TAKEN FROM A BOSTON TRAIN.

BOSTON, Nov. 17 Diamonds worth $5000, family heirlooms of irreparable value, and other brilliant gems, all the property of Mrs. M. D. S. Hawley of Dykes Heights, Brooklyn, N. Y., were mysteriously stolen from the Adams Express company shortly after being shipped from the South station, Boston, on Sept. 22, and private detectives, sleuths and the most astute inspectors of New York and Boston have been baffled at every turn in their endeavors to discover the robber or to recover the gems.

Mrs. Hawley and her children were in Boston from Sept. 6 to 14, stopping at the Hotel Touraine. With her were her jewels which she brought to Shreve, Crump & Low company on Sept. 8 to be cleaned, repaired and reset. CONTEST ENDED

Staples Will Get $100,000 Legacy

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 17 George K. Staples of Buffalo will get the $100,000 legacy left him by the late Mary A. Anthony of Adams, Mass. The litigation in the supreme court here to upset the ruling of Surrogate Marcus admitting the will of Mrs. Anthony, and to have the will declared invalid was abruptly ended here yesterday afternoon.

Suit had been brought to have the will set aside on grounds of undue influence and incompetency. The contestants were two brothers, Lyman Tinney of Wisconsin and Jerome Tinney of Adams, Mass.

It was charged that Mrs. Anthony was feeble minded at the time and that for years she had been addicted to the undue use of laudanum, ginger, tea and dulce.

The will was not only probated in Erie county, but was also admitted to probate in Massachusetts, where the contest was equally as bitter.

Mrs. Anthony came to Buffalo some months prior to her death and lived with the Staples family. Mrs. Staples cared for her.

Two years ago Julius Anthony, a son of Mrs. Anthony died in Adams. He had always been considered a bachelor, but a few days after his death a widow appeared. She immediately made claim for a part of his estate, threatening suit, and a settlement was made, a large sum being turned over to her.

Shortly after this Mrs. Anthony, the mother, came to Buffalo, N. Y., to live. She made a will leaving all of her property to the Staples family and died within a few weeks.

A determined fight was made to have the settlement made in the Berkshire county courts, the brothers stating that if it was made in Buffalo the Staples family would win. But it was finally decided that the Buffalo courts has jurisdiction.

Steamer Warren Met With Accident

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. The steamer Warren of the new line to Fall River was held up in the East river part of last night, owing to a slight accident to the machinery, which stopped the supply of water to the boiler. The Warren with about 150 passengers for Fall River, left her pier at 5 o'clock last night. Just beyond Hell Gate, a gasket blew out of the boiler connections and she came to anchor to avoid going ashore. She remained there until 12:40 a. m. when the vessel returned to her pier to secure a new gasket.

Some of her passengers were landed and sent to Boston by rail, but the steamer started for Fall River at 10 a. m. today, the damage having been repaired.

SAW BULL-FIGHT

The Sight Sickened American Visitors

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—A dispatch from El Paso, Texas, says:

At the bull-fight at Ciudad Juarez, yesterday, given for the American Mining convention, there was a panic when Felix Robert, the French matador who claims to be the only matador of that nationality, was tossed in the air and carried from the arena bruised and bleeding.

Later, the same bull, a ferocious beast from the ranch of General Luis Terras, governor of Chihuahua, made a run and plunged its long sharp horns through Matador Francisco Alonzo Pipeño, tossing him into the air first then dragging him about the ring, blood streaming from the wounds in the man's body.

The spectators sickened at the sight and women fainted and screamed to be carried out. The arena was packed with Americans from every section of the United States, few of whom had ever seen a bull fight, and for a time the situation was serious.

Many men rushed from the sickening sight in horror, while the women in many instances were carried out unconscious.

Order was finally restored but most of the Americans left declaring that they had already seen enough of the Mexican and Spanish national sport, although this was only the second bull up slaughter out of the four marked for the matador's sword.

CHURCH AT CONCORD TO HAVE CELEBRATION.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 17 The First Congregational church this evening will begin a celebration of its 175th anniversary, which will continue throughout Saturday and Sunday.

The history of this church is unique in that in 175 years it has had but six pastors: Rev. Timothy Walker, from [illegible] to [illegible], the Rev. Israel Evans, the Rev. Asa McFarland, [illegible], the Rev. Nathaniel Bouton, [illegible], the Rev. Franklin Ayer [illegible], and the Rev. George H. Reed, the present pastor, who took charge in [illegible].

[illegible] began in May, [illegible] a convening commission from [illegible] after [illegible] up the [illegible] of [illegible] arrived at a high bluff [illegible] what is now known as Rogers [illegible] and held a religious service [illegible] at that point the church [illegible] has been kept unbroken.

As has already been stated in The Sun the Friend Bros. have purchased the Cheney estate at the corner of Chelmsford and Westford streets and intend to erect a large bakery and stable.

There is a small stable on the premises at the present time. The small stable will be torn down to make room for a larger one. The premises will be viewed by the board of health before any action is taken. The board will meet Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

KRUP MISSING

Sensation in New York Election Cases

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. Something of a sensation was created in Justice Davis' branch of the supreme court yesterday afternoon when John Krup indicted for illegal voting in the recent mayoralty election, failed to appear for trial, and his attorneys expressed ignorance as to his whereabouts. Earlier in the day Krup's release had been [illegible] under increased bail, a [illegible] being filed. State Attorney General Mayer, who was in court, was indignant at the turn of affairs. [illegible] the attorney general [illegible].

"Every effort will be made to ascertain who put up the $5000 bail, and who employed counsel to defend Krup. The failure of Krup to appear in court was as flagrant a defiance of law as I ever heard of. The disappearance of Krup is the best confirmation of the statement made by me in court urging that his bail be increased. I believe there were reasons, apart from reasons of his own, why Krup did not appear."

Justice Davis declared the $5000 bail forfeited. Krup's case was reached at 2 o'clock but at the request of counsel was postponed for an hour. At 3 o'clock there was still no sign of the defendant. His lawyers, Abraham Levy and former Deputy Attorney General Charles P. Dillon, said they had left him but a short time before and he had assured them he would be in court.

Attorney General Mayer, moving for a forfeiture of bail, declared he was not surprised at the turn of affairs.

"If this defendant has left town," declared the attorney general, "I know with whom he was last seen and will know how to proceed. I thought somebody must have been greatly interested in Krup to put up $5000 bail for him just to secure his liberty for a few hours."

SACRED CONCERT.

By this time it seems unnecessary to say much about the Sunday concerts which are being held every Sunday afternoon and evening at the Academy of Music for at every performance people have to be turned away owing to the capacity of the house being taxed, but it might be well to mention at this time that two more of the concerts will be held Sunday afternoon and evening. Of course they will be good. Nothing but the best is scheduled for the Academy of Music, and nothing is too good for the patrons of the house.

Among the principal moving pictures to be shown will be "The Ill Rewarded Conjurer," "His First Night Away From Home," "The Horse Thief," "Cruiston McElurgy," "Stolen by Gypsies," "A Pleasure Trip," and a host of other fine pictures including both comical and realistic ones.

Daniel J. Sullivan, "Our Sully," will be there with the goods and deliver them while the Ladies' Orchestra will also do its best.

The prices for the afternoon will be ten and twenty cents and in the evening, ten, twenty and thirty cents.

VETERAN GENERAL DEAD.

SPENCER, Nov. 17 Arva Grinnell, a veteran of the Mexican war died at his home in this town yesterday at the age of 79 years.

Mr Grinnell was a member of the New England Grenadiers, Company K. In the Mexican war he is said to have been the first man who scaled the walls of Chapultepec and was a witness to the branding and execution of Riley's deserters. He came to Spencer from Rutland, Vt., thirty years ago where he was employed as a shoe maker. A wife and two daughters survive.

LOSS IS HEAVY

Big Fire in a Wire Weaving Plant

GEORGETOWN, Conn., Nov. 17—The extensive wire weaving plant of the Gilbert and Bennett Manufacturing company in this place was threatened with total destruction by a fire which broke out soon after five o'clock yesterday afternoon, causing a loss variously estimated between $[illegible] and $[illegible]. The saving of the big plant, the largest wire weaving concern east of Chicago was due partly to a sudden shift of the wind to northwest, which carried the flames toward the dam and away from the many buildings of the Gilbert and Bennett group.

Supt. S J Miller said last night that the buildings of the Gilbert and Bennett company covered six or seven acres. He said he thought the fire started in the basement of mill No. 2, but he could not state the cause. A big brick fire wall to the south figured in the saving of the plant as well as the shift in the wind.

The burned building was a two story structure, 150 by 50 feet and was totally destroyed. About one hundred men were employed in it and it was used as a wire drawing establishment. The loss is covered by insurance.

CAPTAIN KERR

COMPLAINS OF ACTION OF NEW YORK POLICEMEN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Captain E. F. Kerr, commanding H. M. S. Drake, flagship of Prince Louis of Battenberg, today sent a letter to Police Commissioner McAdoo complaining of the conduct of policemen on board the ship since she has been alongside the Cunard wharf. Captain Kerr declares that after the ball given by Prince Louis Tuesday night the policemen who had come on board during the function, could not be induced to leave. He declares they had been drinking and by their noisy conduct kept officers and crew awake long after 4 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Commissioner McAdoo sent a police captain to the Drake late yesterday to take testimony against the offending policemen.

$2000 VERDICT

Passenger Was Assaulted by Captain

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—A verdict for $2060 in favor of John J. Lally, a structural worker of this city, against the Joy Steamship company for assault and battery and false imprisonment of the plaintiff on board the steamer Edgemont, was reported today in the United States circuit court.

Lally was a passenger on the steamer. He alleged that while the steamer was passing through Long Island Sound the captain of the steamer accosted him, knocked him down, causing injuries, and then locked him in a stateroom for nine hours. The company denied responsibility and claimed that the plaintiff was imprisoned because he was disorderly.

OFFER HIM $1000

License Board Asks Bartlett for Proofs

BOSTON, Nov. 17—Messrs. Harry B. Hammond and Peter A. O'Brien, license commissioners for Chelsea, yesterday afternoon issued a statement, in which they offer to pay $1000 to Justin D. Bartlett or any person to produce for each of checks "paid to a member of the license commission by two liquor dealers of the city over and above the amount paid for Licenses" or for "any part that we, directly or indirectly, ever received checks or money from any liquor interest paid by liquor dealers as a personal consideration for the granting of their Licenses."

This statement was made in answer to a statement made by Mr. Bartlett, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor of Chelsea, to the effect that he has in his possession facsimiles of checks paid to a license commissioner over and above the amount paid for Licenses.

Mr. Bartlett's information was that these alleged checks were paid to improperly influence the license commissioners. Mr. Bartlett however, did not exhibit the facsimiles, he did not tell the names of the alleged payers, nor does he state the amount of the alleged checks.

The license commissioners personally made an effort to see Mr. Bartlett yesterday and demand that he show them the facsimiles. They were unable to find him at his place of business in Chelsea, and a newspaper man who tried to make an engagement with Mr. Bartlett with reference to the matter was unable to do so.

Last night Mr. Bartlett issued a statement in which he said he would show the facsimiles he claims to have, if any one will post a certified check for $1000, to be paid to him according to the statements of the license commissioners. Mr. Bartlett adds that the man to whom he alleges the checks were given is not Mr. O'Brien.

The license commissioners say that they don't know what Mr. Bartlett means unless he may refer to checks given to Mr. Dunbar, who is a merchant tailor, and among whose customers are included some men who are in the liquor business in Chelsea.

Mr. Bartlett's refusal to be made specific in his charges has made the affair only of mild interest to Chelsea people generally, and little comment is heard on the matter.

Mr. Bartlett yesterday applied for a bill in equity to enforce his right to the use of the Walnut street synagogue Sunday afternoon, against a claim made by Mayor Willard's friends to the use of the hall the same afternoon. It appears that both sides claim to have hired the hall. The matter will be heard in the equity court this morning.

FOOTBALL NOTES

The Bunting football association will have at it with the Textile school team tomorrow afternoon. The ball will be kicked off at two o'clock sharp. Both teams are in fine form and it is expected that it will be one of the best games of the season. The team for the Buntings is as follows: Goal, Thomas O'Loughlin; right full back, J. Halligan; left full back, Greenhalge; centre, R. Boyle; right half back, J. Yare; left half back, J. Pearson; forwards, right outside, S. Hoslam; left outside, H. Greenhalge; right inside, H. Kaye; left inside, W. Yare. Reserves, Samuel Bert, Hugh Rudden, Arthur Simpson.

This will be the first game played by the Textile school boys, but they will do their best to score a victory. Several of the school players never saw an association game until they went into practice. The school team will be chosen from the following players: H. Schwartz, B. Holgate, A. Ferguson, J. Coleman, Raymond, MacDonald, Cheney, Walker, Robertson, Thompson, Woodruff, A. Willie, S. Smith, J. Wilmott, T. Nelson, W. Nelson, A. Stewart Woods, Church and A. N. Other. The team is trying to arrange two games with the Harvard association team, one on Soldier field and one on the school campus. Games may also be arranged with the Lynn High association team and other teams in the district.

CHANGE IN LAW

Relative to Assessment of Polls

The New Bedford board of assessors has drafted an amendment to chapter 11 section 19, R. L. relative to the assessment of poll taxes. The amendment will be introduced in the next legislature by Senator Bullock, and copies will be sent to the representatives and their support of the measure requested. Other copies will be sent to assessors throughout the state.

The statute at present reads as follows:

"Section 19. If a male person resident in a city or town on the first day of May was not assessed for a poll tax, he shall, in order to establish his right to assessment, present to the assessors before the close of registration, a statement under oath that he was on said day a resident of such city or town and liable to pay a poll tax therein, and a list under oath of his polls and estate and shall also produce before the assessors two witnesses who shall testify underneath that they are voters of the ward or town in which such person declares to be a resident and that the statement of the applicant is true."

It is proposed that the foregoing section be amended as follows.

"Section 19 of chapter 11 of the revised laws of Massachusetts is hereby amended by striking out all of the first paragraph of said section after the word 'therein,' in the fifth line, to and including the word 'true,' in the ninth line thereof, so that the said section shall read as follows:

"Section 19. If a male person resident in a city or town on the first day of May was not assessed for a poll tax he shall, in order to establish his right to assessment, present to the assessors a statement under oath that he was on said day a resident of such city or town, and liable to pay a poll tax therein."

It is the opinion of many assessors that the requirements of the above section of chapter 11 of the revised laws relating to the assessment of poll taxes imposes a hardship on those persons whose names have inadvertently been left off the list of assessed persons, inasmuch as such persons are often personally known to the assessors as liable to a poll tax, and it should be sufficient evidence of a person's right to be assessed if he is so known, or if he makes oath to a statement before one of the assessors and submits to be questioned as to his residence, and, making satisfactory answers, it should be within the power of the assessors to make an assessment without requiring further evidence.

The portion of the statute which is particularly odious is the part requiring a citizen to have two witnesses accompany him to the assessors' office and swear to the truth of his statement, as this requirement necessarily cumbers the process of making assessments and interferes with the proper dispatch of business in the assessors' department, and unnecessarily reflects on the honesty of purpose of the citizen who seeks an assessment.

SAIMAN SIRK

Has Bought More Land in Boston

Saiman Sirk has purchased a number of parcels in Boston. In one transaction John P. Webber is the grantor, while in another the grantor is the John A. Lowell estate.

The property owned by John P. Webber conveyed to Mr. Sirk, comprises the brick building and 987 square feet of land, numbered 93 Leverett street, taxed for $9500. Of this amount the land is taxed for $3700. The price was $11,500.

Another estate transferred from Mr. Webber to Mr. Sirk is that at 37 Norman street, near Green, west end, consisting of a brick house and 790 square feet of land, the total taxed value being $6500. Of this amount the land is taxed for $3000. The price was $8000.

The brick house and 1400 square feet of land numbered 26 Poplar street, west end, is another parcel included in the conveyance. This estate has a taxed value of $9600, and was purchased by Mr. Sirk for $10,500. The land is taxed for $3100.

The three-story brick house standing on 1225 square feet of land, numbered 17 Lyman street, west end, having a taxed value of $10,000, has been transferred to Mr. Sirk by Mr. Webber, the consideration being $9500. The assessors value the land at $4000. The location is near Causeway street.

In Roxbury the parcel transferred from John P. Webber to Saiman Sirk is numbered 15 to 17 Southwood street, near the corner of Edgewood street, there being two octagon front brick houses and 2597 square feet of land, the whole assessed for $7000. The land has a taxed value of $1000.

LOWELL LODGE, K. P.

A ladies' night was held by Lowell lodge, Knights of Pythias, in Pythian hall last night and there were several hundred members and their friends present. The business meeting was postponed until the next regular meeting and a fine musical and literary program was carried out during the evening. James E. Donnelly sang "Down the Vale." Following him came Miss Eva Lord, who sang "What You Goin' to Do When the Rent Comes 'Round?" and "Under the Old Oak Tree." Miss Inez George pleased with "My Irish Molly O" and responded to an encore, singing "A Japanese Love Song." John McLaren gave several vocal selections. The accompanists were Robert E. Fay and E. D. B. Smith. Readings were given by Mr. John Usher and Miss Jane Usher, the former giving "The Soldier's Pardon" and the latter "The Two Fires."

Light refreshments were served. The committee having the pleasant affair in charge consisted of the following named: S. A. McPhetres, chairman; E. M. Earle, secretary, and George Swallow, G. F. Swann, John Usher, Sidney Blowen, Thomas Blair and William Jelly.

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

WHAT IS MOST NEEDED

In order to make our city prosperous we want a greater diversity of industries; we want industries that pay higher wages than do the cotton mills; and to induce such industries to locate here, we should offer the most liberal terms in regard to sites, buildings and railroad facilities.

Too long has the prosperity of our city been linked with that of the cotton mills. Now that we are a city of about 100,000 inhabitants with unrivalled facilities and resources for manufacturing industries of every description, we should bend our efforts to the establishment of new lines of industry so that a depression or a temporary shutdown of the cotton mills may not be regarded in the nature of a calamity.

In regard to new industries let it be remembered that enterprise and public spirit are needed on the part of our own citizens. If we cannot induce a sufficient number of new industries to come here, let us establish new industries for ourselves. Do not mind if the beginnings be small; some of the best industries in Lowell today arose from small beginnings.

Perhaps Mr. O'Brien could bring up some other city committee fight with a long list of witnesses. There are a good many who would like to draw the witness fees.

The president has evidently been cautioned by the bosses, including Lodge, not to give the Massachusetts lobbers any encouragement. The tariff and tariff revision schism is rending the party here in the east. Something must be done.

The contest for the mayoralty nomination on both sides is carried on in this city in a more diversion compared to the exciting warfare waged in Boston. It will be interesting to see what effect the struggle will have on the democratic vote in Boston on election day.

The navy department is to court-martial a middy for alleged manslaughter, for having killed a comrade in a boxing bout. Since the department has allowed prize fighting on board its ships, we do not see how it can logically punish a man if in a friendly bout he struck a fatal blow.

We have heard of men being mistaken for deer in the woods of Maine but out at Westford the other day a sharp eyed gunner mistook a man for a rabbit and filled his body with shot. Don't be surprised if men are taken for monkeys by some of our expert gunners.

MAYOR LYNCH IN DEFEAT.

Here is part of a glowing tribute which the Lawrence Telegram pays to Mayor Lynch, who has just been defeated for the nomination for a third term:

"A clean man, a model husband and father; a man against whom no stain can be found—surely Lawrence needs such men as this—needs them in society, in the church, needs them in business, and though they may not always find appreciation in political circles, the fact remains that the body politic needs them quite as much as the business interests.

"Citizen Lynch will be able to walk out of city hall after inauguration next year able to look every man in the face, conscious of duty well performed and every crisis bravely met."

The Telegram, be it remembered, is a republican paper and Mayor Lynch is a democrat.

RICH GIFTS TO SPRINGFIELD.

The city of Springfield has had a blast of good luck which has brought it gifts for public purposes aggregating $1,500,000. One of the gifts is from the iron master, Andrew Carnegie, who is haunted by a mortal fear of dying rich. He gave $150,000 for a public library which no doubt will be a great boon for the Garden city. The other gifts were from residents of Springfield and include a legacy of about $500,000 from the James P. Gray estate for the collection of paintings planned to be added to the public library. A legacy of nearly equal amount from the E. M. Walter estate for the Springfield hospital, library and Forest park; and David B. Wesson's gifts of two hospitals which taken together will cost over $500,000.

The million dollar gifts of two legacies are not to be immediately available, being subject to the life use of personal heirs, but payment is assured so that the city can look forward to the use of them at an early day.

The latest gift of Mr. Wesson is a maternity hospital, announced last week. Fortunate Springfield, fortunate in her citizens, fortunate in her lot. Such public spirit is rare. Lowell needs not a library for she has a good one, but she does need a city hospital. We have hospitals, good hospitals, one of which reflects the benevolence of Frederick Fanning Ayer, and another the charitable efforts of sisters of charity; while a third is maintained by the corporations for the benefit of their employes sick or injured, but none of these answers the purpose of a city hospital.

Again we proclaim it from the house-tops, as it were, that there is a great opportunity for some wealthy citizen to distinguish himself and immortalize his name by donating to the city of Lowell, sufficient money to build a city hospital. The philanthropic gifts by Mr. Ayer and Mr. Buttrick have been made in behalf of a religious denomination, not for the citizens at large. What we want now is a gift for the public at large, for all classes of sufferers, for humanity. That is the kind of gifts that have been made to Springfield. While we do not disparage the gifts to denominations, we do say that Lowell has been singularly unfortunate in the lack of public spirit that provides for the entire people without distinction of class, color or creed. We are not pessimistic as to her future fate, her luck or her destiny. We believe the time is at hand when she will boast a splendid city hospital as she now boasts a beautiful library. If any wealthy resident wishes to immortalize his or her name by such a philanthropic work, here is the opportunity.

Fifteen dollars will procure for you here a splendid suit and save you five dollars on your purchase. McCRILLIS CASE

Called for Trial for the Third Time

LAWRENCE, Nov. 17—For the third time the suits for alleged libel of Russell F. McCrillis, former United States internal revenue collector, against the Boston Herald and the Boston Post for comment in each being placed at $5,000, came to trial in the superior court, Judge Charles A. DeCourcy presided.

Following the presentation of his claims of "false and malicious libel" Daniel N. Crowley, who, with ex-congressman W. S. Knox, represents the plaintiff, announced that the prosecution would rest its case, this meaning that McCrillis, who testified at the two previous hearings, had decided not to take the stand in his own behalf.

The suits are the outgrowth of articles published in connection with the dismissal of McCrillis from the collectorship by Collector Gill in the fall of 1902.

Answering the declaration of the plaintiff, the defendants claim that the accounts were published in the course of business, without malice, and were based on the statement of an administrative officer. They further assert that the articles "were and are true."

Mr. Crowley said: "These are two actions for libel, and the defendants claim that the accounts were published in the course of business, without malice, and were based on the statement of an administrative officer." They further assert that the articles "were and are true."

Two Questions That Answer Themselves

You are probably looking for a chance to save a dollar. If so, read the following questions (which by the way question No. 1 is an answer for question No. 2, and question No. 2 is an answer for question No. 1 by exchanging the word why for because) and then go straight to Cooper's New Cosy Cloak Store, 36 John street, where money can be saved on Cloaks, Suits, Waists, Furs, etc.

The Questions

Why Cooper moved from Merrimack Street to John Street?

Why Cooper sells at lower prices on John Street than he did on Merrimack?

GLOOMY OUTLOOK

For Count Witte in Pacifying Strikers

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17—7 p. m. The outlook for an early collapse of the strike is more gloomy today. The situation is directly more menacing. The council of workmen's delegates or strike committee, now numbering one connected by the extension of the strike in St. Petersburg, various organizations, including the bank clerks, telephone girls and some of the professional leagues having voted to join in the movement. Moreover it is certain that the workmen's council have received mysterious supplies of funds and consequently they present a bolder front.

Practically all the pretexts based on economic demands have been abandoned although the eight-hour day figures in the speeches at meetings in order to hold the workmen, who have no thought except improvement in their material condition.

The workmen's council returned a scornful reply to Count Witte's personal appeal to his "brother workmen" upbraiding the government's profession of solicitude for the workmen and renewing their demands for the immediate abolition of martial law in Poland, etc.

Count Witte's attempt to negotiate directly with the strike leaders has come to naught although he offered concessions in the case of the "compact majorities." In the event of their being condemned to death. But the

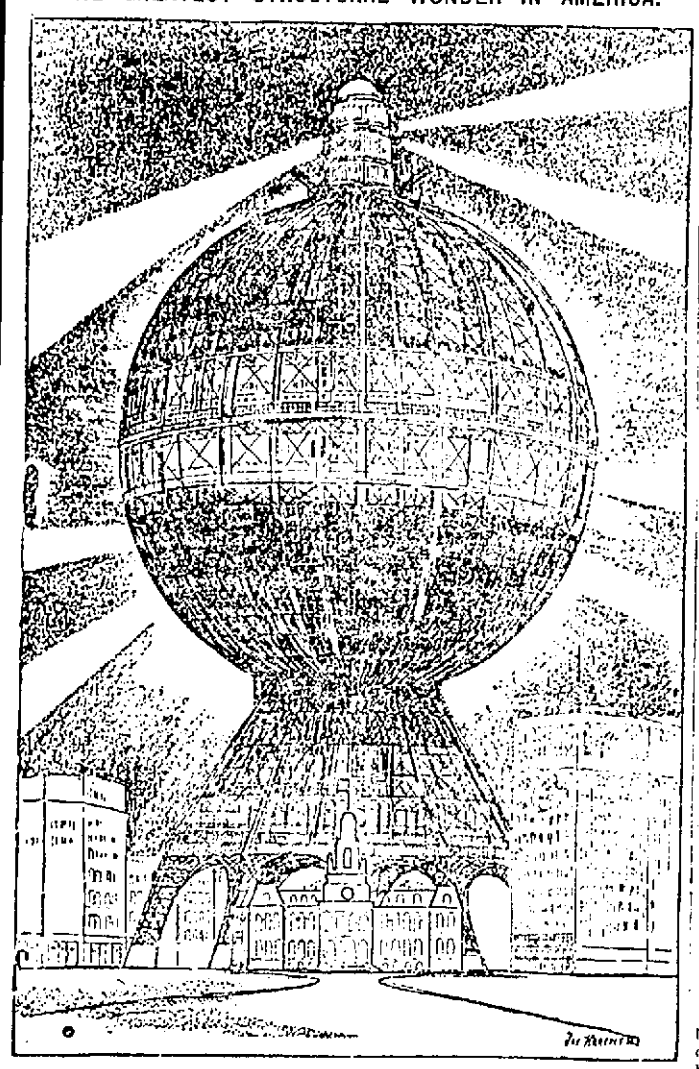
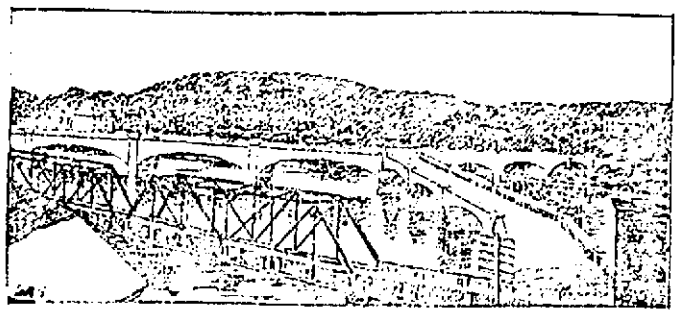
190-192 MIDDLESEX STREET

THE GREATEST STRUCTURAL WONDER IN AMERICA.



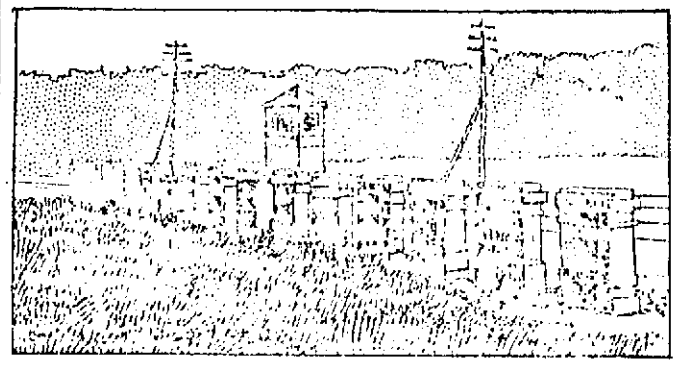
The curious structure shown in the picture will be built at Coney Island, New York's famous seaside resort, at a cost of about $1,000,000. It consists of an immense steel globe 700 feet in height and 350 feet in diameter, which will stand on legs as tall as an ordinary skyscraper. This great sphere will resemble a huge ball suspended in midair and within it 25,000 persons may be entertained at once. Eight electric elevators will convey passengers to the top, and the entire interior will be devoted to amusement purposes. The observation tower at the top of the globe will accommodate 2,000 persons at one time.

A UNIQUE BRIDGE OVER TWO RIVERS.



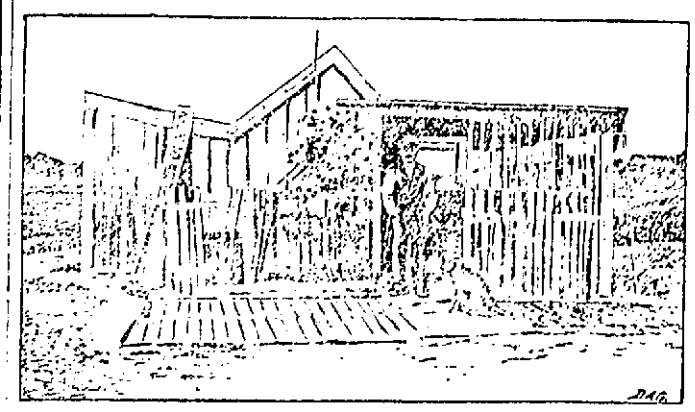
The curious W shaped bridge shown in the cut is at Zanesville, O., and is a structure of three arms, joining in the center and affording a means of transit over the Muskingum and Licking rivers. The bridge is of steel and concrete and cost $250,000. The entire structure comprises eight spans, with a total length of 1,000 feet. The east arm is 450 feet, the north arm 300 and the west arm 180. The bridge is as ornamental as it is substantial.

NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD GRANITE TEST BLOCKS.



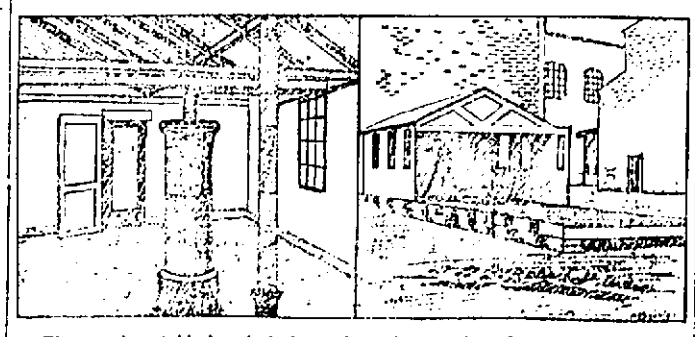
The row of granite blocks herewith illustrated has the appearance of a line of tombstones, and travelers passing rapidly on the cars of the adjacent railroad have often mistaken them for such. There are fifteen of them standing in a precise line, and all of them are of similar dimensions. Although they look funereal, they are in reality only samples of the various kinds of granite from which the officials of the railroad are to select the one most suitable for their buildings in future. They were put in their present form by the various dealers in granite and are in competition.

HOUSE OF A LONG ISLAND HERMIT.



The odd structure shown in the picture is the habitation of Charles Modler, an eccentric German who has lived for several years on a narrow stretch of land reaching out into Gardiner's bay, Long Island sound. No other human being lives in the vicinity, the spot being nine miles from a settlement by land and half that distance by water. The hermit appears occasionally in the nearest village and obtains a few supplies and then returns to his solitary home. It is a wild region in winter time, and Modler has rescued several persons who were driven ashore by the storm. His only company is an especially intelligent dog, and the pair form a sort of life saving crew.

FOUNDATION AND INTERIOR OF A HOSPITAL IN MANCHURIA



The novel portable hospital shown herewith was introduced by the Russian Red Cross service into Manchuria just before the close of the recent war. It was made of wood cut into thin strips and joined together with the grain the opposite way. These boards are put together with a waterproof composition and are protected against the weather by mineral paint. This kind of structure may be carried in sections and set up in a few minutes. A collapsible barrack for surgical operations has also been devised from the same material, and it has met with the approval of all who have examined it.

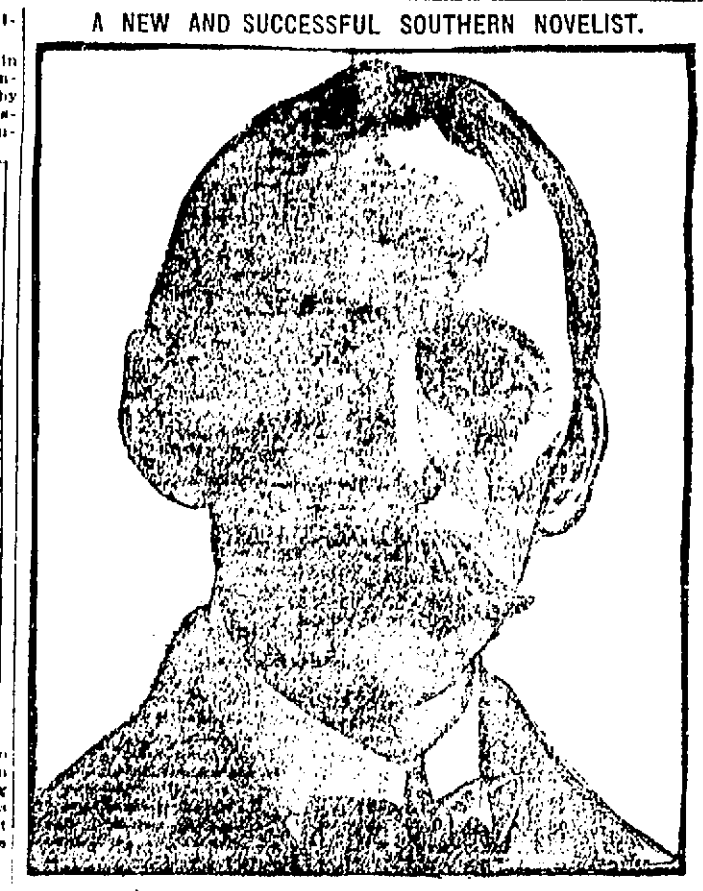
CHARLES DICKENS' OLD CURIOSITY SHOP.

The quaint old structure shown in the cut is the veritable shop near Lincoln's Inn Fields made famous by Charles Dickens in his immortal masterpiece. It is now owned and occupied by a dealer in waste paper, who is also sufficiently enterprising to turn an extra honest penny by retailing various Dickens souvenirs. The shop is visited by many Dickens lovers, and it is a fact that the majority of them are Americans.

CHANGES IN NILE VALLEY.

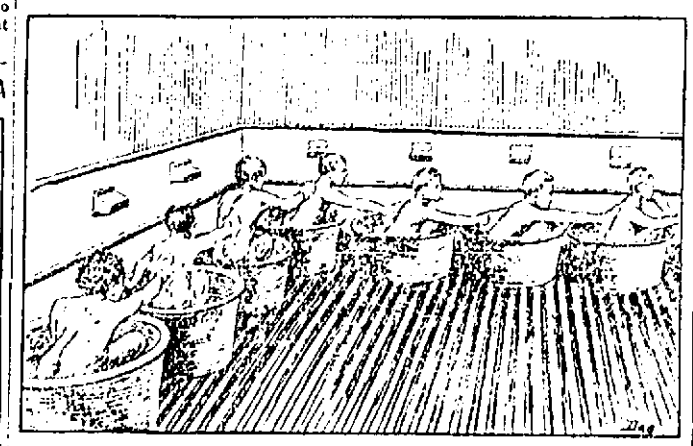
The Nile valley in Egypt has experienced remarkable climatic changes since the completion by the British of the great Assouan irrigation system, and there have been electrical storms of a character hitherto unknown to the country, during one of which the Khephren pyramid was struck by lightning, an occurrence that has never before been recorded.

A NEW AND SUCCESSFUL SOUTHERN NOVELIST.



Theodore D. Jervey is the author of a novel recently published, "The Elder Brother," which has received more attention from the critics than any other work of fiction produced by a new writer during the present year. It deals with life in South Carolina in reconstruction times and is universally admitted to be a vivid and accurate picture of affairs as they existed in that historic period. The author was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1859, and at the present time he is recorder of that city. Judge Jervey is an alumnus of the Virginia Military Institute and was admitted to the South Carolina bar two years after graduation. He has also been connected with daily journalism as an editorial writer and wields a vigorous and trenchant pen. Judge Jervey's novel has made a decided impression on the literary world.

A BATHROOM IN A SWEDISH PUBLIC SCHOOL.



The scene depicted in the cut may be witnessed on any school day in any one of the public schools of Stockholm. Three days of the week are assigned to the boys and the remainder of the time to the girls, and every pupil's turn comes once in two or three weeks. Ten to twenty baths at the same time, and it is practically a continuous performance. It has been found to be markedly conducive to health. It will be seen that each pupil scrubs the pupil in front of him.

OLDEST RAILWAY STATION IN ENGLAND.

The thatched two roomed cottage shown in the cut was used as the first railway station in England. It was at the terminus of a line which was opened seventy-three years ago between Bodmin and Wadebridge. The rolling stock of that railway consisted of two engines and three passenger coaches. When travel was heavy, cars used for hauling sand and iron ore were provided with seats and pressed into service.

There are more tunnels, viaducts and railway bridges in Switzerland than in any other country in Europe.

Kate Clyde

THINKS THAT HUSBANDS AND WIVES SHOULD NOT CONFIDE THEIR SECRETS TO EACH OTHER—THE "GOOD MOTHERS" WHO OFTEN DO MUCH TO INJURE THEIR CHILDREN'S HEALTH AND PROSPECTS

IT'S no wonder that most men prefer not to tell their business affairs to their wives. You wouldn't catch me doing it if I were a man. Business and love are two things that ought to be kept apart, and woe to the unfortunate man who does not recognize this truth!

A man is better fitted to stand business worries than a woman. For one thing, he knows what he is talking about. "Half the time when you talk business even to an intelligent woman she is putting up a bluff at understanding two-thirds of what you say," I heard one man say recently.

I think he was about right too. The one thing a woman understands is the possibility of a 10 per cent profit. When her husband has a 10 per cent loss she simply doesn't see why it happened.

An old friend was telling me of a recent railway deal which he engineered. "Why, do you know that when X threw me down, for a week I was almost frantic. I stood to lose just $ ... , and all the ready money I could scrape together at a pinch amounted to $ ... ," he said. "Eventually I managed to get together my very good friends, and we holed out. But, goodness, what if I hadn't!"—his face was expressive.

I remembered the week in question. It had been an unusually gay one socially for him and his wife.

What, Indeed?

"What would she have done had she known!" I gasped.

"Done? Either gone crazy and given out my secret to the world or else, dazzled with my being able to lose such a sum, she would have opened up a charge account at Chalems & Buyems that would have made my hair curl!"

"I used to lose fat along—if she has one."

And things work even worse when a wife tells her husband of her financial success—if she has any—and of how well her business is getting along—if she has one.

Just about that time "hubby" thinks of taking a rest or of sending some money home to relatives who "toil not, neither do they spin," and yet expect all of the good things going through the kindness of others.

"What a lovely lecture!" sighed the woman next to me as we filed out of our seats.

The subject of the lecture had been how wives and husbands may go through life hand in hand, sharing even each other's very thoughts.

"Humph!" remarked the practical married woman who had accompanied me. "Very delicate lecture, too, a 'dream of ladies' lingerie;' very sweet and appropriate for ladies and all that sort of thing, but don't talk to me about telling your husband everything. Why, last fall the very day after I told John so gleefully that I had sold the rights of my new serial to the Scribbler company he celebrated by sending his seven nephews and nieces to the St. Louis exposition at his expense, and until way into December, whenever I asked him for clothes money, he always answered, 'I'm a little short now, my dear, but you have that Scribbler money.' Finally, in despair, I actually had to prove that I had spent it before I could get anything more out of him. The next time I make money I am going to tie my head up in crape and weep all over the place, swearing that I have lost a twenty dollar bill and that there isn't a cent left in the house to buy groceries with."

"I'm a little short now, my dear."

Character and Appetite.

What great man once said he had no use for men with small appetites?

I can't seem to remember, but the sentiment is all right even as applied to women.

Show me a woman with a fine healthy appreciation of her meals and she is apt to be a good housekeeper with a well stocked larder and a hospitable way with her.

Your mean spirited, narrow minded creature picks at her food and is "cranky" about what she eats.

"When you consider how little women are trained to be good home makers and mothers it is a wonder they ever succeed at either of these two important callings," remarked an old doctor recently.

But I am not struck with wonder at the miracle. When I look at most of the mothers I know I don't see any results different from those which come from plain ignorance.

Not one woman in a hundred knows how to be a good mother to her child, and yet most mothers are fond of reminding their children at some time or other what good mothers they have been.

Show me an irritable, nervous child and I will find its mother to be a woman who has shrieked and yelled her orders at it in order to be obeyed. There is just such a woman in the apartment next to ours, and all you can hear day in and day out are the shrill tones of the woman and the angry, peevish wailing of the child.

Show me a poor child or a grown man whose stomach is the raveling home of dyspepsia and I will point out its mother, a silly woman who allowed her child to bring itself up and to eat candy or food at all hours. Show me a boy who does not concentrate his mind on his future, who has no ambition, and I will show you a mother who is a bad manager and leaves her own affairs to Providence. Show me a man who has made a failure of life up to the point where most men are settled and I will show you a mother who prayed for a wandering boy instead of taking an intelligent interest in her son's future and guiding his steps to the path where his natural abilities would become his success.

Mothers and Mothers.

Oh, the ... of "good mothers," the ... who ... down their children's lives, the gentle, sweet faced women who play at saintliness and allow, through neglect and lack of common sense, their children's health to be undermined and their future to be neglected! The world is full of them, and they do a great deal more harm even than bad mothers, because of their sublime belief in their own perfection and the fact that they receive false consideration from their own children and from other people who cannot see beneath the surface.

She shrieked and yelled her orders.

Give me the mother who is not too good to be practical or too unworldly for her sons and daughters to confide their trials to her and be sure of sympathy and understanding. Give me the woman who can be more than a mere mother to her children, who can train their minds and character as well as their bodies, who can insure their bodily and mental health and set their feet on the right path to success and happiness in life.

CHIFFON TAFFETA AFTERNOON COSTUME.

LEST WE BE VAIN.

Home truths are sometimes wholesome, and, therefore, it may not be amiss to consider the unflattering sayings about women current in various countries.

An old English saying is: "If a man lose a woman and a farthing, he will be sorry he lost the farthing."

A Scottish one: "The next best thing to no wife is a good wife."

The German: "There are only two good women in the world—one is dead, and the other can't be found."

The Spanish rhyme has it: "Were a woman as little as she is good, a pea pod would make her a gown and a hood."

A French adage: "A man of straw is worth a woman of gold."

The Arabian says: "Words are women; deeds are men."

The Persian declares: "Women and dragons are best out of the world."

TOO MUCH LUXURY HARMFUL FOR GIRLS.

COLLEGE girls' expenses have doubled in recent years. More and more it seems impossible for the gifted poor girl, the one who would profit more than almost any other from a college education, to obtain it.

If the items of increased expense are examined they are found to be in the line of increased luxury of living. It is said costly paraphernalia and varied is now necessary to the really refined all round education of a young lady.

Well, perhaps. But, apropos of luxury for college students, there has lately been published an account of the life led by college students among that marvelous people, the Japanese. Baron Suyematsu tells the story of his own college days. He and his schoolmates ate only two meals a day, the food served being of the simplest kind. Sometimes it was only rice and a little salt. What is more, the students took turns in doing their own cooking. They swept and scrubbed their own rooms and those of their teachers. In the depth of winter they frequently used cold water to wash in because this was thought to harden them. The baron writes:

"We sometimes sat up whole nights in winter with scarcely any fire to warm us, in order to accustom ourselves to rigid discipline. It is no doubt due to the training of those days that I, personally, for instance, cannot bear the trouble of appearing like a grandee or fashionable person. Thus, for example, I, who never used gloves in my boyhood, cannot endure the discomfort of wearing them, even on winter days."

Scarcely less rigorous is the physical training to which young girls are subjected among the people who were able to whip Russia. Simplicity of diet, hard beds, a moderate quantity of simple food, a system of physical education which keeps down fat and develops every beautiful muscle in the body constitute the regimen imposed upon the little dark eyed girls who are to be the mothers of Japan's heroes. It is not uncommon for Jap girls even to learn jiu jitsu. An incident occurred a short time ago in New York city which proves this. It is an incident that might open the eyes of the mothers and teachers of girls throughout this nation.

A pretty, modest Jap girl was passing along a New York street. One of those execrable toughs who think they can insult any girl with impunity, especially if she is of foreign birth, lumbered up and laid his hand on the little Jap girl's shoulder. At the police court trial, which resulted from this rash action, it came out that the tough was a prize fighter. He was six feet tall and weighed some 200 pounds. But before he could wink an eye that prize fighter found himself lying sprawled full length upon the sidewalk. The tiny Jap girl had knocked him down. He jumped up and made toward her like an enraged bull. Again before the big brute could wink an eye that tiny, soft faced girl had landed him on the sidewalk, and this time she kneeled upon his chest and pinned him there.

How the crowd that had gathered by that time did cheer the splendid little brown girl! She had learned jiu jitsu in her own land.

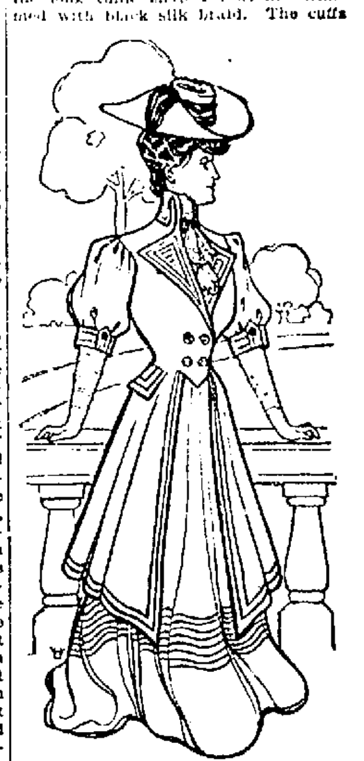
Do you think the American college girl could have done that? What we gain in luxury we lose in physique.

Luxurious living ate out the heart of ancient Rome, and it will do the same for any modern nation. It saps both morality and physical power and its dangers threaten America today. The girl who would achieve must put aside alike luxury and laziness and lead the simplest, most active and robust life. There is no other way.

MARY GOULD LYTLE.

A SMART WINTER GOWN.

The smart gown illustrated is of Burgundy cloth. Both the skirt and the long tunic shaped coat are trimmed with black silk braid. The cuffs and revers are of white cloth braided in silver. The coat fastens in double breasted fashion with four handsome silver buttons.



BETTER A SMILE THAN A SIGH.

Better a smile than a sigh, dear;
Better a kiss than a frown;
Better a look toward the sky, dear,
Than always be looking down.

Better in time of trouble
A song of hope and cheer
Than a heart that broods o'er sorrow
And makes the sorrow dear.

The joys we find today, dear,
Perhaps seem poor and small,
But better a little sun, dear,
Than to have no sun at all.

So look in my face and smile, dear,
And sing a cheerful song;
It never is worth our while, dear,
To help life's worries along.

Women Preachers and Pastors

WOMEN preachers there have been for centuries. Two hundred and seventy years ago Anne Hutchinson, in Boston, began holding meetings among women of the Puritan church of which she was a member, proclaiming to these sisters that the Holy Spirit dwells in every true believer and can and will guide those who have real faith and conscience. Mother Ann Lee founded the Shaker sect. Among the Friends, or Quakers, women have always preached. Gentle, sweet faced Lucretia Mott, the Quaker preacher, was one of the first in America to wake up her sex on the woman question.

Something more than forty years ago women began to be regularly ordained as ministers in this country, to solemnize marriages and perform the other functions of clergymen. Among the earlier feminine ministers yet living are Revs. Phebe Hanaford and Olympia Brown. These two were both ordained by the Universalist church, which, with the Unitarian and "Christian" denominations, early recognized woman's right officially to bear the spiritual message to mankind.

REV. GERTRUDE VON PETZOLD.

In 1874, also as a Universalist minister, was ordained Rev. Ada Chastina Bowles, a beautiful, magnetic woman who won all hearts by her sweetness and eloquence. She was born in Massachusetts and among her ancestors were the Choates. By the sea she lived in her youth and learned to swim like a mermaid, to use carpenter tools and to do housework perfectly as well. She also made such good use of the public schools of Gloucester, Mass., her home, that at fifteen years of age she began a career as teacher. Later she was married to Rev. B. F. Bowles, a Universalist pastor of Melrose, Mass. It was at his request that Mrs. Bowles studied for the ministry. She was pastor of a church in Philadelphia for a time, afterward of one in Easton, Pa.

She bade farewell to the Easton congregation to organize a church of her own in Trenton, N. J. While in charge of these various churches she was also engaged in the philanthropic and reform work which somehow naturally appeals to all earnest ministers of the Christian religion. She was among other things a lecturer for the W. C. T. U. and also for the National Woman Suffrage association.

Many more women in America have been ordained to preach than have made a life work of their profession. Not a few have started out under the most favorable auspices, had congregations of their own for perhaps half a dozen years, then abandoned active pastoral work. This giving up of the preacher's profession is much more common among women than among men pastors; why, it is hard to say. A few women preachers have found their work, likewise their ideas, broadening out beyond the limits of a single parish and have given up their individual pastorates to enter a larger field.

Then, too, numbers have married and naturally found their domestic cares incompatible with the care of a congregation. Some have been proud to advertise their skill in housekeeping and have vaunted themselves of their domestic life, wherefore they have fallen between two stools. No woman any more than man can serve two masters. The main effort of one life must be consecrated to one purpose.

Still there are many women preachers who preach; pastors who through thick and thin have remained faithful to their calling and have deemed it holy. It is to be noted that among these women preachers who have the noble gift of "hang on" are the leaders of several of the spiritualist societies. One of these is Mrs. Helen Brigham, known familiarly to her friends as "Nellie." Mrs. Brigham is now pastor of a spiritualist society in New York city. She does not have to prepare her sermons beforehand, for they come to her of themselves when she rises to speak. For more than a quarter century Mrs. Brigham has been speaking to spiritualist congregations. Another pastor of a spiritualist society in New York city is Margaret Gaule, highly esteemed by her congregation.

In Chicago Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond has been pastor of a religious society for nearly thirty years. Some of her discourses expound a philosophy not unlike the teachings of Swedenborg. Once in a sermon on the spiritual significance of the natural attraction between the sexes she said that the soul began its evolution in matter as a spiritual unit. This unit was divided into halves and each half sent out separately to gain experience on its own account. Thus the complete soul's evolution could be hastened. Sometimes in the earth life the two halves meet, then there is a comparatively happy marriage, provided one of the other half is not already wedded to some third party's half. At the end of all earthly existence the twain come together permanently as one and are happy ever after. Here is surely comfort for those who believe in soul mates.

Lately a friend who had not seen Mrs. Richmond in many years said to her, "You don't grow a bit older." The answer was:

"Oh, no! I don't let myself grow old."

The religious denomination known distinctively as "Christian" was among the first to admit properly qualified women to its pulpits as ordained preachers. The youngest woman pastor in America, a girl only eighteen years old, belongs to this sect. She is Rev. Myrtle B. Parke of Ramsey, Ill. She prepared for the ministry at Eureka college. She is girlish looking, but very much in earnest. She preached in the Ramsey church some time ago, but left it to attend Eureka college. Immediately after coming out of school she received the call to the Ramsey pulpit.

It is said that with scores of ordained women preachers in America, in all Europe and Great Britain there is only one, Rev. Gertrude von Petzold. Miss von Petzold is one of the most highly educated pastors in all Europe however. She spent some nine years studying for the ministry. She is an M. A. of Edinburgh and a graduate of the theological course of Manchester college, Oxford, studying also a considerable time in Germany. From her childhood Miss von Petzold was so devout and saintly in her life and so eloquent and persuasive in her Sunday school talks that even in conservative England she was urged to study for the ministry. She is pastor of a Unitarian church in Leicester, England. It raised something of a stir in the kingdom when recently Miss von Petzold performed her first marriage service. She has a rare, sweet face, with a mouth that turns up at the corners. In her first sermon at the Leicester church she said:

"Look at the world around you! Look at the men and women selling their souls for pleasure, for money, ever ready to take advantage of one another, to make the best of a worldly bargain, in their spare moments giving themselves up to their passions, degrading themselves body and soul."

In most of the Protestant denominations, notably the Methodist Episcopal, women serve as evangelists, promoting revivals, which they do with zeal. In this work they seem peculiarly gifted. One young Methodist woman who is singularly successful as an evangelist is Miss Ruth Warren. She turned her back upon a business career of brilliant promise, also upon the career of marriage, to enter on the lowly, hard working life of the Methodist deaconess in slum settlements. But she developed a speaking gift of rare power and persuasiveness, so consecrated herself to preaching to the multitude, who listen to her joyfully.

CHARLOTTE VAN BECK.

CONSUELO, DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

The girlish Consuelo Vanderbilt who, in 1895, when not yet out of her teens, was married to the young Duke of Marlborough, has developed into a fine, stately woman. She is much handsomer than she was as a girl. Americans are fond of Consuelo and glad to know she still cherishes her native land, frequently visiting it. Her trip to America the present autumn was partly for the purpose of attending the wedding of her cousin, Miss Webb, to Ralph Pulitzer. The duchess has two young sons, the elder and heir to the Marlborough title being the Marquis of Blandford.

THE EFFECT OF COLD BATHING.

The first contact of cold water with the body causes a sharp contraction of the blood vessels of the skin, as shown by the pallor of the surface, but as soon as one leaves the bath the arteries dilate, the skin becomes pink and a warm glow is felt that amply compensates one for the disagreeable shock of the first plunge. This flushing of the surface, which brings with it warmth and a sensation of vigor and well being, is the test which shows that the bath is doing good. If this reaction does not occur and one feels cold and depressed and the skin remains of a bluish hue it is a sign that the bath is harmful, and then one must be content with a cool sponging, followed by a brisk rub with a coarse towel. The devotee of cold bathing seldom suffers from cold in the head, provided, of course, he does not violate the ordinary laws of hygiene regarding eating, sleeping and ventilation, and, if he does take cold, he is in condition to throw it off before it invades the bronchial tubes or lungs. Sufferers from poor circulation, which shows itself by cold feet and icy fingers, are benefited by the morning cold bath, and this in the case of one who habitually has cold feet may be profitably supplemented by a cold footbath at bedtime, followed then, as always, by a brisk rubbing with a coarse towel.

GRAY COVERT TOPCOAT.

This long hip length topcoat is of English gray covert cloth. It has a semi-fitting back, with a seam down the middle. The front is made with a long seam from the shoulder to the bottom of the coat. Tailored pockets and a small inlaid velvet collar complete this natty garment.

THE BLACK BORDER.

Every one who has lost a dear relative wishes to show respect in various ways and the use of black edged envelopes and note paper is one of the most common forms of manifesting one's sentiments. In justice to others one ought to examine the question somewhat more deeply.

There is no disputing that the receipt of a letter with this unmistakable sign of death is a shock to most people. At once a sudden anxiety seizes us and our heart sinks at the thought that sister or brother, mother or father, has suddenly been taken from us. In many instances we find from a second glance that the handwriting is that of a business friend or a mere acquaintance, and we are relieved, however sorry we may feel for the friend. Nevertheless, we have had a shock that may produce unpleasant consequences.

The safest course to adopt, as we may judge from the above reasoning, is to use such envelopes only for writing to those affected by the occurrence. Many do follow this course, but there is still a respectable minority who do not. A further suggestion is that no one should use such signs of bereavement until one is sure that the correspondent has heard the sad news.

One objection that is raised to this last suggestion is that the very sight of the black edge warns the recipient to prepare for bad news and so assists the writer of the letter in the melancholy task to be performed. That seems questionable. The sight of the black border shocks the receiver, whereas in the letter the intelligence can be gently broken by a little circumlocution.—W. L.

SO CALLED BEAUTIFIERS.

Painting the eyes and eyelids is in some countries considered a great aid to the fascination of the female orbs. A Circassian to be really lovely must, in addition to being very corpulent, have golden hair and jet black lashes. Kohl is used by the Persian and Armenian women to lengthen their eyes. The bazaar women and nautch girls of most eastern countries dye their finger nails with henna, and where they wish to be thought great ladies they allow their finger nails to grow to an immense length and keep them in finely wrought gold sheaths.

FIGHT BEEF TRUST

Attorney General Will Urge a Speedy Trial

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—After a conference with the president yesterday afternoon Atty.-Gen. Moody gave out a statement about beef trust cases. It dealt with the so-called immunity of beef witnesses, about which there has been much speculation.

He takes the ground that immunity was not promised, and cannot legally be claimed, stands by Commissioner of Corporations Garfield in his conduct of the investigation, and announces that the government will not only "resist these pleas in bar," but will urge a speedy trial of them.

Mr. Moody decided to issue the statement for two reasons. He has recognized the right of the public to know about the legal proceedings, as far as such information can be given without prejudicing the government's interests. That was the reason of his beef trust speech in Massachusetts last summer. He also thought that many misrepresentations regarding the immunity claims should be corrected.

The statement continues:

"Ten separate pleas in bar have been filed, each one of them alleging facts, which, it is claimed, ought to bar the government from proceeding further in this case.

"Eight of these pleas are based upon the alleged conduct of Mr. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, in making an investigation of the affairs of the defendants in pursuance of the authority conferred upon him by law and in special obedience to the resolution of the house of representatives requiring him to make such investigation. The resolution under which Mr. Garfield acted is as follows:

"'Resolved, that the secretary of commerce and labor be, and he is hereby, requested to investigate the causes of the low prices of beef cattle in the United States since July 1, 1903, and the alleged unusually large margins between the prices of beef cattle and the selling prices of fresh beef, and whether the said conditions have resulted in whole or in part from any contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of commerce among the several states and territories, or with foreign countries; also, whether the said prices have been manipulated in whole or in part by any corporation, joint stock company or corporate combination engaged in commerce among the several states or with foreign nations, and if so, to investigate the organization, capitalization, profits, conduct and management of the business of such corporations, companies and corporate combinations and to make early report of his findings according to law.'

POWERS OF GARFIELD.

"Under the act creating the department of commerce and labor the commissioner of corporations has the right to subpoena and compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence, and to administer oaths, but with regard to all persons who are subpoenaed to testify or to produce documentary evidence, it is provided that immunity from prosecution shall be given to them if they obey the commissioner's subpoena, except that they shall be liable for perjury for giving false testimony.

"The pleas in bar allege in various forms: (1) That Mr. Garfield did compel the several defendants to attend under subpoena and testify and produce documents before him; (2), That he waived the oath which he was authorized to require of them; (3) That he promised them for what they did with respect to the giving of testimony and production of documents, that they should receive the immunity provided by law, and (4) that the testimony thus obtained from the defendants was delivered to the department of justice and to the district attorney, and by the latter used before the grand jury to obtain the indictment.

"It is stated by the government that Mr. Garfield did make the investigation required by the resolution of the house of representatives, and that he did receive from certain of the defendants oral information and access to the books of the defendant corporations. It is, however, contended by the government that the information and access to the books were given voluntarily by the defendants.

"The government denies in point of fact that Mr. Garfield did compel the several defendants to attend and testify and produce documents before him, or that he did subpoena any of the defendants to appear before him and testify or produce documentary evidence; or that he waived the oath which he was authorized to require of them; or that he promised them an immunity whatever in the premises; or that any evidence obtained from the defendants was delivered to or used by the department of justice or the district attorney before the grand jury which found the indictment.

"The attorney general asserts in the most positive terms that none of the information obtained by Mr. Garfield was used before the grand jury, and further says that he is informed by Mr. Garfield and believes that at certain stages of the investigation the defendants declined to give information unless they were put in a position to obtain the immunity provided by the act of congress, and required by the constitution of the United States, and that when such instances occurred, acting after conference with the attorney general, Mr. Garfield refrained from pursuing the inquiry further and made no other attempt to obtain information, documentary or otherwise, along those lines.

"After full conference with Mr. Garfield the answer of the government has been prepared by Mr. Pagin, under the supervision of the attorney general, and with the assistance of the district attorney, and will be taken to Chicago and filed in the court there early next week.

"The seventh plea in bar urges that the government unlawfully seized certain papers of the defendants and submitted them to the grand jury, contrary to the rights conferred upon them by the constitution. The government denies that it obtained any papers otherwise than by the orderly process of a subpoena direct and to the person who had the custody of them.

"The eighth plea sets up as a defence the fact that the government heretofore proceeded against the defendants by a petition under the Sherman act, under which petition an injunction against the continuance of the combination was issued about three years ago, and was affirmed last winter by the unanimous opinion of the supreme court, the attorney general himself having personally argued the case for the government in that court, and claims that by taking this action the government elected to pursue the civil remedies, and is disbarred from resorting to a prosecution under the criminal provision of the anti-trust law.

"The government admits the facts, but contends that they constitute no bar to a criminal prosecution.

"The answer prepared by the government will raise a mixed issue of law and fact, to be determined, not by the attorney general or the district attorney, but by the court in which the proceedings are pending.

"The government will resist these pleas in bar and urge a speedy trial of them; but the attorney general refrains from expressing any opinion upon them, as it would obviously be improper for him to do so while the questions are pending in the district court."

WOMAN SMOKED

THEN SHE TOOK A DRINK FROM A FLASK.

NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 17.—When the Rockport express on the eastern divison of the Boston & Maine railroad, due in Boston at 5.30 p. m., arrived at Beverly Monday afternoon, a woman, stylishly dressed, with an escort, boarded the train and walked through a passenger coach to a seat at a card table.

One or two men, thinking the couple did not know it was a smoking car, let them into the secret, but received a stony glare.

As the train drew out of Salem, the woman reached down into a pocket, brought out a package, extracted a cigarette, rolled and lit it. A few minutes later the woman drew a flask from her escort's pocket, took a long drink and offered the men opposite a share. This upset the car, and the excitement continued until Boston was reached.

LOWELL EAGLES

RECEIVED A SILK FLAG FROM CONGRESSMAN AMES.

The regular meeting of the Eagles was held last night and one of the features of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful silk flag to the local aerie by Congressman Butler Ames.

The evening's program consisted of piano selection, Arthur Mills; song, Joseph McDonald; song, Hamilton [illegible]; presentation of flag, Congressman Butler Ames, singing of "Star Spangled Banner," audience; song, "Star [illegible] Flag," James E. Donnelly; acceptance of flag, President James Barry; recitation, Thomas H. Corcoran; song, John J. Kane; address by Mayor Casey; songs by Smith and Rogers who are playing this week at the Boston theatre, Shannon, the human photograph; clog dance, Fred Nason; song, Bernard Medlar and others.

On the presentation of the flag and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" much enthusiasm was shown and when Mayor Casey entered the audience shouted and cheered to the echo.

It was near the midnight hour when the affair was brought to a close. There were delegations present from Nashua, Lawrence and Haverhill.

See Eugene G. Russell's ads. in today's papers. It will pay you.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

That great naval play "The Embden," is playing to packed houses this week at the Academy of Music, and well it might for the manner in which it is presented by the members of the Huntington-De Deyn stock company is little short of perfect. In fact, letters of congratulation from the dramatizer is sufficient evidence that the play is being portrayed in a capable manner. In Mr. Frank Whittier, the popular actor of the stock company, is found a man who can with apparent ease portray one of the most difficult roles ever dealt out to an actor. Curtain call after curtain call has kept the man in the tiles busily engaged for the climaxes are so thrilling and realistic that the audience is not satisfied with one curtain.

Next week the first comedy of the season, "Naughty Rebecca," will be presented by the company and Mr. Wright Huntington will be seen in the leading role. The play is strictly up-to-date. Lady Maggie and Sophie Greythorne resolve to test their respective husbands' morals. They employ Rebecca [illegible] maid, as their catspaw, with the [illegible] unexpected and lamentable [illegible].

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—At a special meeting of the [illegible] of trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance company in this city today, at which a preliminary report of the recently appointed special investigation committee was submitted President Richard A. McCurdy caused a stir by announcing that at his own request his salary had been cut in half from $150,000 to $75,000 a year. This action was taken at a meeting of the finance committee and Mr. McCurdy said it was [illegible] reducing the expenses of the company.

Salaries of [illegible] executive officers of the company also have been reduced, [illegible] amounting in all to between $[illegible] per annum.

LACK OF NERVE

Mr. Hennessy Criticizes Mayor Casey

No Liquor Interests Behind Hennessy

A Hennessy rally was held in the ward [illegible] ward room, last evening, the [illegible] place in Lowell to hold such an affair, and those who did attend were nearly frozen as the hall was without heat, while most of the audience had to stand during the rally. The meeting was called to order shortly after eight o'clock by James E. O'Donnell who said in part:

After much consideration and thought each party annually selects a man to carry its banner and it selects a man who it believes will be loyal to the interests of the party, a man who if placed in power will name, select, appoint and assist all democrats. He may be in danger of being called a partisan but what of that, a good democrat is always a good citizen, an honest man is honest regardless of his party affiliation. Yet we ask why there should be opposition to the present mayor in his own party. Is it a crime for the party to have a choice? Is it a crime to say that the present mayor has not been a loyal democrat? There are four official acts by which Mayor Casey has shown that he is not a good democrat. The first was the naming of a republican superintendent of cemeteries. The second, the naming of a republican member of the board of health. The third, adopting a republican measure, the abolition of the overseers of the poor and the fourth, the failure to veto properly the redistricting order." Mr. O'Donnell then made the claim that because of the redistricting order Dr. Walker can be elected to the school board for only one more term and that Messrs. Conley and Murphy can hold only one term in the legislature.

J. Joseph O'Connor was then introduced and he said in part: "I do not purpose to take the laurel from the brow of any son of the democracy, but I feel it is my privilege to ask our mayor for an account of his stewardship. The time has not come when we will refrain from examining the records of our servants in office. I don't expect to be rewarded. As I have said before I ask nothing of Mr. Hennessy and less of Mr. Casey. I speak from an honest conviction. The act of Mayor Casey when he failed to veto the redistricting order struck at every democrat in Lowell and destroyed our work of 30 years in behalf of the democracy. He understood how to veto other measures. Why was his arm stricken with paralysis on the veto of the most important measure?"

MR. HENNESSY SPEAKS.

Mr. Hennessy delivered the principal speech of the evening and was frequently interrupted with applause. He said in part: "I have lived here all my life, [illegible] years and am a Lowell product, a product of the schools of Lowell and of [illegible] institutions. I offer no [illegible] conceding the right to be a democratic candidate for mayor. The law of the commonwealth has said [illegible] be a democrat or thou shalt [illegible]. Thou shalt not change [illegible] affiliation without giving three [illegible]. The law says that no [illegible] serve two masters. All sunbeams [illegible] and saw signs of [illegible] to the party. Ever since Mr. Casey has been in office there has [illegible]. He sends a letter saying [illegible] not conduct a responsive [illegible]. How is the effrontery [illegible] not explain his acts [illegible] understand why he [illegible] of personal friends [illegible] some of the promises made [illegible] what his attitude in refusing [illegible] official acts [illegible]. His party demands that he [illegible] campaign [illegible] the democratic ticket [illegible] afraid to be fooled. I want [illegible] plenty. If Mr. Casey [illegible] himself and a little coterie of [illegible] to know it. Enough have [illegible] carried in the face.

For some motive Mayor Casey pulled [illegible] back after appointing [illegible] of health. When I asked Alderman Allen about it he said: 'We are [illegible] people. We republicans can [illegible] democrats every time. We jollied Mayor Casey and made him pull [illegible] back.'

One great question I take to Mayor Casey is his lack of nerve. He lacked nerve there and he lacked it in the liquor analysis. Everyone in Lowell was behind him in that matter. Even the liquor dealers wanted it. How does he cover himself up in that matter. He goes to the city solicitor and the latter said that litigation might ensue. None ensued when the state board put the Red Fox ale out of business and brought the Harvard into court. It is not a sufficient excuse to say that the city would be sued. I take no exception to a man because he votes the republican ticket but I take exceptions to republican leaders corralling democratic officials. We never hear of a republican giving anything to a democrat, but when a democrat jumps from his party the republican press and leaders cover him with glory and call his act non-partisanship.

The question of redistricting is [illegible], despite the fact that Mr. Casey would have you believe that it has yet to come before the supreme court. Lawyers were employed from Boston [illegible] blunder of Mayor Casey's and they took the case to court. The petition was dismissed and the incident is closed. No appeal was taken and the supreme court has no jurisdiction over the matter unless the republican city solicitor petitions Judge Loring to have it brought up which is most unlikely.

Mr. Casey's friends have been responsive in a way. At his meeting last night Mr. Pratt after a quietude of 20 years becomes aroused and is out on the rostrum again. My old friend Cummings, one of the mayor's many appointees to the board of health, Drury and the others. None of these men have given justification why Mayor Casey should receive a renomination. I believed it was the duty of someone to stand as a candidate to see if Mayor Casey was honest in these acts. Mayor Casey hasn't ever said that he made a mistake on the redistricting veto. He should have known what he was doing. That veto excites my suspicion. If we are to be sacrificed for Casey let us go to the front for Casey, but if we are to stand up for our party let us go to the polls and repudiate him.

There is the police commissionership, more important than the mayoralty. Where were Cummings, Pratt, Drury and the Pearsons two years ago when Casey was running? The question is the police commissionership. That's what they're out for. They have it all cut and dried but the democratic party wants a responsive campaign. There is too much interest in the question of liquor interests controlling the police commissionership. I will say right here and I must have the question settled. I believe that that position should be of no more importance than any other head of department. Men's ambitions are crushed out on account of it. I am allied to no brewery or liquor interests. There are no professional politicians in my ranks. I am the candidate of such men as created Casey. The young men behind me have been fooled by Casey. I would like to see the day in Lowell when this question of police commissionership is thoroughly eliminated from our politics. Men seem to be afraid to get away from it. If I am nominated I will tell all the people who I will name as police commissioner if elected. With that as a slogan the democratic party can elect me. A mayor should maintain the integrity of his party and not truckle to republican leaders, and I draw a distinction between leaders and republican voters. If elected I will give democrats the preference as far as that preference is not a detriment to the city."

In conclusion Mr. Hennessy referred to Mayor Casey's statement in his inaugural favoring a board of public works and declared himself against commissions, and in favor of keeping all powers in the hands of the people. If we must have a commission, he said, let us have one of three men to run the whole city and have them elected by the people.

Marconi Communicates With the Argentine Republic from Mid-Ocean.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Mr. George H. Munroe, of the firm of Munroe & Munroe, engaged in the promotion of the Marconi system, is in Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, where he is engaged in the preliminary work of organizing a South American Marconi company. On Saturday Mr. Munroe had occasion to communicate with Mr. Marconi, who has been in this city for two weeks. Mr. Marconi, however, had sailed from New York Saturday morning and the message remained undelivered until Monday morning, when it was called to the attention of Mr. Alexander Munroe. The latter immediately caused the message to be transmitted to Mr. Marconi on board the steamship Etruria, and later in the afternoon he received information from his brother that Mr. Marconi's reply had been received at Buenos Ayres in due time. The reply was despatched in both English and Italian, the latter language being that most prevalent in Argentine. At the time the message was despatched to the Etruria that vessel was over a thousand miles distant from New York and more than 6000 miles from Buenos Ayres.

Mother of Noted Pianist Tells of Receiving Comforting Message While On Her Way To America.

From the Chicago Tribune of Nov. 1: The mother of Mrs. Fanny Richter-Fuchs is enthusiastic in her praise of the discovery of the Marconi wireless telegraph, which enabled her to receive messages in mid-ocean from the bedside of her daughter, a pianist, who was lying seriously ill in Chicago.

The mother was summoned to Chicago from Berlin on Oct. 20, when it was thought her daughter was hopelessly ill. In mid-ocean she received constant bulletins of her daughter's progress toward recovery, from Hans Richter-Fuchs, her daughter's husband.

PRINCE LOUIS SENDS THANKS BY WIRELESS

From the Albany, New York, Argus:

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—Prince Louis of Battenburg today sent the following Marconigram from the warship Drake to the governor-general of Canada:

"Before the shores of Canada disappear from view, I desire, on behalf of the captains, officers and men of the second cruiser squadron to thank our Canadian fellow subjects of all classes, through your excellency, for their hearty and hospitable welcome during the last three and a half months, which makes us leave these shores with genuine regret and the hope that it may be our good fortune to be sent once more across the Atlantic.

"LOUIS, Battenburg."

Kronprinz Wilhelm Spreads the Good News at Sea—Lucania Got the Message First, But She Knew It From Shore—On La Lorraine the Passengers Went Wild With Delight—New York Got Word From Nantucket.

(From New York Sun of Sept. 3, 1905.)

The North German Lloyd steamship, Kronprinz Wilhelm, which sailed hence on Tuesday afternoon for Plymouth, Cherbourg, and Bremen, started the pinwheel of her wireless buzzing just after she got outside the Hook to let the world afloat coming from the shore of Europe know that peace had been established between Russia and Japan. The electrical offshoots of the whirling wheel extended 200 miles or more on every side. The first big liner that caught the peace message was the Cunarder Lucania, which arrived on Friday night from Liverpool and Queenstown but, with her powerful receiver taking in half the width of the Atlantic, the Lucania already knew the news from the American shore.

On Thursday, the French liner, La Lorraine, which arrived yesterday from Havre, got within touch of the peace message and absorbed it with great enthusiasm. La Lorraine's wireless could not get hold of far away Nantucket, which also was sending out the message. The impression aboard La Lorraine was that peace was far away. Passengers who had invested in Russian bonds were gloomy as the last news they had read before leaving Havre was that there was small chance of an agreement between the peace envoys.

The Kronprinz's news set the pessimistic investors wild with delight, everybody else, French, English, American, or what not was also mighty well pleased. Those who were first in front of the bulletin posted on the Lorraine announcing that peace had come, cheered.

The American liner, New York, from Southampton and Cherbourg, did not get in touch with the Kronprinz. Her passengers were not aware until Friday afternoon that peace had been declared. She received then a wireless from Nantucket, which wound up thus:

"Roosevelt, hailed peacemaker, has been showered with congratulatory telegrams from all heads of European nations. General satisfaction all the world over."

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, minister of marine and fisheries, has completed a tour of inspection of the harbors and seacoast of the Canadian Atlantic frontier. He made a thorough examination of all buildings and equipments under the control of his department, but gave his primary attention to the problems of, and aids to navigation. The minister and his party were present when the first wireless message was sent from the recently completed Marconi station at Partridge Island, off St. John's harbor, to Cape Sable. The minister's tour included a trip to Sable Island, where he thoroughly tested the Marconi wireless installation. These two stations and the other Marconi headquarters which the inspection board tested, were found to be working perfectly and the officials expressed their complete satisfaction in the work and results of the Marconi system.

The violent storm which swept the Atlantic during the week of October 7 to 14 afforded the Marconi installations on board the great trans-Atlantic liners an opportunity to again prove their practical value. Day and night the operators kept their apparatus at work relaying and receiving messages. With this aid the vessels at all points on the ocean were acquainted with weather conditions at all other points and the invaluable information aided the captains in the handling of their craft with the minimum danger and inconvenience. The Campania, which was in the path of the gale at its worst, was boarded by a heavy sea which slightly damaged the vessel and injured some of the passengers. Notice of the mishap was sent by the Campania's Marconi operator to other vessels on the same course and the agents on shore were notified. This allowed the agents ample time to prepare for repairing the boat as soon as she docked, and would have allowed for the special care of the injured passengers had their injuries been so severe as to need extra attention upon landing.

The last eastern voyage of the Etruria was accompanied by a noteworthy accomplishment on the part of the Marconi system. When in mid-ocean, the Etruria rescued the crew of the sinking bark, Orion, in a frightful storm. The Etruria was still over 500 miles from land when Marconi messages were dispatched from the Etruria, giving full details of the rescue to her agents and the Associated Press. These messages were also received by other vessels at sea at the time and they were thereby warned of the presence of the derelict on the trans-Atlantic route of the big express steamers. Had the sea not been in a sustained turmoil because of the protracted storm, some of these vessels—as they signified their intention of doing when receiving the detailed information—would have taken steps to burn or destroy the derelict and remove thereby one of the greatest terrors of navigation. At least ten of the great steamers were put in possession of the facts by the Marconi messages, and they, in turn, signalled others not equipped with wireless. In contrast to a few brief years ago when intercommunication at sea was somewhat rare, this accomplishment of the Marconi system entitles it to a place among the wonders of the world. Not only is it a wonder, but a direct and vast benefit to humanity.

The tremendous benefits accruing to travelers and the several steamship companies as a result of the opening of the Marconi station at Sable Island, off the coast of Nova Scotia, is best exampled by the following, which is clipped from a daily paper and which is but a sample of the items to be seen almost any day among the telegraphic brevities or shipping notes of the metropolitan press.

"The Cunard line steamer, Lucania, from Liverpool and Queenstown for New York, is reported as having been in communication by wireless telegraph with the station at Sable Island at 11 p. m. (G. M. T.) Wednesday, when the vessel was 803 miles from Nantucket lightship.

"The Lucania will probably dock about 8 a. m. Saturday."

It is shown that, with such a warning, persons may remain in Chicago or points further west until notified of a vessel's approach and still be in New York and at the dock in time to meet incoming friends.

The practical advantages of the Marconi installations on all the important liners continue to multiply almost daily. The following item appeared in the New York Times of September 27:

"James H. Moore will arrive this morning on the Oceanic. He got into communication with the stock market yesterday by means of wireless telegraphy. Wall street people outgoing and incoming are regularly supplied nowadays with stock market bulletins as far out at sea as they can be reached by wireless telegraphy, and it remains only for some enterprising stock exchange firm to establish branch offices on the big liners."

The latest practical adaptation of wireless is in connection with the regulations of clocks in the city of Vienna. All the city clocks and 700 or 800 private clocks are to be regulated by wireless from one central depot. Exhaustive experiments to date have produced completely satisfactory results and the lead of Vienna will surely be followed by other enterprising cities in all quarters of the Globe.
